AS A WOMAN THINKETH

By HELEN ROWLAND

(Copyright, 1920, by The Wheeler Syndicate, Inc.)
THE GIRL WHO CANNOT DREAM

I look into your face—and wonder!
Oh, laughing, straight-browed, clear-sighted, undaunted, whole-some Daughter of Today.
Going into life, open-eyed!
With strong, sure feet and steady hand—
Knowing all its glories and its pitfalls, its pettiness, and possibilities—
Knowing more of life's realities than I do!
I look into your face—and wonder if they are wise, who robbed you of your foolish girlish dreams, and brushed the star-dust from your misty eyes.
That you might look at FACTS—and "see life straight!"
I wonder!
What would I take, today, as fair exchange
For those young years of faith in Santa Claus—those starry Christmas Eves, when high heart beating,
I watched for him through frosted window-panes—and glimpsed him, in my visions, fleeing down the path?
And for my faith in fairies,
When, in the long, gold, drowsy afternoons, I CAUGHT them dancing in the dappled leaves amid the tree-tops?
And for those long, sweet years, when I waited for the coming of Prince Charming,
With visions far too dazzling, to "come true!"
And for all my other blind illusions—
My faith that all mothers are perfect, and have hearts of angels,
That all fathers are wise, omniscient, and kind,
All artists, geniuses,
All poems, born of the poet's inspiration—not from his struggles to buy buns, and baby-shoes!
My faith that LOVE is every woman's portion,
And that gold and fame lie at the end of every rainbow dream,
And every high endeavor!
The somewhere, somehow, some day, I shall find
The Perfect Man,
The Perfect Love,
The Perfect Life—and happiness!
And, that, when all these visions have been followed to the end,
Somewhere, across the Great Divide,
There is a Heaven!
Oh, clear-eyed, sane-hearted, undazzled Modern Girl,
I looked at you, in envy—yet, I wonder,
If you, with all your wisdom and philosophy and worldly knowledge of life's mysteries and problems as they are,
Have anything for which I would exchange one Golden Dream—
One foolish young illusion—
If you have anything, for which I'd care to barter that radium of the soul,
That multi-colored prism, through which only girlhood looks at life—
My young IMAGINATION!
Oh, Daughter of Today, in all your wisdom,
I bow before you—yet, sigh for you a little,
And wonder what they have left you, in all the world,
To DREAM about!

WIFE NEVER KNEW SHE WAS DIVORCED

New York, Oct. 6.—Mrs. Emily Barnum, 63 years old, of 210 46th street, has been divorced from her husband for twenty years and was not aware of it until she brought suit to force him to pay her $15.00 weekly, which she claimed the court ordered in 1900. "I was divorced from her in May 1900," said Barnum, and produced a decree of divorce granted in Manhattan. Mrs. Barnum declared it was news to her, as she had been under the impression that only a separation had been granted.

SYNOD FAVORS ENLARGED PENSION FOR ITS SERVANTS

Special Committee Will Report on Question of Denominational Papers.

Pictou, N. S., Oct. 6.—The weather man was in an ungracious mood today as the Presbyterian Synod met and rain coats and rubbers were in evidence. The new Moderator, Dr. J. W. Falconer, led the Synod in a devotional period. Mr. W. W. McNamara gave the report on business and a very full house faced a strenuous docket.

The first order was social service and Dr. H. R. Grant presented the report. He spoke quite hopefully in reference to the approaching referendum on Prohibition.

The Witness Case

The next order was concerning the Presbyterian Witness and Dr. Falconer made a statement bearing on the subject. By the action of the General Assembly and the General Board the Witness had been placed in a very difficult position. The Presbyterian and Westminster has been purchased by the General Board and is now an official church organ. The Witness is operated by a private company and cannot compete with the official church organ. Dr. Falconer put the matter in the form of a question.

Is the Synod convinced that the Presbyterian Witness is essential for the welfare of the Synod? This question was answered by a loud "Yes" from the floor. "Well, then," said the speaker, "if you are convinced of this, you must back your conviction up by your money." On motion by Dr. Pringle discussion was delayed until the report of the special committee should be given in.

The Aged Ministers

Dr. Anderson Rogers reported for the aged and infirm ministers committee. This fund is emerging into a position of security and adequacy in its provisions for aged and infirm men. Last year congregations contributed $6,000 in excess of the year before, making a total of $30,000. $47,000 was paid out last year to 147 annuitants. There are 800 ministers on the fund as paying members. It is hoped that shortly $625 a year can be paid to those permitted to retire.

Rev. T. McKerral of Toronto was heard also on the subject of the enlarged pensions scheme which has in view the increasing of the annuity to $1,000 and $500 per year to widows of ministers. Mr. McKerral was cordially thanked by the Moderator.

It was agreed that the committee, to strike standing committees, be asked to name a committee on general interests and also one on life service.

Glen of The High North

Rev. H. A. Cody's Latest
Book is Interesting Tale of Love and Adventure.

"Glen of the High North"—which is the recently published book from the gifted pen of Rev. H. A. Cody—breathes a spirit of cheerfulness and the joy of a clean out of door life in all its pages. The scenes are laid in that Northland which the writer loves so dearly and knows so well how to picture for his readers.

It was nothing for publication which Tom Reynolds the returned soldier-newspaper man found one afternoon and which sent him on the great adventure of his life. It was just the glimpse of Glen Weston, but that glimpse changed the young man's career and he travelled to the North in search of this girl, passing through many exciting hours and finding at last, love and gold.

Wild animals stalk in their paths and there are plotters against which Glen and her hero have to fight, but all ends well and the reader is left with a picture of absolute happiness.

There is about the book a purity and wholesomeness which will appeal to all readers, satisfied with the many serial tales now so prevalent in the modern novel.

Mr. Cody's books have a wide circulation both in Canada and in the United States and it is understood that Glen will also make her appearance on the screen, where doubtless she will prove as attractive as upon the printed page. It is an excellent sign when an author of Canadian origin, writing purely Canadian stories, becomes so popular and St. John and his native Province of New Brunswick wish him still further successes.

DIVIDED LIQUOR AT DIVORCE.

New York, Oct. 6.—When the court granted Mrs. Eugene S. Willard, wife of a wealthy real estate broker, a divorce, a stipulation was made that she and Mr. Willard go "itty-bitty" on the liquor in the town and country residences which the court had been occupying. The court called for a complete list of all "wines, liquors and cordials" in the possession of the Willard family and both plaintiff and defendant agreed to an equal distribution.

Robert Barnes Travis
The death occurred early this morning of Robert Barnes Travis, at his home, 280 Douglas Avenue. The deceased, who was the son of the late Hugh and Elizabeth Travis, is survived by his wife, formerly Miss Elizabeth Puddington; two brothers, John and Charles, and two sisters, John and Harold Olmo, and Mrs. Atkinson Morrison of this city. He was a native and a life-long resident of this city, and for many years conducted a drug business on Main street. Though in poor health for some time, the late Mr. Travis had been around on Tuesday, and the news of his death will be read with much regret by a large circle of friends among whom he was held in the highest esteem. The funeral will be held from his late residence on Saturday afternoon.

Alston Cushing.

Word was received in the city yesterday morning telling of the death of Alston Cushing, at one time well known in lumber circles in the province. He died Tuesday in Boston. Mr. Cushing was a son of the late

Andrew Cushing and was born in 1849 at Frankfort, Maine. When a young man he went to Salisbury, where he was engaged in the lumber and wood manufacturing for several years. He came to St. John on the death of his father and operated his father's mill at Union Point for four years, until it was destroyed by fire. He then moved to Houlton, Maine, and was active in the lumber industry there for several years. His wife, who died before him, was a niece of the late E. G. Dunn, of West St. John, also at one time prominent in the lumber business here.

Mr. Cushing is survived by two sons and three daughters, as follows: Andre Richmond Cushing, of Houlton; Mrs. Parker, of Houlton; Mrs. Baucher, wife of Dr. Baucher, of Boston; Charles Dunn Cushing, of Scranton, Pa.; and Miss Louis Cushing, of Houlton. R. H. Cushing, of Lancaster, is a brother, and Mrs. George B. Dunn, of Houlton, and Mrs. May, wife of Dr. Calvin S. May, of Boston, are sisters. G. S. Cushing, of this city is a cousin. Burial will take place here tomorrow.

Our Travelling Salesmen Enjoy Selling Red Rose Orange Pekoe Tea

Travelling salesmen work very hard as a rule. They put in long hours, and the pleasure of travelling is not so great as to those of us who mostly live at home.

Naturally, therefore, these men must get a great deal of their pleasure and satisfaction from their work—they like to sell the finest of products and represent a good "house".

Our travelling salesmen are exceedingly critical of the products which they are asked to sell, and when we told them last January that we wanted them to sell a new tea of extra quality—much finer than has usually been sold in Canada—they were keenly interested, put the new tea to many tests amongst their friends, and gave it a lot of time and thought.

Having convinced themselves of the extra fine quality of Red Rose Orange Pekoe Tea, they started on their trips full of enthusiasm.

Their satisfaction, however, has been much greater on their later trips, because of the splendid renewal orders which are following their first sales.

Like good merchants, our salesmen enjoy selling the very finest tea—Red Rose Orange Pekoe.

Try the tea which has met with so much success.
