

Would you spend $50 to win $500?

A YOUNG MAN spent six months at the Kennedy School. It cost him $50. We sent him to a position at $20 a week. In six months he would receive over $500. Do you know of any other line of work in which such returns are possible, and for which preparation requires such a small outlay. At even half the salary it would be a good investment.

That is what the Kennedy School is doing—training young people for business life as stenographers, bookkeepers, private secretaries, department men, etc. It is a business college modernized. If you would know more about it, ask for our booklets.

Positions for Stenographers

We maintain, at a cost of several thousand dollars a year, a Stenographers' Department. It is for the purpose of placing capable stenographers in good positions. During the past twelve months we supplied, to firms in this city alone, 1,529 stenographers.

The service is absolutely free. The department is large, thoroughly equipped, and in charge of an experienced manager. If you are looking for a position as stenographer, you are invited to communicate with this department
