

- (d) to decline to conduct preclearance on any air carrier until that air carrier has satisfied the Inspecting Party that it is permitted to deny carriage to anyone failing to submit to a preclearance inspection and to anyone who, having submitted to such inspection, is found ineligible by inspection agencies to board a precleared flight; and
 - (e) to deny intransit privileges to any air carrier, which would not otherwise be authorized by its civil aviation authorities to fly to its territory.
4. A preclearance officer may order anyone found in a preclearance area to report to the officer or leave the area.
 5. A preclearance officer shall also have the right to refuse to preclear travellers and their goods if the travellers do not satisfy the preclearance officer that they can be admitted or that their goods can be imported to the Inspecting Party's territory.
 6. At any stage of the preclearance process, the Inspecting Party shall permit travellers to leave the preclearance area unless the traveller is detained.
 7. The Inspecting Party shall:
 - (a) dispose of goods, that neither Party or passenger retains, in accordance with the procedures established by the Host Party;
 - (b) detain and transfer to the Host Party without delay any goods which the Host Party has made known explicitly to the Inspecting Party that the import, export, possession or handling of is illegal in the Host Party's territory;
 - (c) make goods that are forfeit to the Inspecting Party during preclearance subject to appeal procedures in the territory of the Inspecting Party.
 8. A preclearance officer may examine currency and monetary instruments that are found in a preclearance area.
 9. The Inspecting Party shall not detain the traveller within the preclearance area for more than a reasonable time as necessary for an appropriate Host Party Officer to take custody of the traveller if further proceedings are required.
 10. The Inspecting Party shall not be responsible for costs associated with travellers obtaining advice from legal counsel.
 11. In a preclearance area, the Inspecting Party shall ensure that information provided by the Host Party, e.g., signage, brochures and/or other communication materials outlining the rights and obligations of travellers, is readily available.
