Letter From Egypt

DESCRIBING TRIP THERE.
Lafaran Barracks, Afoffia, Cairo, Egypt.

Dear Mother & Father.—We are landed safe in Egypt at last, but we thought we would be in the firing line by this time, for last Sunday we were quite near it and we left it and came here, as they had plenty of troops there for a while. I don't know, I'm sure, but I hope by the time you get this we will be there.

Well, I must tell you a little about the trip since we left Aldershot, as I know you would like to know all about it. Well, we left Aldershot, bound for the Dardanelles, on Thursday, August, 19th, 1915, at 11.30 p.m. As we travelled in the dark we could not see any sights, so most of us fell asleep till 5.30 next morning, when we got to a big city called Exeter, where the Mayor had provided something to eat for us. She was there herself giving out the tea, etc. We travelled on till 8.30, when we arrived at Plymouth. We were shunting for a long while in the docks till we got right down to the wharf. About 10.30 we went aboard the steamer all you had to do was just get on the train and right into the steamer. At 6.30 p.m. Saturday we left the pier and at sunset we were passing through Plymouth Sound, with two destroyers escorting us out. They were with us all night, and the next morning they left us again. We were going along o.k. and everything was smooth and calm, and on Monday night we sighted a light on the African coast, then a little further on we sighted a light on Cape St. Vincent, and about 11 p.m. we passed through the Straits. We all thought we were going to stop there. We kept near the African coast all along till we got to Malta. We went in the harbor about noon on Thursday. It was there you could see great sights—navies coming out in small boats, etc., selling fruit, etc., hoisted up over the sides in baskets.

We left the following morning, Friday, at 7 o'clock. It was very smooth all along, and at 7 a.m. Sunday, 28th, we got to the island called Lemnos, which was first occupied by the Turks and the British took it from them. We were in the harbor all day; we went right up to the other end of it. I suppose we passed along by six hundred ships of all kinds—warships, torpedo boats and destroyers, submarines, troop ships, Red Cross boats and various other kinds. At 7 o'clock Sunday evening we left Lemnos, bound for Alexandria—because there were plenty of troops there at the time. They say they are filled up with them. My pen is after running short of ink and I must get some. I never had any in it since I left Stob's, so you see it is a different kind, this is Gypsy ink. Well, we had a good time

Wedding Bells.

A very pretty wedding was solemnized at the Church of England School Chapel, Norris' Arm, on Wednesday, Sept. 29th, when Miss Mona E. Ludlow, of The Cove, was united in the Holy Bonds of Matrimony to Mr. John T. Cheesman, of Burin. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. Mr. Stead, of Bell Isle, a friend of the groom who went down for the occasion. The bride who was given away by her father looked charming in a dress of white silk with overdress of bridal lace with veil and wreath of orange blossoms, and carried a bouquet of lilies of the valley and fern. The bridesmaid, Miss Annie Cheesman, sister of the groom, was also prettily dressed in white embroidered voile. Miss Lucy Hynes, niece of the bride, acted as flower girl, and looked very dainty in dress of white net over pale blue, and carried a basket of pink and white flowers. The groom was supported by Mr. A. J. Ludlow, brother of the bride. After the ceremony a reception was held at the home of the bride's parents where quite a number of guests attended, and the health of the newly-married pair was duly honored, after which the bridal party left by motor boat for Bishop's Cove, returning to Norris' Arm where they connected with the east-bound express en route to Burin, which is to be the future home of the happy pair. The bride was the recipient of many beautiful and useful presents. The groom's present to the bride was a gold pendant set, with pearls.

FLEET-PARSONS.

A very pretty wedding was solemnized at the Cochrane Street Methodist Parsonage by the Rev. C. A. White-marsch, on Wednesday, September 29th, when Miss Blanche Fleet was united in the sacred bonds of matrimony to Mr. William Parsons. The bride was prettily dressed in a costume of saxe blue with hat to match, and was given away by her father and attended by her sister, Miss Elsie Fleet, and Miss Ethel Parsons, sister of the groom, who were neatly gowned in lawn costumes with black picture hats; while the groom was ably supported by Mr. George Summers. After the ceremony the bridal party drove to Topsail where supper was served. Return was made to Chapel Street where they will reside in future. Many and useful were the gifts received testifying to the esteem in which the young couple are held.

Denounces All Opponents of Munition Shipments

Roosevelt Fires Hot Shot at the "Pacifists" who Advocate Prohibition of Sale of Munitions to Allies.—They are "Serving the Devil"—Calls Proposal to Pay Germany for Belgium Immoral.

"Every man or woman who in the name of peace now advocates the refusal on the part of the United States to furnish arms and munitions of war to those nations who have had the manliness to fight for the redressing of Belgium's wrongs is serving the devil and not the Lord," declares former President Roosevelt in the Metropolitan Magazine for October.

"As for the persons who base their actions upon greed in such a crisis as this, little needs to be said. The beef baron or the representative of the cotton interests who wishes to ignore the butchery of our women and children, and the sinking of our ships, by German submarines, and to take sides against the allies so that he may make money by the sale of cotton and beef, is faithless to every consideration of honor and decency. It is entirely fitting that the sheer materialist should in such an issue stand shoulder to shoulder with the professional pacifist, the peace-at-any-price man, and with his sinister brother, the hyphenated American. These men by their actions seek to condone the murder of American men, women and children and the trampling of Belgium into bloody mire. They are false to the cause of humanity. They come perilously near being treasonable to this country. It is hard to decide which is the most abject quality; the greed to the mere materialists or the short-sighted cowardice of the professional pacifist. As for the hyphenated American, he endeavors to serve his foreign fatherland without exposing his own wretched carcass to the danger which would come to him if he served in the trenches beside his fellow-countrymen who have stayed at home—and who at least pretend to no divided allegiance.

"If no duty had been expressly imposed upon the United States in this matter (the German invasion of Belgium), we ought nevertheless to have acted in accordance with the generous instincts of humanity. But as a matter of fact such a duty was expressly imposed upon us by the Hague conventions.

German Methods. "A representative of a great American arms manufactory informed me recently that they had been about to abandon their work prior to the beginning of this war, because the Germans systematically endeavored to undersell them in every country. It has been the settled policy of Germany to drive all other countries out of the business of manufacturing arms and supplies because, of course, if this were once substantially accomplished, the rest of the world would be completely helpless before Germany, and Germany has made it evident that she knows no such things as international morality and looks upon all other nations, including the United States, merely as possible prey.

"The Americans who are now striving to prevent the sale of munitions of war to the countries endeavoring to secure the redress of Belgium's wrongs, that is, the allied powers, are playing the game of a ruthlessly militaristic and anti-American Germany against their own country as well as against the interests of humanity at large. They are profoundly unpatriotic from the standpoint of the interests of the United States. They are committing the gravest possible offense against the cause of international right and of the interests of humanity.

"Germany Sold Arms." "Germany has thriven enormously on the sale of arms to belligerents when she was a neutral; she insisted that such sale be sanctioned by the Hague conventions; she, so far as possible, desires to prevent other nations from manufacturing arms; and if she is successful in this effort she will have taken another stride to world dominion.

"The professional pacifist, hyphenated Americans, and beef and cotton Americans; in short, all the representatives of American mollycoddles, American greed, and downright treachery to America, in seeking to prevent shipments of munitions to the allied militaries against Belgium and against their own country.

leave until we had paid into the German or Japanese coffers a sum, say, twice as much as that which it has been thus proposed to pay into the German coffers in order to get them to surrender Belgium.

"Treachery's Full Flower."

"The full flower of treachery to the duties of the United States and to the rights of the nations of mankind is best observed when the professional pacifist and the hyphenated American strike hands on some public occasion. Recently a so-called labor peace conference was held at Washington for the purpose of intimidating public servants by political threats into refusing to allow the export of arms and munitions to the Allies. The newspapers reported that one of the officials of a German-American organization announced that 'the members of his body would not enlist in the event of war between the United States and Germany.' If this statement is correct, the gentleman in question and those for whom he spoke are traitors and in the event of war should be dealt with in summary fashion. The hyphenated American has been shown in actual practise to be loyal only to that part of his title which precedes the hyphen. He is thoroughly disloyal to the 'American' part of his hyphenated cognomen, and he must be thus disloyal, because of the necessities of the case. And in saying this I wish to emphasize my belief that the professional German-Americans are not a bit worse than all other professional hyphenated Americans. These professional German-Americans sin most bitterly against the real Americans of German blood.

Professional Pro-Germans.

"We have no better citizens than the Americans of German birth or descent who in good faith are fulfilling the duties of American citizenship and who are Americans and nothing else. I happen to know that these men, men who are entitled to the highest honor and the highest respect from all their fellow-Americans, feel a peculiar indignation at the professional German-Americans, the hyphenated Americans, who by their actions during the past year have dishonored their own stock and have done all the damage they could to the country which offered itself as a refuge to them or to their forefathers."
