

- The two countries co-operate to manage national parks and historic sites whose boundaries lie in both countries and to protect the Porcupine caribou herd.
- Canada and the U.S. also advance their shared international environmental objectives through multilateral forums such as the G-7 environment ministers meeting, to be held in Hamilton, Ontario, later this year.