OHIO FLOOD SUFFERERS ARE RECLAIMING HOMES

Continued from page one. Parkersburg, W. Va., March 31.—This city today started to recover from the worst disaster in its history, due to the ravages of the Ohio river. The river is falling, but slowly, the stage here now being 53 feet, the crest stage which was reached Saturday night was 73.0 feet higher than the 1884 flood. Parkersburg has been cut off from the outside world by rail since Thursday and the first train is not expected out before tomorrow. It will go east. Four days the city has been without water supply, street cars, electric lights, newspapers or mail. There is but one known casualty thus far, but it is the general opinion that the receding waters will disclose the bodies of people caught in their homes by the rapidly rising water. The water will not be clear of the business section until tomorrow, and until then it will be impossible to estimate the loss of life. It is believed they will run from a half to three-quarters of a million dollars. In Parkersburg, 20,000 and all Wood County upwards of 30,000 people are homeless. Orville Wright a Loser. South Dayton, Ohio, March 31.—Orville Wright, who, like thousands of other Daytonians, was engaged in shoveling mud from the Wright homestead today, had no chance to use an aeroplane when the flood came. When warning of the flood came his father, Bishop Wright, and his sister, Katherine, left the place in a wagon. In some way they became separated, and for two days the inventor could not find his father. When located it was found that he had experienced no mishap. Orville Wright fled soon after the other two and found refuge on high ground. The interior of his house was ruined by water. Fire broke out in a building near the old shop where the Wright Brothers worked many years in perfecting their flying machines. In the shop there are valuable plans and drawings for the construction of aeroplanes and navigation of the air. Orville was greatly relieved when he returned to find that the flames had spared the shop and its contents. Holding Court Martial. At the meeting of the relief and members of the regulated city council members later declared their individual willingness to co-operate with the committee in all necessary measures for the protection and rehabilitation of the city. It was decided to appropriate $50,000 of the relief fund to the Red Cross to be expended in purchasing the bare necessities which will permit destitute families to re-establish homes of a sort until they can improve their own conditions. Court martial was organized today with forty petty cases on the docket. This court must try such cases, as the municipal justice courts have been superseded under martial law. Reports that looters have been shot are those in authority. There have been rumors of such occurrences, but none has been confirmed. In none of the morgues is there any body showing bullet wounds. Guards have fired shots to frighten suspicious looting characters, but never have shot to kill or injure. Takes Optimistic View. Washington, March 31.—Secretary Garrison's reports to President Wilson continued to convey optimistic news of the flood situation in Ohio. His messages said that all places hitherto inaccessible had been reached or soon would be, and that there was abundance of food and relief supplies. He lauded the work of Governor Cox and summarized: "The result is that from reports made to Governor Cox and to me, we are able to assure you and through you, the country, that there is no emergency in the State of Ohio due to the flood, which has not been met and is now being met."

Enrique Villages, minister of foreign relations of Chili, cabled Secretary Bryan the sympathy of the people of Chili in the suffering of the Ohio and Indiana floods. Gov. Cox's Statement. Columbus, Ohio, March 31.—Refreshed by the tears of the people of Ohio, standing ready from today to meet the crisis alone. Such was the statement issued by Gov. Cox early this evening, shortly before he left the executive office for home and the first full night's rest he has had in more than a week. "Ohio has arisen from the floods. Such a pitiless blow from nature as we sustained, would have wiped out society and destroyed governments in other days. We cannot speak our gratitude to President Wilson for federal aid, to the Red Cross, to states, to municipalities, trade organizations and individuals, that sent funds and supplies. They will never know their contribution to humanity. "The relief situation so far as food and clothing are concerned, is in hand. Thankful to her friends who succored her, Ohio faces tomorrow serene and confident." Adopt Relief Plan. As the flood waters of Ohio continued to recede and while property owners were just beginning the cleaning out and rebuilding of their wrecked homes, Gov. Cox and members of the legislature today began an outline of reconstruction legislation, which will be followed in all of the flood districts by the state. It practically decided that the San Francisco relief plan will be placed in effect for the Ohio flood sufferers. Under this plan the relief would be based upon the property loss of the individual and the income loss incurred. The amount of relief each person would receive would be pro-rated on such a basis. During the day Lindley M. Morris, secretary of war and Major General Leonard Wood, chief of staff of the U. S. army, called on the governor, and went over the situation in this state with him. Upon the recommendation of Gov. Cox the legislature recessed until next Monday, thereby giving state officials a week in which to learn the most urgent needs of the various stricken communities, and some estimate of the amount of the money needed to replace damaged property. A joint legislative committee, composed of members of both houses was appointed by the presiding officers, to assist the governor, and other state officials in framing suitable legislation. Having just come back from America, where I learned from all sources that there is a strong feeling against the barbarity of forcible feeding, I venture with confidence to beg you to intervene in behalf of Miss Emerson, who is being forcibly fed in Holloway jail and is in precarious condition. Home Secretary McKenna questioned today in the House of Commons by James Kier Hardie, who urged the release of the suffragist prisoners now undergoing forcible feeding, said that their condition was not dangerous. One of the women he referred to must have been Miss Emerson. Baron Von Horst said tonight that he was now working in conjunction with the leaders of the women's social and political union in the preparation of a strong protest to be presented to the American government against the refusal of the authorities at Boston to permit Miss Florence W. WANT RELEASE OF PRISONERS

Continued from page one. The woman who tried to catch pneumonia in prison by sponging herself all over with hot water and remaining uncovered all night, as stated by the Home Secretary on March 18, was Miss Emerson. The smuggled letter also stated that Miss Emerson's arm had been badly bruised by the policeman who arrested her. The box reserved for Mrs. Emerson and Mrs. Pankhurst at today's meeting was shared by Beatrice Harraden, the authoress, Baroness Von Hauger Hengel Muller, wife of the former Austro-Hungarian Ambassador to the United States, and a number of other prominent suffragists. Acting on the invitation of Mrs. Pankhurst, a number of American women rose in the audience and expressed their sympathy with Miss Emerson's mother. Baron Von Horst stated that on investigation and after taking legal advice he is satisfied that forcible feeding is illegal and therefore constitutes a ground for interference by the American government on behalf of Miss Emerson. Beatrice Harraden has sent the following telegram to President Woodrow Wilson: "Having just come back from America, where I learned from all sources that there is a strong feeling against the barbarity of forcible feeding, I venture with confidence to beg you to intervene in behalf of Miss Emerson, who is being forcibly fed in Holloway jail and is in precarious condition. Home Secretary McKenna questioned today in the House of Commons by James Kier Hardie, who urged the release of the suffragist prisoners now undergoing forcible feeding, said that their condition was not dangerous.
