THE HOUSEHOLD

FOR MOTHERS.

Children need models more than criticism. To bring up a child in the way he should go, travel that way yourself. The sooner you get a child to be a law unto himself, the sooner you will make a man of him.

We can never check what is evil in the young unless we cherish what is good in them. Stories first heard at a mother's knee are never wholly forgotten, a little spring that never dries up in our journey through scorching years. Line upon line, precept upon precept, we must have in a home. But we must also have severity, promptness and the absence of petty fault-finding if home is to be a nursery fit for heaven's growing plants.

There are no men or women, however poor they may be, but have it in their power by the grace of God to leave behind them the grandest thing on earth, character; and their children must rise up after them and thank God that their mother was a pious woman, or their father a pious man.—Dr. McLeod.

SERVING DISHES IN SUMMER.

One of the hot weather reminders to housekeepers is that food intended to be served hot should really be hot, and should be served on warm plates in summer, as well as in winter. Dishes on a warm day must be served on a plate that is not sufficiently warm. The flavor of soups is preserved better when served in quite hot plates, and the breakfast toast is much more tempting on a plate that keeps it warm than one on which it quickly cools and toughens.

The plates in summer may be warmed by lighting one gas burner and turning it low under the oven, or by turning hot water run over them and polishing them ready to be sent to the table. On the other hand, the salads, and cold desserts, needing chilled plates, can be accommodated by placing the dishes on a shelf in the refrigerator for some time, taking them out a few minutes before they are needed that they may lose their cold, clammyness, and the delicate taste of such finds on china fresh from the ice-box. It must be remembered that fine china is injured by sudden changes, and should not be subjected to either rapid heating or rapid chilling.

One housekeeper, who is very fond of flowers on the table at all times throughout the summer, uses them frequently as garnishes, and sometimes carries them about with her. There are plenty of ways of beautifying the table with flowers, without utilizing them as garnishes. Indeed, there are very few kinds of blossoms that do not seem quite out of place in the immediate decoration of edibles. A garnish should be something edible itself, like hard boiled egg, lemon, cream, parsley, candied fruits, with deserts, etc. The nasturtium has ornamental leaves with a sharp, spicy flavor, and is not unsuitable for garnishing meats and salads, if one signs for a floral decoration at all. A long-stemmed pink rose or two placed at the side of a dish on which is a jellied or frozen dessert fresh from the mould, makes it pleasing to the eye. Sometimes, a few freshly-gathered pansies may be used, but lavish floral garnishing is apt to suggest tiny insects to the mind of the imaginative beholder, and at best gives the effect of "overdoing it."

THE BOON OF SLEEP.

If you are to work well, you must sleep well. If you are to keep your health and strength, and youth-to carry your powers of work with you to the last—you must sedulously pay court to your pillow. It will commonly be found that the men who carry their years lightly are those who possess the faculty of sleeping at will. If you have much work to do, you must not count time spent in sleep to be time lost. It is time gained. It is an essential part of the duty of the day. I had once an old servant who used to say, "Well, I have done my work, I have cleaned up, and now I'll get my sleeping done." Sleeping was, in her philosophy, a thing to be done—not a passive state to be endured, but a part of her duty. And every woman should consider it. Let him sleep in his bed, if he can, at proper hours of the night; if not, let him sleep at any old time, when nature invites him to rest himself. If we do not play tricks with ourselves, if we work hard without overworking ourselves, sleep will rarely be coy to us. As a general rule it may be said that busy men are better sleepers than idlers and that mental labor contemplates more to sound sleep than bodily fatigue. I believe that only mere novices in work are kept awake by the thought of it. Experienced workmen acquire a habit of shaking off its onerousness when they will. If there be one thing in life for which I am profoundly thankful to the Giver of all good gifts, it is for the faculty of sleep.

THE GRACE OF LISTENING.

There is a grace of kind listening, as well as a grace of kind speaking. Some men listen with an abstracted air, which shows that their thoughts are elsewhere.

THE HOLIDAYS OF HUSBANDS AND WIVES.

Semi-invalidism is the curse of woman of the present day. No woman is satisfied without her specialist in something or the other. Much of this impaired health is due, in the absence of organic disease, to want of proper holidays from work, and often, also, to insufficient food. Doctors tell us constantly that old people eat too much. They do not tell us so often what is equally true, that young people—especially young women, and most especially young married women—eat too little. The husband has his holidays; the governess hers; the servants theirs. But what about the tired woman who fears domestic friction, the perpetual pressure of small cares, demands on mind, heart, and body, and in sickness or in health plods on with the dull routine of it all—day by day, month by month, often year by year? The floor she makes for the happiness of the majority is trust unwisdom; for in her mind the word vacation means vexation.

It is necessary that the hard working husband should have change and rest, and this is best obtained by separation from wife and family. However devoted a couple may be, they remind each other by their very presence of all sorts of home anxieties. They talk about home and home-worship, and this is not change—it is monotony.

But when the husband returns like a giant refreshed, what does he find? That his wife after spending her holidays (with the children) is more tired than when she left home. The alleged holiday of the householder requires complete readjustment, for the nervous breakdown of a woman between thirty-five and forty-five years of age, which so often happens in these days, is nothing short of disaster.

When men begin to realize what continued strain means for women, now it affects everything which concerns the household, as well as the very life of the women themselves, they will be the first to insist upon a separate holiday; some time, not less than a fortnight, in some place that will mean peace—possibly pleasure—but peace, and in such a place as that, when the husband comes from troubling, and the landlady is at rest.

It is one thing not to want to leave home because one is too well and happy and comfortable to move, and another thing to be too languid and tired to face the fatigue of packing and travelling. This is the surest sign of all that it is necessary to go, and to go at once.

MINARD'S KINMENT CO. LIMITED Dear Sirs.—This fall I got through a fence and hurt my chest very so, so I could not work and it hurt me to breathe. I had all kinds of "rheumatism" and they did me no good. One bottle of MINARD'S LINIMENT cured me. I have not had any more trouble. C. H. COSSABOOM, Rogeway Digby Co., N. S.

CULTIVATE PATIENCE.

Be patient with your friends. They are neither omniscient nor omnipotent. They cannot see your heart, and may misunderstand you. They do not know what is best for you, and may select what is worst. Their arms are short, and they may not be able to reach what you ask. What if also, they lack parity of purpose or tenacity of affection; do you not also lack these graces? Patience is your refuge. Endure, and in enduring conquer them, and if not them, then at least yourself. Above all, be patient with your beloved. Love is the best thing on the earth, but it is to be handled tenderly, and impatience is a nurse that kills it.

Be patient with your pains and cares. We know it is easy to say and hard to do. But you must be patient. These things are killed by enduring them, and made strong to bite and sting by feeding them with frets and fears. There is no pain or care that can last long. None of them shall enter the City of God. A little while and you shall leave behind you the whole troop of howling troubles, and forget in your first sweet hour of rest that such things were on earth.

Hot Weather HEADACHES

Tablets, powders, drugs, of any kind will NOT cure headaches. Simply because they never reach the CAUSE of the headache. What causes headaches? Poisoned blood, always. If the bowels are constipated—If the kidneys are weak—If the millions of pores of the skin are not active—There are bound to be headaches.

Fruit-a-tives

OR "FRUIT LIVER TABLETS" cure headaches because they cure the cause of headaches. They do not drug the nerves. They go to the root of the trouble, invigorate and strengthen the liver and increase the flow of bile, the bowels, which cure constipation. Act directly on the kidneys, heal all kidney irritation, act on the skin, stimulate and open the pores. With bowels, kidneys and skin all healthy and working in harmony, the blood is kept pure and rich and there can be no headaches. FRUIT-A-TIVES are pure fruit juices combined by a secret process with tonics and intestinal antiseptics. 50c. a box or 6 boxes for $2.50. Sent on receipt of price if your druggist does not handle them.

FRUIT-A-TIVES LIMITED OTTAWA.

Dr. DeForrest, while experimenting at Ottawa with the DeForrest system of wireless telegraphy, between Ottawa and Montreal, narrowly escaped death recently. Something went wrong with the electrical apparatus and, it is alleged, 25,000 volts passed through his body. He was knocked unconscious and his limbs paralyzed for a time, but he is now better.

Mrs. Ellen Hayward, 70 years old, who lives in the Forest of Dean, was charged at Little Dean Petty Sessions with pretending to be a witch. The case rested on the evidence of a witness, a farmer named Hayter, who consulted her "because things had gone wrong with his stock." The case was dismissed.

A London man charged a young man lodger with stealing his waistcoat, a pocket of which contained his watch. The accused was remanded in custody. Subsequently the prosecutor discovered that the article had not been stolen, as he himself was wearing the waistcoat under another circumstance. The accused was at once liberated from jail.

It is announced that the French Minister of Marine has awarded a thousand francs to Penn, a pensioner on board the London & Southwestern Company's steamer "Hilda," which was lost off St. Malo last November. This was the man who supported two Breton boys on the rock for twelve hours during the terrible blizzard which prevailed at the time. Unfortunately, both boys died of exposure.

Scientists state that the height and weight of school children increase with the size of the houses in which they live.

An Ink Containing Gold and Perfume

"This India ink," said the clever Chinese art student, "has no more right to be called Indian than your American redskins have to that name. For, India ink all comes from China, and India never produced a stick of it. Anhui, my own province, is the one where India ink is made. The best of the ink is kept at home, for the use of the royal scribes and the official literati. It is only the lower grade that is exported. This lower grade sells at wholesale in Anhui for $1000 a ton.

The very best grade of India ink, the kind rich with gold, is worth $75,000 a ton. The constituents of India ink are colza oil, pork fat, lampblack, glue, musk, gold leaf, and the oil of a poisonous tree, the honey, which grows only in the Yangtze Valley. After the admixture of the oils, the lampblack, the fat and the glue, the resultant paste is beaten for many hours with steel hammers upon wooden anvils, and during that long beating certain quantities of musk and of gold leaf are added, the musk to give the ink perfume, the gold to give it lustre.

"Afterward the ink is dried for three weeks in monks. The sticks are then decorated, the most artistic writes girdling them with very beautiful Chinese characters. "There is no ink worthy to be mentioned in the same breath with ours—an ink replete with musk, and bright with gold."

Found guilty of maliciously wounding James Morrison, Albert Stuart was sentenced to 20 years imprisonment by Judge W. J. Easton, at Owen Sound, Ont. The deed was committed last February.
