and a very important one and the Home Journal is tackling it in the right way.

This May number deals with a number of different interesting subjects. Money allowances for wives, the ladies a chance to prove their intelligent handling of the coin. No wonder the girls prefer to earn their money and spend it as they please to begging the head of the family for a few coppers. If you're an unattractive place get into the swing of modern times and fix it up; get your grey matter working and you can probably do it at very little expense; it really takes less money than brains. Collier Stevenson has some suggestive ideas and pictures that may help.

The Mothers' Day movement has spread rapidly in the United States. The Home Journal is leading the movement in Canada for the observance of the second Sunday in May as Mothers' Day—a day for some special remembrance for the person to whom each one of us owes so much. We wish them all success.

ST. JOHN, May 11.—An interesting story of a train running wild while the engineer and the fireman were asleep in the cab, and the subsequent struggles of two brakemen to stop the riddle of running a locomotive and take the train to its destination will be thrashed out before, and probably by the time, of Woodstock, tomorrow afternoon, says the Standard.

On Saturday, April 23, a special C. P. R. freight train left Edmundston for Woodstock. In the cab were Wm. Johnston, the engineer, Roy Craigie, the fireman, both of Woodstock, and it is claimed a bottle or so of the stuff that makes the head of the Moral and Social Reform Council. The train ran to Perth Junction, and then up the branch to Plaster Rock, and back to Perth in the evening without any thing unusually occurring.

But when it set out from Perth on its way to Woodstock the brakemen began to notice that it appeared to have considerable difficulty going up the grades, so presently one of them went forward to the engine to see what the trouble was, and it is claimed found the engineer and fireman under the influence of liquor, and rapidly becoming incapable of performing their duties.

The two brakemen held a conference, and decided that it was up to them to rise to the emergency. Neither had driven an engine before, though they knew something about firing. However, they determined to take the engine by the horns, and putting on a bold countenance, they invaded the cab and assumed charge.

The two brakemen had no desire to be stalled in the wilderness over Sunday, and after monkeying with levers till they found out which was what, and—in the fear of blowing themselves up or of being killed—dead—solved the problem of pumping up the boiler, they finally got the hang of things, and managed to bring the train into Woodstock at 2 o'clock Sunday morning, though not without having to stop a few times to get up steam.

In due course the C. P. R. authorities issued warrants against the engineer and fireman, and they were arrested in Woodstock. Last Thursday they were up for preliminary hearing before Magistrate Dibble and the case was adjourned until tomorrow afternoon.

Weldon and McLean of St. John are conducting the prosecution for the C. P. R. and J. C. Hartley of Woodstock is acting for the defense which is a denial of the charge.

The case is the first of its kind to come before the courts of this province, and the progress of it will be watched with interest by railway men everywhere. Section 414 of the railway act makes it a criminal offence for train crews to be under the influence of liquor while on duty. The maximum penalty on summary conviction is a fine of $400 or 5 years imprisonment, the sentence to depend on the extent of the damage to life and property.
