

The Weekly Freeman

Established in 1818. Whole No. 1421.

SAINT JOHN, N. B., TUESDAY, NOVEMBER 4, 1845.

VOL. XVIII.—NO. 19.

THE OBSERVER,
Published on TUESDAY, by DONALD A. AMERSON, at his Office in Water Street, South West corner of the Market Square.—TERMS: 15s. per annum, half in advance.
The postage on all Letters (except those containing money, or from Agents) must be prepaid, or they will not be attended to.

ATLANTIC
Mutual Insurance Company of Boston.
MARINE AGENCY AT SAINT JOHN.
THE Subscriber is authorized by the ATLAN-TIC MUTUAL INSURANCE COMPANY of Boston, to take Risks on Vessels, Cargoes, and Freights, to an extent not exceeding Ten Thousand Dollars on any one risk.
August 15.
A. W. WHIPPLE.

NOTICE.
THE Subscribers, who do Business together, under the Firm of W. & G. BEAL, have this day by mutual consent dissolved Partnership. All persons indebted to the said Firm on Book Account, will please pay the same to GEORGE BEAL, who is authorized to collect and discharge the same.
JOHN BEAL,
WILLIAM BEAL,
GEORGE BEAL.
Sackville, 18th Sept. 1845.—p.

CO-PARTNERSHIP NOTICE.
THE Partnership heretofore carried on by WILLIAM HAMMOND, in his own name, will be continued under the Firm of WILLIAM HAMMOND & CO.
WILLIAM HAMMOND,
WILLIAM E. MOORE.
St. John, 5th July, 1845.

THE undersigned request all parties indebted to me by Note, Bill, or Book Account, to pay the amount to WILLIAM HAMMOND & CO., and all those to whom I am indebted, will please render their Accounts to the said Firm for payment.
St. John, 5th July, 1845.

NOTICE.
ALL Persons having any legal demands against
the Estate of DANIEL CAMPBELL, late
of the Parish of Lancaster, County of Saint John,
deceased, are requested to present the same, duly
attested, to the undersigned, within Nine Months
from the date hereof; and all those indebted to said Estate, are required to make immediate payment to
ROBERT ROBERTSON,
Sole Administrator.
Indian Town, June 14, 1845.

NOTICE.
ALL Persons having any legal demands against
the Estate of DANIEL CAMPBELL, late
of the Parish of Lancaster, County of Saint John,
deceased, are requested to present the same, duly
attested, to the undersigned, within Nine Months
from the date hereof; and all those indebted to
said Estate, are required to make immediate payment to
JOHN B. CAMPBELL,
DUNCAN B. CAMPBELL, Executors.
Parish of Sussex, (R. C.) July 28, 1845.

PUBLIC NOTICE.
ALL persons having any demands against the Estate of THOMAS NISBET & SON, late
of the Parish of St. John, are requested to present the same, duly attested, to the undersigned,
within Nine Months from the date hereof; and
all those indebted to said Estate, are requested
to make immediate payment to either of the undersigned.
JOSEPH ARMSTRONG,
ROBERT ROBERTSON.
Indian Town, June 17, 1845.

NOTICE.
ALL Persons having any demands against the Estate of THOMAS NISBET & SON, late
of the Parish of St. John, are requested to present the same, duly attested, to the undersigned,
within Nine Months from the date hereof; and
all those indebted to said Estate, are requested
to make immediate payment to either of the
undersigned.
JOSEPH ARMSTRONG,
ROBERT ROBERTSON.
Indian Town, June 17, 1845.

Molasses! Molasses!!
A FULL Cargo, containing 252 Hhls., of the best Molasses—For sale in or out of Bond.
N. S. DEMILL.
July 15, 1845.

SUGAR.
THE undersigned has on hand a quantity of the best Sugar, for sale at H. G. KINNEAR.
Sept. 29.—(Herald)

S. K. FOSTER'S
SHOE STORES.
Corner of King and Germain Streets.

MORE BOOTS AND SHOS.
Just received per "The" from London
the most Fashionable pair, viz.
Misses' Children's and Babes' Fancy PRUENELLA
and VALENTIA BOOTS, in great variety, Gentlemen's Wellington, Clarence, Albert, Colburn
and other BOOTS, DRESS SHOES, HAMS, and SLIPPERS, of every style.—Together with a great variety of cheap BOOTS and SHOES, of every sort and quality that can be made.—For sale Wholesale and Retail, by
S. K. FOSTER,
June 24.

REMOVED.
THE Subscriber has removed his Business to the Store lately occupied by E. W. Greenwood, (No. 19, South Market Wharf), and has now on hand—Superior, Fine, and Medium Flour, manufactured from prime Alexandria Wheat; RYE FLOUR; CORN MEAL; HOBBE FEED, BRAN, &c. &c.
He will also continue to attend to the sale of COUNTRY PRODUCE.
May 6, 1845.—2m. JOHN W. McLEOD.

Geneva, Wine, Brandy, &c.
Per Brig "St. Stewart," Master, from Glasgow
15 HDS. superior quality Pale Holland GIN;
10 Hhls. Old Cognac BRANDY;
2 Hhls. and 50 cases superior Old PORT WINE.
For sale law, by
JOHN V. THURGAR,
St. John, 5th June, 1845.

CORDAGE.
Just arrived per "Severn" from Liverpool:
107 COILS of Jackson's CORDAGE, 1 1/4 inch; Spun Yarn, Marine, Amberline and House-line—suitable for Rigging for a Vessel of 200 tons. For sale low while lasting.
July 5.
C & W. H. ADAMS.

IRON, TIN,
Copper, Anchors, Chains, &c.
The Subscriber is now landing ex "Nancy" 200 TONS of well assorted English IRON; Ex "Caroline"—
50 tons of do.
Ex "Thomas"—
10 tons Spike NAILS—4 1/2 to 10 inches; 20 boxes DC TIN;
200 tons Banks' best refined IRON, assorted;
150 do. English IRON, assorted;
100 dozen Farmer's SPADES;
5 cases Miner's SHOVELS, steel;
100 bags Patent NAILS, from 4 1/2 to 2 1/2; 3/4; 50 chests best CONGOU TEA;
220 bolts best Navy CANVAS, No. 1 to 6; 8 cases Iron WIRE, well assorted;
7 tons Cast STEEL, Vandy & Co., assorted;
2 do. COACH SPRINGS, Steel, assorted;
100 dozen Farmer's SPADES;
2 do. COACH SPRINGS, Steel, assorted;
20 bags Horse and Ox Nails, assorted;
20 dozen FRYING PANS, assorted; 5 cases VICES, assorted;
12 best warranted ANVILS, assorted;
40 cwt. best Short Link 1/2 inch CHAIN; 20 " " " 7/16 " " "
40 " " " " " "
40 " " " " " "
30 " " " " " " 30 " " " " " "
30 CHAIN CABLES, best proved, assorted, 3/4 to 1 1/2 inch;
60 ANCHORS, assorted, 1 cwt. to 30 cwt.;

FALL GOODS!!
Just received per ships Corporation, Brothers, and
Williams Penn:
3 PACKAGES of LINEN CLOAKINGS,
4 ditto OURLANS and COBURGS,
2 do. Black and Coloured VELVETS,
10 do. FINEST DRESS SILKS,
6 do. SHAWLS and HANDKERCHIEFS,
4 do. CARPETING and RUGS,
6 do. PAINTED COFFEES,
3 do. White and Grey SHIRTINGS,
2 do. Satin;
10 do. FLANNELS, Baize and Dugget,
2 do. TICKS and GINGHAMS,
2 do. MOLLINGS,
1 do. SILK GOODS,
2 do. MUSLINS,
4 do. LINING COTTONS,
1 do. CLOTH and SEALLETTE CAPS,
5 do. CANNAS and OSABERGH,
2 do. CANNAS and OSABERGH,
1 do. BROWN HOLLANDS,
1 do. IRISH LAMBS,
2 do. WOOLLEN CLOTHS.
September 16. W. G. LAWTON.

No. 2, North Market Wharf.
C. & W. H. ADAMS
Have received per "Thesis" and other arrivals,
part of their Fall Stock of HIR D'VAIRE,
amongst which are—
300 TINED and unlined TEA KETTLES;
100 bags IMPROVED CUP NAILS,
25 bags OX and HORSE NAILS,
2 cases CAST STEEL, 4 Hhls. Blistered do.
3 cases Blistered VICES,
30 ANVILS,
Blacksmiths' Hammers and Bellows,
FOX TRAPS of an improved pattern;
RIM LOCKS, &c.—Common and Rivets' Patent;
BUTT HINGES,
Wrought Iron TACKS, BRASS, RIVETS,
Patent H & H HINGES; WHIP THONGS,
Patent and Common FIRE IRONS,
Tied Harness Buckles, and a few patent double
BRIDGE BITS.
John Wilson's Shoe, Hat, and Trunk, Goggles,
Hatches, Drawing Knives, Turkey Oil Stones;
Tattle Knives & Forks, &c. &c. &c.
24 feet Hoole & Co's GANG MILL SAWS.
September 15.

NEW ROOM PAPERS,
India Rubber Sheets, Ivory and Lamin's strong
SIBBS, BUTTES & BOOTS.
S. K. FOSTER'S
Paper Hangings & Shoe stores,
CORNER OF KING & GERMAIN STREETS.

LARGE and Elegant variety of newly manufactured GLAZED ROOM and HALL
PAPERS—new styles; 2500 pairs of Men's,
Women's, Youths', Children's and Infants' Figured
INDIA RUBBER SHEETS, in every style.
Mops, Boys', Vandy's, Girls', and Children's BUSKINS, SHOES, BOOTS & BOOTS,
&c. &c. &c.
All of which will be sold on moderate terms for
good payments.
WILLIAM CARVILL.
July 1.

SOAP, CANDLES, &c.
Ex "Thesis" & "Baltimore" and "Severn"
200 BOXES Steel's Liverpool SOAP, 200 HDS. Imperial Crown do.
—IN STORE—
50 boxes American Soda and Fancy SOAP,
100 boxes Wax Wick Mould CANDLES,
50 boxes Dip CANDLES,
400 lbs. JESS and PRIME PORK,
50 do. Mess and Prime BEEF,
400 packages TOBACCO, various brands;
200 do. TEAS, of superior quality; and other groceries, at lowest market prices.
July 24.
JOHN KERR & CO.

Powder, Shot, Blacking, &c.
Ex "Severn" from Liverpool—
50 K. EGGS D.S.F. GUNPOWDER,
Diamond Grain Spinning Gunpowder,
2 Cases SHOT, from BB to No. 9,
12 Sides PURE LEATHER,
60,000 Pump LACERS,
12 Cases Day & Martin's Liquid BLACKING,
in half pints, pints, and quarts;
4 Do. CASES of Bibles, from the Bible Society, &c. &c. &c.
6 Boxes SUGAR CANDY.
A large assortment of HOLLANDS—"Mortel"
& "Bonneville"; HOLLANDS; WINES;
TEAS; DRY GOODS; and GROCERIES.
—ALSO—
4 Tons SHIP BREAD; Tobacco PIPES, &c.
Which will be sold low for satisfactory payments at
his Store, North Market Wharf and Results Point.
July 15, 1845. JOHN KERR.

FLOUR, CORN, &c.
Landing ex "Severn" from Philadelphia—
1100 B. 30 lbs. CORN MEAL;
130 do. RYE FLOUR.
Ex "Morla" from Halifax—
20 cases PALE SHAL OIL;
Ex "Boundary" from New York—
100 bags CORN,
50 Hls. and 5 1/2 half do. Genesee Superior FLOUR.—For sale by
JARDINE & WILSON,
August 12.

Wharfrage in a central and
convenient situation until 1st Aug. next,
may be had for about 800,000 feet of Levee, on application to
A. G. LORLIDY, Compt.
September 5.

Corn Meal, Ship Bread and Biscuits.
UNPACKED PALE
For Brig "Albert" from Philadelphia:
300 B. 10 lbs. Fine Navy BREAD;
75 kegs Lemon, Soda, and Sugar Biscuits.
Will be sold low, on arrival of the vessel.
JOHN V. THURGAR,
September 6. North Market Wharf.

Olive Oil, Copper, & Spices.
WE OFFER FOR SALE:
5 H IRON SPIKES, from 4 to 10 inch,
COMPOSITION SPIKES, 6, 7, and 8 inch,
and BOLT COPPER.
September 23.
ALLISON & SPURR.

September, 1845.
FALL GOODS!!
Just received per ships Corporation, Brothers, and
Williams Penn:
3 PACKAGES of LINEN CLOAKINGS,
4 ditto OURLANS and COBURGS,
2 do. Black and Coloured VELVETS,
10 do. FINEST DRESS SILKS,
6 do. SHAWLS and HANDKERCHIEFS,
4 do. CARPETING and RUGS,
6 do. PAINTED COFFEES,
3 do. White and Grey SHIRTINGS,
2 do. Satin;
10 do. FLANNELS, Baize and Dugget,
2 do. TICKS and GINGHAMS,
2 do. MOLLINGS,
1 do. SILK GOODS,
2 do. MUSLINS,
4 do. LINING COTTONS,
1 do. CLOTH and SEALLETTE CAPS,
5 do. CANNAS and OSABERGH,
2 do. CANNAS and OSABERGH,
1 do. BROWN HOLLANDS,
1 do. IRISH LAMBS,
2 do. WOOLLEN CLOTHS.
September 16. W. G. LAWTON.

No. 2, North Market Wharf.
C. & W. H. ADAMS
Have received per "Thesis" and other arrivals,
part of their Fall Stock of HIR D'VAIRE,
amongst which are—
300 TINED and unlined TEA KETTLES;
100 bags IMPROVED CUP NAILS,
25 bags OX and HORSE NAILS,
2 cases CAST STEEL, 4 Hhls. Blistered do.
3 cases Blistered VICES,
30 ANVILS,
Blacksmiths' Hammers and Bellows,
FOX TRAPS of an improved pattern;
RIM LOCKS, &c.—Common and Rivets' Patent;
BUTT HINGES,
Wrought Iron TACKS, BRASS, RIVETS,
Patent H & H HINGES; WHIP THONGS,
Patent and Common FIRE IRONS,
Tied Harness Buckles, and a few patent double
BRIDGE BITS.
John Wilson's Shoe, Hat, and Trunk, Goggles,
Hatches, Drawing Knives, Turkey Oil Stones;
Tattle Knives & Forks, &c. &c. &c.
24 feet Hoole & Co's GANG MILL SAWS.
September 15.

NEW ROOM PAPERS,
India Rubber Sheets, Ivory and Lamin's strong
SIBBS, BUTTES & BOOTS.
S. K. FOSTER'S
Paper Hangings & Shoe stores,
CORNER OF KING & GERMAIN STREETS.

LARGE and Elegant variety of newly manufactured GLAZED ROOM and HALL
PAPERS—new styles; 2500 pairs of Men's,
Women's, Youths', Children's and Infants' Figured
INDIA RUBBER SHEETS, in every style.
Mops, Boys', Vandy's, Girls', and Children's BUSKINS, SHOES, BOOTS & BOOTS,
&c. &c. &c.
All of which will be sold on moderate terms for
good payments.
WILLIAM CARVILL.
July 1.

SOAP, CANDLES, &c.
Ex "Thesis" & "Baltimore" and "Severn"
200 BOXES Steel's Liverpool SOAP,
200 HDS. Imperial Crown do.
—IN STORE—
50 boxes American Soda and Fancy SOAP,
100 boxes Wax Wick Mould CANDLES,
50 boxes Dip CANDLES,
400 lbs. JESS and PRIME PORK,
50 do. Mess and Prime BEEF,
400 packages TOBACCO, various brands;
200 do. TEAS, of superior quality; and other groceries, at lowest market prices.
July 24.
JOHN KERR & CO.

Powder, Shot, Blacking, &c.
Ex "Severn" from Liverpool—
50 K. EGGS D.S.F. GUNPOWDER,
Diamond Grain Spinning Gunpowder,
2 Cases SHOT, from BB to No. 9,
12 Sides PURE LEATHER,
60,000 Pump LACERS,
12 Cases Day & Martin's Liquid BLACKING,
in half pints, pints, and quarts;
4 Do. CASES of Bibles, from the Bible Society, &c. &c. &c.
6 Boxes SUGAR CANDY.
A large assortment of HOLLANDS—"Mortel"
& "Bonneville"; HOLLANDS; WINES;
TEAS; DRY GOODS; and GROCERIES.
—ALSO—
4 Tons SHIP BREAD; Tobacco PIPES, &c.
Which will be sold low for satisfactory payments at
his Store, North Market Wharf and Results Point.
July 15, 1845. JOHN KERR.

FLOUR, CORN, &c.
Landing ex "Severn" from Philadelphia—
1100 B. 30 lbs. CORN MEAL;
130 do. RYE FLOUR.
Ex "Morla" from Halifax—
20 cases PALE SHAL OIL;
Ex "Boundary" from New York—
100 bags CORN,
50 Hls. and 5 1/2 half do. Genesee Superior FLOUR.—For sale by
JARDINE & WILSON,
August 12.

Wharfrage in a central and
convenient situation until 1st Aug. next,
may be had for about 800,000 feet of Levee, on application to
A. G. LORLIDY, Compt.
September 5.

Corn Meal, Ship Bread and Biscuits.
UNPACKED PALE
For Brig "Albert" from Philadelphia:
300 B. 10 lbs. Fine Navy BREAD;
75 kegs Lemon, Soda, and Sugar Biscuits.
Will be sold low, on arrival of the vessel.
JOHN V. THURGAR,
September 6. North Market Wharf.

Olive Oil, Copper, & Spices.
WE OFFER FOR SALE:
5 H IRON SPIKES, from 4 to 10 inch,
COMPOSITION SPIKES, 6, 7, and 8 inch,
and BOLT COPPER.
September 23.
ALLISON & SPURR.

THE GARLAND.
TO MY MOTHER.
Yes, I have sung of other's woes,
Until they seem'd my mind own;
And Fancy oft will scenes disclose
Whose being was in thought alone:
Her meagre power I've cherish'd long,
And yielded to her soothing sway;
Excluding her own sorrows,
And wild and wondrous is her way.
But then—when'er I think on thee,
Those glowing visions fade away;
My soul awakes, how tenderly!
To pleasure that can ne'er decay.
There's not an hour of life goes by,
But makes thee still more fondly dear;
My sighs attend upon thy sigh,
My sorrows wait upon thy tear:
For earth has nought so good so pure,
That may compare with love like thine—
Love is existence shall endure,
Thy star of guiding love shall shine!

THE MOSS ROSE.
Flowers, the emblems of youth and beauty, and innocence, and no less the frail moments of human life, each in the comparative brevity of its transient history, the same, have ever mingled with the story of affection, and shed their own sweet influence over the dreams of romance, and the rustic tale of village courtship. How often has a simple flower been the medium of intercourse between a diffident lover and his mistress, and told her the secret of his heart. How often, when kindred spirits have been doomed to separate, has a blushing flower remained the silent witness of unspoken vows.—How many promises have lived on to their consummation, in the memory of flowers.
"Mamma," said Lauretta one morning to Mrs.
La Branch, "I have a pretty Moss Rose for my summer-house?—Certainly, if you please," said the good lady, "but where did you get such a treasure, Lauretta?—The sweet girl put on a deep blush—she had never dreamed of such a question and was not prepared to answer it; with the dexterous ingenuity so peculiar to her sex, however, she extricated herself at a single thought—she friend gave it to me as a keepsake." Old Mrs.
La Branch, who was reading the morning news
over his coffee, lifted up his eyes at the moment—
"Has Edward gone then?" said he, with a quizzing smile, and without waiting an answer sipped his coffee, and went on with the paper; and Lauretta escaped from the breakfast table as soon as an opportunity offered.
The flower was planted in the sunniest spot, and Lauretta watered it with so much care, and so often, that it grew up to a bush, and bore a full crop of roses. They were her companions—she used to sit for hours in her favourite bower, and gaze upon them and recall all the tender recollections they brought to mind; and when the long summer had faded away, and the autumn came in its garb of pensive sadness to sweep the leaves of the garden, she redoubled her diligence to preserve them from the fate of their fellows in the garden; and to screen them from the unpropitious season, she covered the rose bush with a coat of straw, and still made the rose bush her companion.
Edward Martin and Lauretta were old acquaintances. He left home on business to Liverpool, and Lauretta had had brought her the Moss Rose
—and he intended to say it as a pledge
of friendship—he did not hope to be able to say
more. He saw Lauretta set the flower down by herside; but his courage evaporated; his feelings overpowered him, and he could not utter a word
about it.
The time had not yet arrived in which Edward
was expected to return, when early one morning
the door opened and Mr. La Branch came in from his morning walk with Edward, whom he had met
rambling in the direction of the mansion; and who
had reached home the evening before. The family
pressed round their friend—and Lauretta's eyes
sparkled, and they both blushed when they shook
hands—there was such a mutual welcome as discussed the heart good, in which words fell far less cordial
than feelings.
A heavy breakfast over, Lauretta took him to her
parlour, and pointed to the budding rose bush—
"I have kept it," she said—"it is still fresh and beautiful."
"I forgot the flower," replied Edward,
"only thought of you."—Lauretta blushed and long
her head. Meantime, Mr. La Branch having left
his morning pipe walked into the room; "I have
spoken to the Doctor—'tis a mystery as to what Lauretta and Edward in the same breath,
interrupting him—so entirely had they subject
entered their minds that the words came out with-
out a thought, and perfect confusion was the result. He looked at Lauretta, and she at Edward,
and both at each other, and the old gentleman
burst into a laugh—"no children," said he, "I spoke
to him about a little pig he was to send us for Christmas, and he had brought her the Moss Rose
—and he intended to say it as a pledge
of friendship—he did not hope to be able to say
more. He saw Lauretta set the flower down by
herside; but his courage evaporated; his feelings overpowered him, and he could not utter a word
about it.
The time had not yet arrived in which Edward
was expected to return, when early one morning
the door opened and Mr. La Branch came in from
his morning walk with Edward, whom he had met
rambling in the direction of the mansion; and who
had reached home the evening before. The family
pressed round their friend—and Lauretta's eyes
sparkled, and they both blushed when they shook
hands—there was such a mutual welcome as discussed the heart good, in which words fell far less cordial
than feelings.
A heavy breakfast over, Lauretta took him to her
parlour, and pointed to the budding rose bush—
"I have kept it," she said—"it is still fresh and beautiful."
"I forgot the flower," replied Edward,
"only thought of you."—Lauretta blushed and long
her head. Meantime, Mr. La Branch having left
his morning pipe walked into the room; "I have
spoken to the Doctor—'tis a mystery as to
what Lauretta and Edward in the same breath,
interrupting him—so entirely had they subject
entered their minds that the words came out with-
out a thought, and perfect confusion was the result. He looked at Lauretta, and she at Edward,
and both at each other, and the old gentleman
burst into a laugh—"no children," said he, "I spoke
to him about a little pig he was to send us for Christmas, and he had brought her the Moss Rose
—and he intended to say it as a pledge
of friendship—he did not hope to be able to say
more. He saw Lauretta set the flower down by
herside; but his courage evaporated; his feelings overpowered him, and he could not utter a word
about it.
The time had not yet arrived in which Edward
was expected to return, when early one morning
the door opened and Mr. La Branch came in from
his morning walk with Edward, whom he had met
rambling in the direction of the mansion; and who
had reached home the evening before. The family
pressed round their friend—and Lauretta's eyes
sparkled, and they both blushed when they shook
hands—there was such a mutual welcome as discussed the heart good, in which words fell far less cordial
than feelings.
A heavy breakfast over, Lauretta took him to her
parlour, and pointed to the budding rose bush—
"I have kept it," she said—"it is still fresh and beautiful."
"I forgot the flower," replied Edward,
"only thought of you."—Lauretta blushed and long
her head. Meantime, Mr. La Branch having left
his morning pipe walked into the room; "I have
spoken to the Doctor—'tis a mystery as to
what Lauretta and Edward in the same breath,
interrupting him—so entirely had they subject
entered their minds that the words came out with-
out a thought, and perfect confusion was the result. He looked at Lauretta, and she at Edward,
and both at each other, and the old gentleman
burst into a laugh—"no children," said he, "I spoke
to him about a little pig he was to send us for Christmas, and he had brought her the Moss Rose
—and he intended to say it as a pledge
of friendship—he did not hope to be able to say
more. He saw Lauretta set the flower down by
herside; but his courage evaporated; his feelings overpowered him, and he could not utter a word
about it.
The time had not yet arrived in which Edward
was expected to return, when early one morning
the door opened and Mr. La Branch came in from
his morning walk with Edward, whom he had met
rambling in the direction of the mansion; and who
had reached home the evening before. The family
pressed round their friend—and Lauretta's eyes
sparkled, and they both blushed when they shook
hands—there was such a mutual welcome as discussed the heart good, in which words fell far less cordial
than feelings.
A heavy breakfast over, Lauretta took him to her
parlour, and pointed to the budding rose bush—
"I have kept it," she said—"it is still fresh and beautiful."
"I forgot the flower," replied Edward,
"only thought of you."—Lauretta blushed and long
her head. Meantime, Mr. La Branch having left
his morning pipe walked into the room; "I have
spoken to the Doctor—'tis a mystery as to
what Lauretta and Edward in the same breath,
interrupting him—so entirely had they subject
entered their minds that the words came out with-
out a thought, and perfect confusion was the result. He looked at Lauretta, and she at Edward,
and both at each other, and the old gentleman
burst into a laugh—"no children," said he, "I spoke
to him about a little pig he was to send us for Christmas, and he had brought her the Moss Rose
—and he intended to say it as a pledge
of friendship—he did not hope to be able to say
more. He saw Lauretta set the flower down by
herside; but his courage evaporated; his feelings overpowered him, and he could not utter a word
about it.
The time had not yet arrived in which Edward
was expected to return, when early one morning
the door opened and Mr. La Branch came in from
his morning walk with Edward, whom he had met
rambling in the direction of the mansion; and who
had reached home the evening before. The family
pressed round their friend—and Lauretta's eyes
sparkled, and they both blushed when they shook
hands—there was such a mutual welcome as discussed the heart good, in which words fell far less cordial
than feelings.
A heavy breakfast over, Lauretta took him to her
parlour, and pointed to the budding rose bush—
"I have kept it," she said—"it is still fresh and beautiful."
"I forgot the flower," replied Edward,
"only thought of you."—Lauretta blushed and long
her head. Meantime, Mr. La Branch having left
his morning pipe walked into the room; "I have
spoken to the Doctor—'tis a mystery as to
what Lauretta and Edward in the same breath,
interrupting him—so entirely had they subject
entered their minds that the words came out with-
out a thought, and perfect confusion was the result. He looked at Lauretta, and she at Edward,
and both at each other, and the old gentleman
burst into a laugh—"no children," said he, "I spoke
to him about a little pig he was to send us for Christmas, and he had brought her the Moss Rose
—and he intended to say it as a pledge
of friendship—he did not hope to be able to say
more. He saw Lauretta set the flower down by
herside; but his courage evaporated; his feelings overpowered him, and he could not utter a word
about it.
The time had not yet arrived in which Edward
was expected to return, when early one morning
the door opened and Mr. La Branch came in from
his morning walk with Edward, whom he had met
rambling in the direction of the mansion; and who
had reached home the evening before. The family
pressed round their friend—and Lauretta's eyes
sparkled, and they both blushed when they shook
hands—there was such a mutual welcome as discussed the heart good, in which words fell far less cordial
than feelings.
A heavy breakfast over, Lauretta took him to her
parlour, and pointed to the budding rose bush—
"I have kept it," she said—"it is still fresh and beautiful."
"I forgot the flower," replied Edward,
"only thought of you."—Lauretta blushed and long
her head. Meantime, Mr. La Branch having left
his morning pipe walked into the room; "I have
spoken to the Doctor—'tis a mystery as to
what Lauretta and Edward in the same breath,
interrupting him—so entirely had they subject
entered their minds that the words came out with-
out a thought, and perfect confusion was the result. He looked at Lauretta, and she at Edward,
and both at each other, and the old gentleman
burst into a laugh—"no children," said he, "I spoke
to him about a little pig he was to send us for Christmas, and he had brought her the Moss Rose
—and he intended to say it as a pledge
of friendship—he did not hope to be able to say
more. He saw Lauretta set the flower down by
herside; but his courage evaporated; his feelings overpowered him, and he could not utter a word
about it.
The time had not yet arrived in which Edward
was expected to return, when early one morning
the door opened and Mr. La Branch came in from
his morning walk with Edward, whom he had met
rambling in the direction of the mansion; and who
had reached home the evening before. The family
pressed round their friend—and Lauretta's eyes
sparkled, and they both blushed when they shook
hands—there was such a mutual welcome as discussed the heart good, in which words fell far less cordial
than feelings.
A heavy breakfast over, Lauretta took him to her
parlour, and pointed to the budding rose bush—
"I have kept it," she said—"it is still fresh and beautiful."
"I forgot the flower," replied Edward,
"only thought of you."—Lauretta blushed and long
her head. Meantime, Mr. La Branch having left
his morning pipe walked into the room; "I have
spoken to the Doctor—'tis a mystery as to
what Lauretta and Edward in the same breath,
interrupting him—so entirely had they subject
entered their minds that the words came out with-
out a thought, and perfect confusion was the result. He looked at Lauretta, and she at Edward,
and both at each other, and the old gentleman
burst into a laugh—"no children," said he, "I spoke
to him about a little pig he was to send us for Christmas, and he had brought her the Moss Rose
—and he intended to say it as a pledge
of friendship—he did not hope to be able to say
more. He saw Lauretta set the flower down by
herside; but his courage evaporated; his feelings overpowered him, and he could not utter a word
about it.
The time had not yet arrived in which Edward
was expected to return, when early one morning
the door opened and Mr. La Branch came in from
his morning walk with Edward, whom he had met
rambling in the direction of the mansion; and who
had reached home the evening before. The family
pressed round their friend—and Lauretta's eyes
sparkled, and they both blushed when they shook
hands—there was such a mutual welcome as discussed the heart good, in which words fell far less cordial
than feelings.
A heavy breakfast over, Lauretta took him to her
parlour, and pointed to the budding rose bush—
"I have kept it," she said—"it is still fresh and beautiful."
"I forgot the flower," replied Edward,
"only thought of you."—Lauretta blushed and long
her head. Meantime, Mr. La Branch having left
his morning pipe walked into the room; "I have
spoken to the Doctor—'tis a mystery as to
what Lauretta and Edward in the same breath,
interrupting him—so entirely had they subject
entered their minds that the words came out with-
out a thought, and perfect confusion was the result. He looked at Lauretta, and she at Edward,
and both at each other, and the old gentleman
burst into a laugh—"no children," said he, "I spoke
to him about a little pig he was to send us for Christmas, and he had brought her the Moss Rose
—and he intended to say it as a pledge
of friendship—he did not hope to be able to say
more. He saw Lauretta set the flower down by
herside; but his courage evaporated; his feelings overpowered him, and he could not utter a word
about it.
The time had not yet arrived in which Edward
was expected to return, when early one morning
the door opened and Mr. La Branch came in from
his morning walk with Edward, whom he had met
rambling in the direction of the mansion; and who
had reached home the evening before. The family
pressed round their friend—and Lauretta's eyes
sparkled, and they both blushed when they shook
hands—there was such a mutual welcome as discussed the heart good, in which words fell far less cordial
than feelings.
A heavy breakfast over, Lauretta took him to her
parlour, and pointed to the budding rose bush—
"I have kept it," she said—"it is still fresh and beautiful."
"I forgot the flower," replied Edward,
"only thought of you."—Lauretta blushed and long
her head. Meantime, Mr. La Branch having left
his morning pipe walked into the room; "I have
spoken to the Doctor—'tis a mystery as to
what Lauretta and Edward in the same breath,
interrupting him—so entirely had they subject
entered their minds that the words came out with-
out a thought, and perfect confusion was the result. He looked at Lauretta, and she at Edward,
and both at each other, and the old gentleman
burst into a laugh—"no children," said he, "I spoke
to him about a little pig he was to send us for Christmas, and he had brought her the Moss Rose
—and he intended to say it as a pledge
of friendship—he did not hope to be able to say
more. He saw Lauretta set the flower down by
herside; but his courage evaporated; his feelings overpowered him, and he could not utter a word
about it.
The time had not yet arrived in which Edward
was expected to return, when early one morning
the door opened and Mr. La Branch came in from
his morning walk with Edward, whom he had met
rambling in the direction of the mansion; and who
had reached home the evening before. The family
pressed round their friend—and Lauretta's eyes
sparkled, and they both blushed when they shook
hands—there was such a mutual welcome as discussed the heart good, in which words fell far less cordial
than feelings.
A heavy breakfast over, Lauretta took him to her
parlour, and pointed to the budding rose bush—
"I have kept it," she said—"it is still fresh and beautiful."
"I forgot the flower," replied Edward,
"only thought of you."—Lauretta blushed and long
her head. Meantime, Mr. La Branch having left
his morning pipe walked into the room; "I have
spoken to the Doctor—'tis a mystery as to
what Lauretta and Edward in the same breath,
interrupting him—so entirely had they subject
entered their minds that the words came out with-
out a thought, and perfect confusion was the result. He looked at Lauretta, and she at Edward,
and both at each other, and the old gentleman
burst into a laugh—"no children," said he, "I spoke
to him about a little pig he was to send us for Christmas, and he had brought her the Moss Rose
—and he intended to say it as a pledge
of friendship—he did not hope to be able to say