

TUMORS CONQUERED

SERIOUS OPERATIONS AVOIDED

Unqualified Success of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound in the Case of Mrs. Fannie D. Fox.

One of the greatest triumphs of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is the conquering of woman's dread enemy, Tumor.

The growth of a tumor is so sly that frequently its presence is not suspected until it is far advanced.

So-called "wandering pains" may come from its early stages, or the sense of danger may be made manifest by profuse monthly periods, accompanied by unusual pain, from the abdomen through the groin and thighs.

If you have mysterious pains, if there are indications of inflammation or displacement, secure Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound right away and begin its use.

Mrs. Pinkham, of Lynn, Mass., will give you her advice if you will write her about yourself. She is the daughter-in-law of Lydia E. Pinkham and for twenty-five years has been advising sick women free of charge.

Dear Mrs. Pinkham:—
"I take the liberty to congratulate you on the success I have had with your wonderful medicine. Eighteen months ago my periods stopped. Shortly after I felt so badly that I submitted to a thorough examination by a physician and was told that I had a tumor and would have to undergo an operation."

Soon after I read one of your advertisements and decided to give Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound a trial. After trying five bottles as directed the tumor is entirely gone. I have been examined by a physician and he says I have no signs of a tumor now. It has also brought my periods around once more, and I am entirely well. —Fannie D. Fox, 7 Chesnut Street, Bradford, Pa.

Rich, yet dies in squalor.

Mrs. Rose Mason Adams, of Atlantic City, N. J., March 1.—Surrounded by a flock of chickens and her pet dog Mrs. Rose Mason Adams, eighty years old, a miser worth $50,000, died in the house she called home from the effects of a fall when overcome by gas fumes from a dilapidated stove.

Mrs. Adams was a member of a prominent Philadelphia family. Three sisters were summoned from Philadelphia, and had the body removed to their home. A large amount of money was found in the house, besides deeds to valuable property in this city and Philadelphia.

Canal Street in the dark.

Many Places in Tenderloin at Buffalo Closed for Good.

Buffalo, March 1.—At midnight last night the lights were turned out for the last time in many a "tenderloin" resort as the result of an agreement reached several weeks ago between the mayor and the brewers to close up all questionable places.

Several will continue to hold their licenses and declare that if the Buffalo brewers refuse to sell them beer they will buy from out of town brewers.

Most of the places, however, closed for good, at least so far as the old proprietors are concerned.

To increase salaries.

General Advance in U. S. Officers Hinted At.

Washington, March 1.—Senator Gallinger has introduced a bill to readjust the salaries of the general officers of the government to take effect March 4, 1909.

The bill proposes the following salaries: The chief of staff, $75,000; vice-president, $15,000; Speaker of the House of Representatives, $12,000; members of the Cabinet, $15,000; senators and representatives, $7,500.

Bowl to Irish guards' band.

London, March 1.—Lord Strathcona to-day, at the Canadian office, on behalf of Messrs. McNaught and others, of the Toronto Exhibition, presented Colonel Cooper, of the Irish Guards Band, with a silver bowl as a memento of the band's visit to Canada.

Bargains in medicine.

A woman once wrote us that she was not going to buy Scott's Emulsion any more because it cost too much. Said she could get some other emulsion for less money. Penny wise and pound foolish. Scott's Emulsion costs more because it is worth more—costs more to make. We could make Scott's Emulsion cost less by using less oil. Could take less care in making it, too. If we did, however, Scott's Emulsion wouldn't be the standard preparation of cod liver oil as it is to-day.

STAGE-SETTINGS OF PROVINCIAL DRAMA

Throne, Sergeant-at-Arms, Speaker, Colors, and the Chorus of Flying Pages

the stately trend of his movements, has an almost startling effect upon the democratic observer, unaccustomed and unused to the trappings and the suits of office. On the other hand, the whole thing adds immensely to the theatrical impression, and perhaps somewhat to the emotional color of the moment. Even at this stage of the game we are children, every one of us, and we do love our childish toys, call them by what name we will.

For all this, the Speaker is no lay figure in the House. Indeed, with the exception of the clerk, who in many respects seems to be his "portrait in little," the Speaker, at all events during the times of ordinary business routine, is the very hardest worked man in the Chamber.

Members may loiter at their ease, take their hats off or keep them on at their pleasure, read, write letters, even talk across desks like inattentive school boys, but the Speaker must be always alert, always ready, always ceremonious. And the present occupant of the chair seems indeed "to the manner born." It appears as easy for him to go through these frills of exact form, and legislative ritual, as it does for the rest of us to breathe, break bread, or fall asleep when tired nature calls for rest. He is a lieutenant-sovereign born, not made.

Removes His Hat.

Every time a member makes a motion, asks a question, or presents a petition, it is the office of the Speaker to rise from his chair, receive the document from the hand of the page who brings it him, remove his cocked hat, read the nature of the paper presented, listen for an infinitesimal moment in case some one should raise objection, pronounce in deep, stentorian tones the magic word "Carried!" re-hand the document to the waiting page, re-hat himself, re-seat himself, and await the next attack.

During a brisk session, when there are many documents presented, the receiving, reading and submitting of the same, keep the Speaker a pretty busy official. Of course, the acts of rising, lifting the hat, etc., get to be purely mechanical and perfunctory, nevertheless they carry with them a certain amount of physical exertion; and to the looker-on in the gallery the labor seems worthy of the hire. In other words, so long as we will have to pay for them.

But far and away beyond the Speaker for animation and the outward bustle of business that like Chaucer's lawyer "seemeth busier than he is," are the pages; the flying Ganymedes who circulate between the Olympic hosts and their enthroned Jove.

Indeed, no one who has spent an hour in the Chamber but has been called upon to observe what a lively, unconstrained and important part these little fellows, with their "shining morning faces," play in the deliberations of the fathers of the country.

Pages Are Chorus.

No matter what grave matter may be going forward on the floor of the House, these page fellows are the gayest of the gay; and dancing, sliding, running here, there and everywhere, for they seem to be accorded all license of movement though none of speech, form a mute though by no means inglorious chorus to the chief dramatic personae of the slowly moving play.

The page's dress is a modest Eton suit, with a white collar, black tie, and patent leather pumps. His age varies from say ten to thirteen years. Your reporter is not informed just how he comes under the school law, or what his exact relation is to the transient officer.

But all this is really and truly only superficially important, because, in school or out of school, he is gaining an education which falls to the lot of few.

The representative of the Free Press, talked in semi-jocular fashion with several of these lads, and drew from a few of them the quick unhesitating admission that they actually had hopes concerning the ministerial benches of the future. Indeed, one or two of the youngsters have even gone so far as to have already selected a favorite department. Well, they are the life of the future. Let them see visions and dream dreams; and God be with them, every one.

Sit on Steps.

But to return to their present duties, and their, it may not, perhaps, improperly be said, amusements. Now we find a group of the little fellows sitting on the steps of the Speaker's chair awaiting orders; again we see individual mannikins flying out into the middle of the crimson velvet strip to catch a letter which some peremptory and impatient member has dexterously slipped there, to be secured and posted in the great post box under the table; yet again, we watch them running by twos, fours, sixes, in answer to the low whistle or the snapped fingers of their honorable masters. They carry documents, bundles, baskets of pamphlets, notes, messages, and last, if not least, the orators inevitable glass of water. And all is done, with so much energy, good-nature, and even cheerful joy, that it is glad to think the child may indeed be father of the man.—FANFAN.

ELECTROCUTE GIRL TO SAVE POLICEMEN

Counsel for Berthe Claiche in Murder Trial Makes Charge Against Adverse Witnesses

New York, March 1.—Judge Otto Rosalsky, counsel for Berthe Claiche, said in outlining the defendant's case that the defense would attempt to prove that some of the policemen who have testified in the case are attempting to send the defendant to the electric chair in order to save their positions on the police force.

Berthe Claiche, a French girl, was arrested after she had been taken to the Tombs prison, and a physician treated her.

Harry Moynie, called by the defense, said that one night last June he saw the defendant run from a house in Sixth avenue, pursued by a man who struck her in the face. This man resembled Gordon, he said.

A Patrolman Harry Morton said that between June and July 8 he had seen the defendant about 50 times. One night in June, Morton testified he went with Berthe Claiche into Gordon's apartment while she moved her belongings out of that place. He went with her because her face showed evidence of a recent beating, and her neck bore marks as if some one had attempted to strangle her.

Morton denied that he had conspired with Berthe Claiche to lure Gordon to his death.

WAR ON PLUTOCRACY

Eugene Debs Says Labor Leaders Are Bought or Ambushed.

Toledo, O., March 1.—In response to a telegram asking an expression regarding the arrest of President Meyer and Secretary Haywood, of the Western Federation of Miners for complicity in the dynamiting of former Governor Steunenberg, of Idaho, Eugene Debs sent a reply as follows:

"What I have to say is that the latest and boldest stroke of plutocracy will require but little space. It is not talk that is wanted, but action. The issue is clear. Labor leaders that cannot be bought or bullied must be ambushed or murdered. Hay shall see that situation. We must fight."

"Another Haymarket will precipitate a revolution. If murder must be committed it is not to be the working class alone that will furnish the victims this time. A million men will meet the issue with guns. All workingmen and others who have red blood in their veins will rise up against the murderous plot of plutocracy against two innocent men. They have stolen our country, debauched our politics, defied our judiciary, and they propose to murder those who will not abjectly surrender to their brutal domination."

"We have no courts to appeal to. They belong to plutocracy, and I am opposed to spending our means going up against the game of the judiciary. Let mass meetings be held all over the country and workers aroused."

TUG STRUCK A ROCK

Three Out of Five of a Crew Thought to Have Been Drowned.

Gloucester, Mass., March 1.—The tug Daniel Willard, which left Gloucester bound for York, Maine, last night, struck a rock off the Rockport Breakwater early to-day and sank while making the north shore.

Three of the five men on board are believed to have been drowned. Two were rescued by the life-saving crew from Pigeon Cove.

The saved were: Capt. Emmer Sawyer, E. W. Wheeler, fireman.

The drowned: Joseph E. Thompson, engineer; Gregory Pearson, cook; George Griggson, deckhand.

CARNIVAL OF CRIME IN GREAT CHICAGO

Police Trace Less Than Half of Crimes Committed by Bold Robbers

Chicago, March 1.—Night before last five Chicago women were set upon and beaten by highwaymen and some of them robbed. Perhaps the chief of police, by way of reassuring the public, will say that the records of his department show that on the night of February 27, 1905, six women were attacked by robbers, and that the community should congratulate itself on the decline in crime due to the present vigilance of the police, who, by the way, arrested only one of the hold-up men.

Day before yesterday the grand jury returned indictments against four persons for murder and against seventy-one for assaults to kill or to do bodily injury, for burglary and for robbery. This goes to show that considerable crime exists in Chicago. The conditions are even worse than this big batch of indictments indicates. The men who have been caught by the police and indicted for robbery and burglary are outnumbered by the men who have committed those offenses and have not been caught by the police.

There may not be "a carnival of crime" in Chicago, but there is so close an imitation of it that the grand jury thinks the state of affairs is such as to call for a searching inquiry. It would like to have a special grand jury called to look into this question of crime in Chicago and throw some light upon its causes. It is suggested that the dance halls stand in need of thorough investigation.

There is so much grand jury work to be done that that body ought to be in permanent session. It would then be compelled to rush through with its business as it is now. It ought to have an opportunity to go into this matter of dance halls and illegal special bar permits. If the grand jury shall find that the illegal permits continue to be issued after the attention of city officials has been called to the matter, it ought not to stop short with expostulations or professed "moral indignations." It should restrain its hands and call the law-breakers and compel them to face a judge and jury. Perhaps that is the only way in which a vicious practice can be stopped permanently.

The criminals of Chicago are in permanent session. While they are the grand jury ought to be always at work.

BOYS DEBAUCHED

Jury May Indict Chicago Mayor for Dance Hall Evil.

Chicago, March 1.—Mayor Dunne may be indicted by a grand jury on the charge of responsibility for the lawbreaking officially sanctioned in all-night dance halls. This information was reported yesterday in connection with the investigation of the dance hall evil by the February jury.

The alleged responsibility of the mayor lies in his issuance of permits to the organizers of dances and the proprietors of dance halls to sell liquor after 1 a.m., the legal closing hour for all saloons and dramshops. Although no authority for such practice is discoverable in the city code the mayor continues to issue the permits, charging $2.50 each for them.

Investigators of the dance halls this winter have declared that much of the debauchery, principally of boys and girls, is to be laid directly to the wide opening of the saloons sanctioned by the municipal administration.

Five newspaper reporters told the jury of the orgies they had witnessed in dance halls in the last two weeks. Much of the evidence related to the intoxication of minors observed in these resorts.

GOVERNMENT VS. SENATOR

Case for State in Post Office Scandal Closed.

Washington, D. C., March 1.—The Government to-day closed its case in the trial of former State Senator Geo. E. Green, of Birmingham, N. Y., who is being tried on charges of conspiracy in connection with the sale of time-recording clocks to the post office department.

When the Government had rested, counsel for Mr. Green moved the court to dismiss the case on the ground that the testimony is not sufficient to sustain the charges made in the indictment. The court took the motion under advisement until Monday, to which date a recess was taken.

THIS IS SERIOUS.

Hamilton, March 1.—For several years the government and municipalities have been fighting the San Jose scale, which resulted in the destruction of thousands of fruit trees, and the expenditure of a large sum of money.

It was generally thought that the disease had been stamped out, but it is reported that there has been a reappearance of it in the Niagara district, and that there is a danger of it becoming worse than ever unless precautions are taken. Several cases have been reported in Salford township.

At the meeting of the Barton township council on Monday, a deputation will be present to ask that a fruit inspector be appointed to act in conjunction with the Salford inspector.

EXPECT SUCCESS.

Chicago, March 1.—With but five more days to clinch the victory so nearly within their grasp, the leaders of the $10,000 liquor license forces expressed themselves yesterday as satisfied with the outlook for success.

Cleveland, O., March 1.—A deal by which the immensely valuable ore properties of James J. Hill on net Mesaba Range, are to pass into the control of the United States Steel Corporation for a period of thirty years is about to be consummated.

It is estimated that the deposits amount to 300,000,000 tons, which, delivered at Lake Erie ports, would be worth $1,125,000,000.

The terms of the contract provide that the steel corporation shall take a lease on these properties for thirty years, and shall pay for the first two years seventy cents per ton for the ore mined, and 80 cents for the carrying of the ore from the mines to Duluth on Mr. Hill's Great Northern railway.

Local surgeons performed successfully the operation of binding the arteries, but the young man died about five this morning from a clot of blood entering the heart.

HAMILTON PIONEER DEAD

F. W. Fearman Was One of Founders of Waterworks System.

Hamilton, March 1.—Mr. F. W. Fearman, head of the Fearman Pork Packing Company, and one of Hamilton's leading citizens, died this morning after a long illness. He was 80 years of age, and had lived here over half a century.

Mr. Fearman took a great interest in all public affairs, making educational matters his specialty. For seventeen years he was connected with the board of education, for a number of years as chairman. He was the first to begin the agitation for a waterworks system for Hamilton, and also took a foremost part in establishing the public library.

BIG SUM INVOLVED.

Ottawa, March 1.—In the supreme court to-day the hearing was begun of the appeals by the Rutland Railway Company, Mr. E. A. D. Morgan and Mr. F. D. White, against the minister of railways and Hon. Mr. Belue, in reference to the order of the exchequer court judge, accepting the tender of $1,050,000 for the purchase of the Quebec Southern Railway system by Mr. Belue. The Rutland Railway Company appeals as a creditor of the insolvent railway companies for the sum of $69,600, and claims that in view of offers made at the time the judge was ready to give his decision, none of the tenders should have been accepted, but an order should have been made instead for putting up the whole system for sale by public auction.

CARNEGIE IN SIGHT.

Toronto, March 1.—Andrew Carnegie will be in Toronto on April 23 to 25, and Mayor Coatsworth thought it would be a good idea to officially notice his presence in town, and show him what was being done toward the erection of the library. The details were left to the mayor to consider. Controller Ward did not see how he could take part in any function as he had opposed the receiving of the gift from Mr. Carnegie when it came up in council.

HINT TO M'INTYRE.

Kingston, March 1.—A notice of motion was introduced at the last city council meeting by Ald. Elliott, providing that hereafter no city official take any part in municipal, provincial or Dominion politics, the alternative being that he must resign his civic position. This is the result of City Solicitor McIntyre being a candidate for the Dominion and Provincial Houses on several occasions. The matter will be debated at the council's next meeting.
