

rdure, comme
contenter leur
de ces deux
un prix médio-
n ce moment.
on en combat-
Jeux Pythiens,
gracieux des
ande qu'ils ont
ix sciences en
d'égaux pour
paternelle de
ent cher à tous
par un immense
sauroit empê-
er de pénétrer

JOHN FLEMING
nous devons à
ciété le félicite
n à la vue de
me un second
de ses faveurs
es.
ession de la
connoître.

ille pour Mr.

y and sincere
turned Gentle-
of my friend

Mr. J. Fleming, for the very handsome manner you expressed yourself on the occasion, on delivering the Medal to me as his agent.

I shall certainly convey to him your sentiments on the occasion accompanied with his laurel, being fully convinced, that the learned Gentlemen who form the Society, have bestowed this mark of their approbation where it was justly due; long may the Society flourish and increase to celebrate the annual revolving 4th of June, and to diffuse such loyal sentiments on such occasions, as was done by Mr. PLAMONDON, Secretary, to whom praise is due for the able manner he delivered his Speech on the many blessings we enjoy under the BRITISH CONSTITUTION; certainly such instruction from a young Society to a number of respectable hearers who are present on this day, must have proved highly satisfactory, and shews at same time the laudable pursuits of the Society entirely to be such as will do honor to themselves hereafter,

