American Force on Western Front Within Six Weeks

National Guardsmen With Border Experience All Right, Say Missions—Ought to go in Small Batches—Few Weeks' Training Overseas Sufficient Allied Experts Believe.

Washington, April 30.—It will be only a matter of a few days before United States Militia units now mobilized in this country are on their way to the European front, and less than six weeks before they are actually embattled with the Germans on the European front, if the Allies' urgent recommendations to the American Government meet with the approval of the Administration. It became really known to-day, following the disclosures of Marshal Joffre, that the Allies want American troops in batches of several hundred to go at once to Europe aboard every ship that sails. This will obviate necessity for the concentration of enormous numbers of men in one place, and the crippling of food and munition ships to carry them.

National Guard Wanted.

The Allies want mobilized National Guard units which were at the Mexican border, because they feel that these men were equipped by their border work to go at once to the western front and train within sound of the big guns, so they will be tempered for battle in not longer than five weeks.

These American troops, the Allies have assured this Government, will not be fused with French, British, Indian or other troops, but will fight as American units, under their own colors.

The Allies' recommendations to-day were intended to wean this country away from the idea, that before American troops go abroad they must be trained here for months.

The Allies' idea is to take small American units and specialize them, as must be done in this war. This specialized course under the guns is vitally necessary, the Allies pointed out, because they can develop bomb squads, sappers, snipers, trench experts and other highly specialized groups from each unit in a few weeks.

"Not only would this help our fighting strength," said an Ally Commander to-day, "but it would have a most depressing moral effect on the Germans along the entire front."

U. S. Staff Opposed.

This plan, however, conflicts with the desires of the General Staff of the U. S. army. The General Staff does not want any green American troops sent out of the country. The present plan is to train the new drafts intensively in this country.

The General Staff, too, is strongly opposed to any volunteer units and particularly to the proposed division of Colonel Roosevelt. It is opposed to sending small units abroad at any time. The idea is to have an army of at least 500,000 men before any American soldiers are sent abroad.

It is not known yet that the President has taken any position. The Cabinet appears to be divided.

Meanwhile the British Army heads have worked out a plan by which the American flag may soon be on the fighting line. Announcement of the details is expected in the near future by the British authorities.

The plan, in short, is to take the 30,000 soldiers now said to be fighting in Canadian and British regiments, and form an American division. This plan is understood to have been discussed in a tentative way at the conferences here and to have met with approval, though Joffre frowned on such a scheme in his statement.

Huns Hard Pressed for Lubricating Oils.

London, April 30.—When application was made in the Prize Court today for condemnation of several shiploads of lubricating oils and fats as enemy property, counsel read an affidavit from a member of the War

Trade Intelligence Department in which it was stated that the latest reports in the hands of the Government showed 8,000 locomotives were laid up at Essen alone last month on account of wear and tear caused by the scarcity of lubricating oils in Germany, or by the employment of bad lubricants. The lubrication problem of railroad engines was said to be one of the most pressing problems in Germany.

THE BATTLE CALL.

When a battle steeds are prancing, and brave men are advancing to knock the foemen silly, will you be there, oh, Willie? Big, strong and double-fisted, why haven't you enlisted? You should require no urging, you should, in warlike manner, be marching "neath the banner, a shotgun on your shoulder, before you're one day older. Your cheap and lame excuses aren't worth a pair of deuces. What if a German kills you? What if a Prussian drills you? If you should be a goner, we'll bury you with honor, and fire a parting volley o'er one who perished bravely. You'll live in song and story, and have all kinds of glory, and you'll look down from Alderm, with haps and white wings laden, and say, "I'm glad I perished, to be thus praised and cherished!" But if you sink and tremble, when fighting men assemble, and do some punk explaining why you're at home remaining, you'll find that shame is near you—the world will flout and jeer you. Big, strong and double-fisted, why haven't you enlisted?

WILLY MASON.

When the Nervous System Broke Down—Queer Feelings in Back of Head Caused Much Alarm. Midland, Ont., May 8th.—Collapse or breakdown of the nervous system leaves one in a most pitiable condition. Strong, healthy-looking women, and men, too, will weep from helplessness and despair. The case reported here was a most severe one, as is indicated by the hysterical condition, the pains in the back of the head and the futility of the many treatments used. This is further evidence that the regular and persistent use of Dr. Chase's Nerve Food for a reasonable length of time will positively restore the most exhausted nervous system. Mrs. S. Sharp, Midland, Ont., writes: "About eleven years ago I had a serious nervous breakdown, and was so bad at times that I could not keep back the tears. I also had a queer feeling in the back of my head. Sometimes I seemed to be going backwards. I could not do any sewing, and finally could do no work at all. I tried other remedies and doctors' medicines, but they only gave me temporary relief. Last Fall I commenced using Dr. Chase's Nerve Food, and had not taken very many until I found I was getting better. I kept on taking them, and am at present greatly improved. I am now able to do my work, and they have strengthened me splendidly. I can highly recommend Dr. Chase's Nerve Food for nervous trouble of any kind." Dr. Chase's Nerve Food, 50c. a box, a full treatment of 6 boxes for $2.50, at all dealers, or Edmondson, Bates & Co., Limited, Toronto. Do not be talked into accepting a substitute. Imitations only disappoint.

SPRINGTIME RENOVATION.

In the Springtime, we dash around from shop to shop selecting our new hats and gowns—but we never give our complexions a moment's consideration & spend a nickel for its improvement.

Many of the modish colors this season are admittedly difficult to wear by the average woman. Take sand and mastic for example, can you imagine a more sorrowful combination than those on a woman with sallow or dull complexions? And the quaint Dolly Varden frocks, fancy a woman

Another Whack at German Shams

FROM HERR HARDEN.

Copenhagen, via London, May 7.—Maximilian Harden, the German "enfant terrible," publishes in the latest issue of Die Ziekunft another frank article exposing to German readers the "shams, pretences and mistakes" of their Government's policy. The article is devoted to the entry of the United States into the war, which Herr Harden warns the people must be taken most seriously, both from the moral side, as a symptom of the weakness of Germany's appeal to the neutral world, and the failure of her foreign policy, and because of the physical aspects of the weight which America will ultimately be able to throw into the scale.

In the article he revises the steps leading to the German and American peace proposals, the proclamation of unrestricted submarine war, and the American decision of a state of war, and declares, with a daring to which probably no other German publicist is equal, that Germany's peace overtures were put forward only as a bridge over which Germany could pass to relentless submarine warfare.

Another article by Herr Harden culminates in an appeal to Germany to put the interior of her house in order and introduce democratic conditions, which the writer says is the only sure basis for future peace. Scarcely less noteworthy than his scathing criticism of German diplomacy (but not that of Count von Bernstorff, former Ambassador to the United States, whose work he praises) is Herr Harden's justification to German readers of America's attitude during the war, and his demolition, for example, of the favorite pan-German arguments that the United States was inspired solely by "dollar chasing," and looked upon war only as a source for enormous profits from munition supplies.

Herr Harden condemns the limitations of the peace offer of the Central Powers, whose purpose was, he says, to pave the way for a declaration of submarine war, and the rejection of President Wilson's offer of mediation, and the German official efforts to deceive and mislead the President regarding the coming submarine campaign. A rupture of relations was inevitable, from President Wilson's notes, the moment this was proclaimed, but Herr Harden believes that it might have been limited to this and armed neutrality if it had not been for the overtures looking to an alliance with Mexico and Japan, upon which he lavishes all the language of ridicule and contempt.

"What is now needed," concludes Herr Harden, "is not longing whimpers for peace, not the crazy peace missions of Scheidemann, Ergberger, and other amateur diplomats, but a bold attempt to recognize again the plain truths of the situation and restore worthy freedom of criticism and decision."

The functions of the various organs, especially the liver, must be restored to normal conditions. With the improvements of the liver the sallow tint of the skin disappears and the complexion assumes a healthy hue. The kidneys and intestines require assistance, for, as a rule, they are affected because of complications. A simple and efficient agent for flushing the system is warm water, so many quarts taken a day, at certain intervals. One or two cups before breakfast, between meals and at bedtime.
