ARCHDEACON RETIRING. — After more than 52 years of service as a clergyman of the Church of England, Ven. Archdeacon Richardson, rector of St. John's, London Township, and St. Luke's, Broughadle, is retiring from his parochial charge. Born in Halifax, N. S., in 1843, he graduated in arts and the cology at King's College, Windser, N. S., in 1864. The greater part of active propersion of the church has been given in this city, where he was rector for 22 years of the Cronyn Memorial Church before being appointed to St. John's, 20 years ago.

"The world seems very unequally divided. What compensation has the mother who parted with her dear boy of 19 years of age so that he might give his life's blood for the liberty of slackers and cowards? She is treated by the Government in just the same manner as the mothers of these slackers and cowards, who planned to keep their boys safely at home, saying they were too good to be slain on the battlefield, because they had such a great influence for good over the young people where they worked, thus casting ridicule on the fallen heroes.
