Violence Marks Path of Arctic Traders

ANCHORAGE, Alaska, Aug. 40-(A. ?.)—Mystery ships plying the Siber-an arctic laden with whisky, which is bartered to the natives for furs, still take their toll of murder in the piratical traffic, according to Captain Andrew Predersen here, who says he was recently an innocent member of such an expedition. The limit was actual murder, he says, when the liberian government attempted to stop the traffic. Captain Predersen's story follows:

"We sailed out of Nome for what I was told would be a trading voyage to Siberia. I will not tell the names of the owners or skipper of the trader, for reasons best known to myself. At one port the boat took on a large quantity of furs, after getting the natives drunk on moonshine whiskey. An official of the Siberian government came aboard to collect a tax and force payment for the furs. He was thrown overboard and shot. The last I saw of him he was clinging to a piece of ice. I do not know whether he died or was rescued. On the cruise back I heard talk of murdering me because I knew too much. For nights I didn't sleep, and while I rested in the bunk I kept a revolver in my hand ready for ac-

Citizen Police of Iowa Clear State of Outlaw Bands.

Des Moines, Aug. 14.—Iowa, which for many years was the stamping ground of bank robbers, apparently has become the "No-Man's land" for bandits and outlaws, as a result of the activities of 3.800 trained vigilan-

The state bankers' association, which is responsible for the organization of the vigalantes. recently reported that during the six months ending July 1 there was not a bank obbery in lowa-a record unsurpassed in recent years in the Hawk-

Losses sustained by banks and customers in 56 robberies during 1921, before the vigilantes were organized, totalled $228,873.84. During the following year, when the vigalantes were just getting under way, there were 30 robberies and losses of $54.941.85. But $30,000 was obtained in the year just ended.

The record of Iowa, the only state having such an organization, has attracted the attention of bankers and authorities throughout the states and a number have visited here and obtained a working knowledge of the system with a view of having it introduced in their own states.

The vigilantes, armed with army pistols and rifles or sawed-off shotguns and the authority of denuty sheriffs, are, for the most part, exservice men, trained m the use of guns. They are subject to call 24 hours a day, 365 days a year. Their names and telephone numbers are on a special switchboard in the telephone fice of their home town and the operator, calling them out, is allowed a bonus of $25.00 to encourage speedy service.

The vigilantes operate in 800 of the 1.000 towns in the state which have banks. The organization is spreading and probably will be in peration in the other 200 towns before the year is ended.

Banks in each of the 99 counties of the state have pledged the payment of at least $1,000 for the capture or information leading to the arrest and conviction of robbers or burglars attempting to rob or burglarize a bank. The reward is paid immediately upon the capture, dead or alive, of robbers or burglars taken while in the act of committing the crime. Several counties have equipped their vigilantes with armoured auomobiles. One county has barricades erected at intersecting roads, from behind which the bandits are due for rain of lead, should they pass that way. Another county has colored lights for night pursuit, that the rigilantes may identify each other. The same county has provided spiked its, which are stretched across the highways to puncture the tires of the automobiles of the fleeing bandits. In countles where there are airplanes, arrangements have been completed for their use in case of mergency.

COPPIN OF DEAD MASTER FOL-LOWED TO THE GRAVE.

Animal fidelity was illustrated to a emarkable degree at the funeral of Mr. W. Greenwood, who for 40 years was caretaker of Aldershot Borough netery. An old black cat, of which seh had been fond, had sat by the offin since his death, and it followed the funeral to the grave. The aninal then climbed a tree overlooking the mourners, and shortly before the and of the service scratched at earth at the graveside.
