The picturesque church of St. Michael and All Angels, Southwick, near Brighton, has been enriched by the addition of a magnificent oak lych gate which has been erected at the entrance to the churchyard. It was presented to the church by Mrs. Capel, in memory of her husband, the late Mr. Frank Charles Capel, who was the rector's warden for nine years and a liberal supporter of all Church work in the parish. The Bishop of Chichester dedicated the gate and then afterwards in the church preached a most appropriate sermon on Christian memorials and the Communion of Saints; how we pray for the departed and how they pray for us.
