THREE MORE CASES ON NON-JURY LIST APPLICATIONS

Abner Fuller Alleges His Life Endangered by Work of Blasting Company.

Three additional cases have been en-tered for the non-jury sessions of the supreme court to be held here commenc-ing Monday, November 15. A total num-ber of four cases are now entered. Jessie Macfie, assignee of the estate Jessie Macfie, assignee of the estate of Harry L. Cater, trading under the name and style of Cater-Hart, has entered an action against Melville S. Cater for $1,516.59, the amount of a check which Harry L. Cater is alleged to have made payable to the defendant. The money, it is claimed, was deposited by one McPhail of Brantford to the credit of Harry L. Cater in a London bank, in of Harry L. Cater, in a London bank, in payment for cigars sold to the Brant-ford man. The allegations of the plain-tiff are denied by the defendant. J. M. McEvoy is counsel for the plaintiff and Meredith & Fisher for the defendant. A. E. Parkinson, a St. Marys barrister, has entered a writ for Abner Fuller, a farmer residing on a farm adjacent to that town, against the Thames Quarry Company, Limited, claiming that the lives of the plaintiff and his family are endangered by quantities of rock falling on his farm as a result of blasting operations in the

ON PRIVATE PROPERTY

Citizen Enters Strong Protest With Public Utilities Commission.

Relieving that they were operating on private property, well drillers for the commission brought down the wrath of a landowner on their heads today. Carrying out their search for new sources of supply they erected their apparatus at Nelson and Wellington streets on a lot which had been purchased by the city to link up Nelson street with Richmond street.

They levelled the property and made other improvements. Then they erected their "rig," and proceeded to drill a hole. They were surprised at this task by the owner of the adjoining property, who immediately entered a strong protest, asserting that they were working on his property without permission. On investigation they found his claim was correct, as their apparatus was partly on his lot and partly on that owned by the city. The well itself is on the city property. Unless serious objection is made the location will not be changed, but if necessary the apparatus can be moved entirely on to the city property, and the work carried on quite satisfactorily. their apparatus at Nelson and Welling-
