THURSDAY, SEPT. 26.

CRIMINAL CARELESSNESS.

The first accident of the shooting season is reported from New Brunswick, where on Saturday a thirteen-year-old lad was mistaken by hunters for a deer and fatally wounded. These accidents are far too common; every year at least half a dozen of them occur, and the repeated warnings of the newspapers seem to have no effect in diminishing their number. Probably they were not so frequent if they were dealt with in a different way, and the men who do the shooting punished for their carelessness instead of receiving the sympathy of their friends and the public, as is often the case now. There is really no more excuse for a man who fires at an object he sees moving in the woods, without having made out clearly what it is, than if he fired a gun at random in a public place. There are so many people in the woods, hunters, indeed, are more numerous than deer in many parts, and can be met with a dozen times for every time that a deer will be seen. If it were distinctly understood that such carelessness would be severely punished, we believe that it would have a salutary effect. Strangely enough, men are much more thoughtful when they know that their heedlessness will get themselves into trouble than when it is merely a question of injuring someone else.

ABOUT TELLING THE TRUTH.

"Should a minister in conducting a funeral service speak the truth concerning the deceased?" asks the Woodstock Express. That depends somewhat on whether he happens to be a married man and father of a family, and how well his life is insured, says the Hamilton Times. Truth is mighty, of course, and all that sort of thing, but we cannot think of a candid minister dealing openly and vigorously with the average deceased without seeing visions of a snapping coat-tail making frantic efforts to put distance between its wearer and a pursuing club. And perhaps it is not always necessary to brunt abroad the faults and follies of our kind over their dead bodies. There are few men whose sorrowing relatives' hearts might not be lacerated by post-mortem sandor of the kind hinted at.

But the opposite evil is to be avoided also. While it is not necessary to microscopically peer into all the little corners of a man's life to find material for scandal with which to spice an obituary or a funeral sermon, it is equally wrong to indulge in excessive eulogy. Let us leave that to the tombstone man and epitaph. How often we find the tombstone falsifying fact and glorifying baseness! When charity in the face of death can find nothing to hold up beside the strong light of truth for youth to emulate or age to praise, let us be silent; when we can extol a good trait, let us do so freely. We cannot help or hurt the dead; we may help the living who mourn; and we may help to fix for others a false standard of excellence. It is not necessary to wrong anybody or to do violence to anybody's feelings. Let us always be charitable in our judgments of the dead.

"Who made the heart," 'tis he alone Decidedly can try us;
He knows each string, its various tone.

Each chord, its various bias.
Then at the balance let's be mute,
We never can adjust it;
What's done we partly can compute—
We know not what's resisted."

FOR AMERICA'S CUP.

The great boat races that are of so much interest to the peoples of the two English-speaking continents, will commence to-day. Knowing that it is clearly England's best against Am-

FAITH NO FACTOR IN THIS MAN'S CURE.

Persuaded to try South American Rheumatic Cure it proved its potency. Seven years' pains dispelled forever in twelve hours.

I was Rheumatism victim for seven years, being confined to my bed for months at a time. I had no faith in rheumatic cure I saw advertised, but I was persuaded to try South American Rheumatic Cure and inside of twelve hours after taking the first dose I was free from pain—three bottles cured me.—J. erica's best, the people manifest an interest in these races far keener than that aroused by any enterprise projected in the world of sport, comments the Windsor Record.

The contending yachts will be so nearly matched on form that genuine seamanship, rather than tricks and devices of construction, should prove to be the deciding factor in influencing the results of the races. It is not who has the better boat, but which side has the better sailors, that will be the chief question at issue in the forthcoming cup races. Designer Herreshoff has done his best in Columbia, and Designer Watson has followed suit with Shamrock II, and the question now arises whether Skipper Barr or "Wicked Willie" can get the most speed out of a 90-footer in the delusive waters and treacherous airs of the cup course off Sandy Hook.

On this side, of course, the feeling is all with the British boat, and the Canadians have gone so far as to figure out a victory for Sir Thomas Lipton. The Columbia in 1899 beat the Shamrock I. by ten minutes in an average ten-knot breeze, and by six minutes in a thirteen-knot breeze. There was no reaching in either of these races, both consisting of windward and leeward work. The Shamrock I suffered from poor handling, as is generally acknowledged both in America and England, and she suffered even more from the frailty of her spars and standing rigging, whereby her sails failed to keep up in the wind. In her races with the Shamrock II, her spars had been stiffened and strengthened, and her sail plan reduced, which made her, it is stated on the best authority, at least five minutes faster over a thirty-mile course. She also made a gain owing to better handling. Yet in the later trials of the Shamrock II, when the improvements found necessary had been made, she beat the Shamrock I easily. Going to windward she gained three minutes in thirteen and a half miles, the boats having split tacks to avoid interference; going to leeward in a seventeen-knot breeze she gained four and a half minutes in thirteen and a half miles, while on a broad reach in a thirteen-knot breeze, she gained four and a quarter minutes in seven miles. These results are said to indicate that the Shamrock II is about twelve minutes faster in a club-top-sail breeze than the Shamrock I. In the form the latter showed in the races of 1899.

Under all these circumstances Sir Thomas' new boat would appear to have a very good fighting chance to lift the cup, even assuming that the Columbia is a little faster than she was in 1899.

An illustration of how time heals even the worst wounds, occasionally, is to be found in the fact that the President of the United States to-day is the son of a Southern mother, and had two uncles who fought on the Confederate side during the Civil War.

There is much in the contention of Mr. Ralph Smith, M. P., in his address before the Dominion Labor Congress that Canadian labor organizations should be found on national rather than international lines. Officials in our own country and of our own country are far more likely to understand the conditions, laws and people to be dealt with in Canada than officers living in the United States would.

When we read about a body of armed men raiding a community known as Guffey Hollow in Westmoreland county, Pa., and driving twenty-five families out of town by day-light, because of being anarchists; when we see that in another place anarchists are mustered in force, armed with shotguns, to protect a place where a man rejoiced in the slaying of the President, we begin to realize how much anarchy prevails in the adjoining Republic.

Now that the immense wheat crop of Manitoba is safely harvested the people are taking stock of what the yield will be this year, and the general estimate puts the value for the Province alone, at about $30,000,000. When it is remembered that, all told, there are but some 35,000 farmers in Manitoba it will be seen that the returns to each are very large. There are probably 40,000,000 acres in Manitoba under cultivation, and there are still millions of acres of unappropriated land just as good as that from which the splendid crop was taken this year.

KEEP THE ISLANDS.

Montreal Star.

The proposal to sell the Thousand Islands is naturally meeting with much opposition from the Ontario papers. The commercial spirit is not one to be cultivated to the exclusion of all sentiment, but even from a practical and purely monetary point of view the sale at the present time is not wise. It would not be pleasant for Canadians to see the Stars and Stripes floating from the various islands, and the villas of United States millionaires adorning them, and to see signs on the shore warning all to keep off the grass. But this would be only a sentimental objection. The practical objection would be that the value of the island house lots will increase, and it might be as well to wait until the country is reduced to the last crust.

MONTREAL LIVE STOCK.

Montreal, Sept. 23.—About 1,000 head of butcher's cattle were offered for sale to-day at the East End cattle market. The supply was much greater than the demand, consequently a large number of good animals remained unsold. There has been a drop in the price lately and the choice cattle sold for 10c per lb., good animals at from 8 to 9c per lb., and the common stock at about 2 1/2 to 2 3/4c per lb. A number of sheep and lambs sold at 3c per lb. There was a good attendance of local butchers, but on the whole the market was only fair.
