Editor's Talk

OUR Contest Manager reports gratifying results in the competition which he has inaugurated to send fourteen girls to college and ten to Europe. Indeed, he is so pleased with the progress of events that he has decided to increase the number of prizes. This is being worked out so that every girl who enters will win a prize provided she reaches a reasonable limit. There will probably be 54 prizes instead of 24.

He has made a change in his districts, which will also increase the chances of each competitor. These are now as follows:

- District No. 1.—All cities over 75,000.
 “ “ 2.—Cities between 25,000 and 75,000.
 “ “ 3.—Cities between 10,000 and 25,000.
 “ “ 4.—Cities and towns under 10,000.

The additional 30 prizes will be awarded to all who fail to win one of the 24 primary prizes. For example, a girl who has done well in District No. 1, and yet fails to get one of the first four places, will rank in the extra list of thirty prizes according to her merit.

We again solicit the assistance of our friends in sending in nominations. We want to distribute as many prizes as possible to worthy girls who will assist in extending the “Canadian Courier's” circulation. This journal has now the largest circulation among Canadian periodicals and we intend to greatly increase our lead. This is only a means to that end.

Our friends may rely upon our assurance that any girl who enters the competition will be fairly treated, and she and her supporters will be delighted with the results. As the competition does not close until June 1st, the girl entering now has ample opportunity to rank among the winners. A nomination blank will be found in the advertising columns.
