100 Dead, a Conservative Estimate. Porcupine, Ont., July 13.--South Porcupine and Pottsville today stand blackened and smoking. Over a hundred lives lost at a conservative estimate and monetary loss runs into many thousands.

THIS MEANS ELECTION IN SEPTEMBER

reported dead on the trail and possibly 20 on the trail to Mattagami.

Toronto, Ont., July 13.--The Mail and Empire's special correspondent at Porcupine, wired tonight from Cobalt as follows:

"The horrors of Porcupine's great disaster which is without doubt even worse than the San Francisco earthquake when the comparative size of the place is considered, increase hourly. Out of the chaos and confusion which reigns, it is difficult to get a clear picture of the extent of the disaster.

"My meal of the day of the fire was a square of boiled fat pork and half a loaf of bread, and yesterday morning all I could find to eat were a few crackers. Considerate friends down country are rushing in supplies, however, and there will be no danger from that point."

May Be 300 Victims. At the beginning it was believed that the greatest loss of life occurred at the mines, and in the bush where many prospectors must have perished, but now the towns may reveal the greatest number of dead.

Porcupine Lake has given up 41 victims, drowned by plunging into the lake, by suffocation while standing in the water, or by being swamped when in canoes. Most of these are yet unknown, and some may never be known, for they came from the four corners of the universe, and their names and homes are unknown.

Nothing can be added to the stories from the loss at the mines beyond the fact that Capt. Jack Hamilton, who was at first counted among the dead at the West Dome is alive. He is Joseph Tracey, accountant for F. A. Heinze.

Survivors Tell Awful Tales. North Bay, July 13.--A relief train left North Bay this afternoon for Porcupine with provisions, blankets, tents, a carload of coffee, etc. The latest estimates of the dead received here are from 150 to 200 while many think the death toll will reach 500 or even larger figures.

A STRAY SHOT CAUSED FIGHT

Madero's Men Mix With Soldiers of Saragoza Battalion And Several Are Killed on Both Sides.

Mexico City, July 13.--Five Maderists were killed in a fight with soldiers of the Saragoza Battalion at Puebla. The cause of the encounter is said to have been the act of some one who in passing the quarters of the Maderists fired a shot which the Maderists thought had come from the Federal barracks opposite, and so opened fire in reply. Owing to the trouble at Puebla, the reception planned for Madero has been abandoned.

BATTLE OF SUSSEX TO BE FOUGHT TODAY IF WEATHER PERMITS

Special to The Standard. Sussex, N. B., July 13.--Today has been a gay day in camp. In the forenoon the infantry and other units practiced battalion in attack. During the afternoon no parade was called but a half holiday was given the boys for sport. There were various features which called for many a cheer and strength and skill. At 7:30 p. m. the 73rd and 74th battalions marched out under orders to take up post defence for the night against an enemy that had landed, taken St. John, and was marching on to Sussex. The 73rd took up a strong position along the C. P. R. while the 74th guarded Trout Creek.

Tomorrow sees the battle fought out if the weather is fine. The plans were thoroughly laid by Major Hayter, a veteran from India.

Last night about 130 m. the officers and men of the infantry were aroused by the bugle sounding "fall in," and when they turned out they found the 71st battalion's cook house in flames. The building and contents were worth about $200. The origin of the fire is not known. The picnic was turned out and put on guard for the rest of the night.

The army service corps held a sing song and bonfire tonight on their grounds. The weather still continues to be hot. An officer who has suffered for 33 years, says he never saw a hotter camp. In spite of all the excessive heat very few men have fallen out on account of it.

Viterbo, July 13.--In the Camorra trial today Fabroni testified that when Giuseppe Salvi was arrested he told Mariano De Genarro that he had received Cucco's ring from Giuseppe De Maria, to be forwarded to the sister of Luigi Arna, who had demanded the ring as evidence of Cucco's death. Salvi and De Genarro are charged with being the assassins of Cucco.

The witness went on to describe the search of Salvi's house and the finding of the ring inside a mattress. The search, he said was absolutely legal, although he would have preferred to have made it in the presence of a judge, thus avoiding the campaign of slander which has been carried on against the Carabinieri ever since.

At this point Salvi was given permission to leave the court. As he departed, he turned and shouted: "I don't want to listen to this liar."

Fabroni told of the organization of a squad of twelve picked carabinieri which was soon known as a squad of terror. Along these twelve men faced the Camorra representing directly and indirectly half a million persons.
