

God has said thou shalt not steal, and we must do what God bids us; and we must not do what he tells us not to do.

Hope in God that he will help you, when you need help. We must trust in God if we would be safe, for the help of man is vain, and we ought not to place too much trust in him.

Ill ways cannot give any true joy to those who walk in them; they may for some time think that they have joy in ill ways, but it is a false joy and it will not last long. It will give pain in the end.