NEITHER SIDE SCORED.

In a game during which neither side scored a goal, and in which the hardest fought finish was seen, about 2,500 spectators saw the Chatham and Darrell Peninsular League teams fight for victory.

Everyone concedes that Baker, Chatham's splendid goal keeper, was the star of the contest and was responsible in a great measure for the score remaining a tie. He made many brilliant stops, and was especially busy in the last part of the second half of the game.

The Chatham team was considerably weakened, Messer being unable to play, Parrott being unable to get off, and Angus being injured in the early part of the game. All the boys, including Dennis and Smith, worked hard and effectively.

The first part of the contest was, if anything, in Chatham's favor, and many were the rushes on the Darrell side, resulting in corner after corner but with no definite score.

The last half came to an end with the leather in Darrell territory after Hicks at left half made a splendid drop.

The second part of the game opened with set determination to score on both sides and the fight was the hardest yet seen here. The last fifteen minutes saw the Darrell forwards keeping the ball south of the goal in Chatham territory, and kept up a continued fusillade on goal, but Baker, ably assisted by Flowers and Courtney at back, were there at all times with the goods.

Darrell backs worked very effectively and their clean, long drives counted continually, while the work of the forwards was fine.

WARNING TO ENGLAND.

Should Not Mistake Attitude of Canadians.

London, Oct. 26.—A barrister, writing to The Sunday Special, says the strength of the American case before the Alaska Tribunal rested upon the negotiations, and the Canadians' upon the words of the treaty expressing the mood of the negotiators in 1825. A glance at the map shows greater plausibility for the British case, though something can be said for the other side. Lord Alverstone and his American colleagues hit upon a third course, for which the map gives little justification. One can hardly be surprised at Mr. Aylesworth's strong language.

A Canadian, writing to The Express, says: "Let not English statesmen deceive themselves regarding the attitude of the Canadian people as represented by the tone of the Canadian papers. The Alaska case is an infinitely better test of Canada's attitude towards the motherland than her sentiment at the time of South African war. The Anglo-Saxon over-seas has not lost the fighting blood of his ancestry, which Canadians would hesitate to sacrifice to uphold their own on the continent of British North America." After declaring that American social claims, social prestige, immense wealth and adroit manipulation of men affected the verdict, and referring to Canada's demand for more power regarding treaty-making, the writer adds: "The machinery binding the self-governing colonies to the motherland is antiquated, insufficient and absurd as a handloom compared to a new machine driven by electric power."

Edgar Wallace, The London Daily Mail's special correspondent in Canada, wires from Winnipeg regarding the Alaska verdict that it is a diplomatic Majuba. In British Columbia feeling is so bitter it is impossible to predict the result. The award puts the question of preferential tariffs in a new light. Britain must take a decisive step to wipe out this unfortunate incident.

The Globe says:—"It is most unfortunate that Sir Wilfrid Laurier should have again used language that is certainly not compatible with the perfect loyalty to the mother country it is our right to expect from all the colonial Prime Ministers. If his present indiscretion, call it by no worse a name, stood alone, it might charitably be attributed to a momentary gust of unpatriotic impulse, but on previous occasions he has similarly appeared of somewhat doubtful devotion to the British Crown."

The Saturday Review on the betrayal of Canada says:—"The decision imposes upon the loyalty of the premier colony the severest strain to which it has ever been exposed. The Foreign Office enjoys the triumph of registering the removal of another difference with America by the familiar process of abandoning all we contended for, seeing that the process of our diplomacy throughout has been pressure upon Canada to give up her rights. In the hope of again clasping the ever-elusive phantom of American friendship, they have deliberately thrown away the future of the great Canadian territory and played havoc with the fortune of our client. The criminally careless trustees of the nation's assets shall have to pay the penalty of the future. There is little doubt the Foreign Office was prepared to surrender anything asked of them; there is equally little doubt, as far as Canada is concerned, we have made the last sure if some day she says 'Canada fare de sender on her behalf. What wonder so.'"

LONG SESSION CLOSED.

Topics Dealt With in the Speech From the Throne.

Ottawa, Oct. 26.—Parliament was prorogued on Saturday after having been in session for 227 days. The weather was raw and cold, and little interest was displayed in the closing ceremonies. Few members were present and the corridors of the House presented a deserted appearance, which was in marked contrast to the bustle and life of the past seven months.

At 11.15 the Commons were summoned to the Senate, where his Excellency sat enthroned. The Governor-General prorogued Parliament in the following speech:—

In relieving you from further attendance after an unusually long and laborious session of Parliament I desire to convey to you my best thanks for the assiduity you have shown in the discharge of your onerous duties.

The session now closing will long be remembered, not only for its great length, but for the many useful and important measures that have been enacted, all tending to advance the prosperity of the country.

The unprecedented number of private and public bills that have been passed during the past session may be taken as an evidence of the great industrial development that is going on throughout the Dominion.

A steadily expanding revenue has enabled my Government not only to materially reduce the debt of the Dominion, but also to submit for your approval numerous grants for useful public works in addition to liberal subsidies for the extension of our railway system, which contributes so largely to the development of the country.

In view of the flow of immigrants now seeking homes in Manitoba and the Northwest Territories and the rapid increase of products requiring facilities to reach the markets of Europe via Canadian ports, and in order to promote the settlement of the great areas of agricultural, mineral and forest lands still untouched in the older Provinces, my Ministers considered it essential to obtain authority from Parliament for the construction of a second transcontinental railway, the eastern division of which should serve as a common railway highway from Winnipeg to the maritime ports of Canada. It will be the duty of my Ministers to proceed immediately with the necessary surveys, so that the work of construction of that portion of the line which extends from Moncton to Winnipeg may be prosecuted with all possible speed.

D. MCGREGOR MISSING.

Clothes and Valuables Found at Oakville.

Oakville, Oct. 26.—Yesterday about 5 o'clock while Arthur Felan and Norman Tyrell were strolling on the lake shore road they discovered lying on the ground a coat and vest, silver watch, gold chain, pocketbook containing bank book with the name D. McGregor, on the Merchants' Bank, Galt, with $269 to his credit, the last deposit being made on the 5th of October. In the pocketbook was a calling card, and on the back was written "Tired of life."

The spot where the clothing was found was in a gully near the lake. The boys searched the bushes near by, but were unable to discover any trace of the missing man. His watch was stopped at 1 o'clock. Later developments show that Mr. D. McGregor has been boarding at Mrs. Wash's, Rosedale Farm, for the past three weeks, and left there last Monday morning for the first train, presumably on his usual business, and has not been heard of since. He leaves a wife and three children who are still at Rosedale Farm. Searching parties will go out once and see if any traces of the unfortunate man can be found. No reason can be given for his disappearance. Mr. McGregor was at one time manager of the Bank of Commerce at Galt.

RIDLEY COLLEGE BURNED.

Early Sunday Morning Fire at St. Catharines.

St. Catharines, Oct. 26.—One of the most disastrous fires that has occurred in St. Catharines for some time took place, when the fine building occupied by the senior Ridley College on Yate street was totally destroyed. About 2.30 o'clock one of the students was awakened by the smoke, and immediately gave the alarm, but the fire had got such headway that it was impossible to stop it. The pupils and inmates were all quickly awakened and got out of the building, and no one was injured, although some of the boys had narrow escapes, and had to get out in their night clothes, and almost all of them lost everything they had. There were nearly seventy students in the building at the time, and with the teachers and help, made up nearly one hundred, and it is a great wonder how they all escaped uninjured. There was great excitement for a time, but the roll was quickly called, and it was found that all had escaped. The fire was first discovered in the upper part of the front, in what is called the trunk room. The wind at the time was blowing a gale, which swept the fire from one end of the building to the other, and there was little chance of saving any portion. The only part saved was the gymnasium. How the fire started is unknown, as the room in which it was discovered was kept locked and no one had been in it. The building was erected in 1864, and for a number of years was run as a sanitarium by the late Dr. Mack. In 1889 it was opened as the Bishop Ridley College, with Rev. J. O. Miller as Principal. The pupils in attendance were from all parts of Canada and the United States. The loss will amount to about $50,000, with insurance of $23,000, principally in the North British Mercantile Insurance Company. Only part of the walls are left standing. A number of firemen had narrow escapes during the progress of the fire from falling walls and chimneys. The students were all well taken care of, some by friends in the city, some at the junior college and at the different hotels. Steps are already being taken to rebuild, and a more modern building will soon take the place of the one destroyed.

A BAD ADVERTISEMENT.

The Paris Matin's Buried Treasure Leads to Trouble.

Paris, Oct. 26.—An enterprise started by The Matin, which consisted of concealing in the city a treasure, the whereabouts of which was included in a serial story running in the paper, caused trouble here Sunday. A crowd was seeking the treasure in the Buttes Chaumont Park yesterday, when a man drove up in a cab, alighted, and immediately found it. The crowd declared that the finder was employed by the paper and had been told where to look. They tried to lynch him, and he was saved with difficulty. Subsequently 800 persons marched to the office of The Matin, where they made a bonfire of copies of the paper, and threatened to wreck the premises. The police had a hard task in dispersing the mob.

The Woollen Manufacturers.

London, Oct. 26.—The Financial Times, referring to the Canadian agitation for an increased duty on woollen goods, says it is only in one section of tweeds that the trade has any ground for grumbling.

PURITY. LAGER BEER

"The Beer That is Brewed in Glass"

Lager Beer made in an impure cellar or imperfect vats becomes infected, is unhealthful, and liable to cause headache, sour stomach, and bowel trouble, and, as it will not keep, unprincipled brewers use preservatives to prevent its getting worse and the consumer has to suffer for it.

In Munich, supposed to be the home of Lager Beer, glass-lined steel tanks are rapidly superseding the wooden ones. This is done because they are thoroughly convinced of the bad effects arising from the use of wooden fermentation tanks.

In olden times Lager Beer was fermented and stored in underground cellars and left in damp, mouldy cellars to acquire "A.B." but all the time it was gathering bacteria and other wild ferment. Now, in a modern brewery, Lager Beer is brewed in glass, in the light, remains above ground and is watched carefully from the moment it leaves the kettle until it reaches the consumer. Frequent analysis has proven its superiority over beer made in the old way, and any one with the least judgment can see that it must be purer and more wholesome.

Walkerville Beer is the thing that will cheer

But the miserable stuff, made in cellars of must,
Is worse than a poisoned dart.

Schooner Kitten D. Released.

Toronto, Oct. 26.—His Honor Judge Hodgins of the Admiralty Court has given his decision in the case of the Dominion Government against the owners of the American schooner Kitten D. The fishing boat, it will be remembered, was captured on July 3 by the Canadian cruiser Petrel near the international boundary line, in Lake Erie, at which point the boat had nets out. Judge Hodgins held that as the evidence as to the exact locality was not clear, he would follow the doctrine of international law, that in the case of doubt the decision should be against the subtraction of a ship to a foreign territorial sovereignty.

Any irregularity on the part of The Planet carrier boys will be immediately remedied by calling at the office or phoning 53a.

THE MULLAH AGAIN.

Attacked Men From an Italian Cruiser and Killed Several.

Rome, Oct. 26.—The Government has received the following from Illig, in Italian Somaliland:—"Owing to the close watch kept on the Somaliland coast by British and Italian ships, the Mad Mullah was unable to get arms and ammunition by sea as previously, and so decided to make a desperate attempt to take possession of a point on the coast with 600 men, who on the 14th inst. attacked the Italian boats and killed several men. The following day the cruiser Lombardia bombarded the Mullah's position and obliged his followers to retire."
