subscriber. The Co-operative Company's bond will at first be of necessity a new and unknown article, and in comparison will, therefore, need an unusually favorable market at the outset. It follows that it would be a fatal mistake to bring the scheme into force at a time like the present when the market is in the worst possible condition. Very sincerely yours, (Signed) WALTER SCOTT, Executive Council, Regina, August 3, 1914.

THIRD PARTY QUESTION

Editor, Guide:—The question of the formation of a third political party appears to be creating considerable discussion, and I have read with interest the arguments for and against as they have appeared in The Guide. Without a doubt this agitation is spreading and gaining new adherents everywhere, and to those who are advocating the formation of this new party I would ask—What are to be its aims and definite policies? To legislate from the viewpoint of the grain growers alone? But what if that policy would conflict with a great national interest? The farmer is undoubtedly the most important factor in Canadian prosperity today, but he is not the only factor. Your third party must be a national party, not sectional.

With the opinion of your correspondents who advocate the running of candidates whose resignations are to be held by a committee of the party, I am in hearty disagreement, and all men who believe in clean government should fight such a proposal tooth and nail. It sounds heroic, but what is it but the advocacy of caucus rule—the basest form of tyranny? A man of principle—an honest man—would feel himself dishonored in accepting membership under such conditions! On the other hand our degenerate politicians would flourish like the green bay tree. Would that be national gain? What is it that distinguishes the statesman from the party hack but the courage and far-sightedness that dares to fight for an unpopular cause? Everywhere we meet men who say that we need a third party. Possibly we do. Certainly we need to wipe out of existence the muck-raking, grafting party politician of today. But let me urge those who advocate this reform to study socialism; for what is that we are fighting but the vested interests? This agitation is but one phase of the great social upheaval that is shaking the whole wide world. We are all, in our own way, fighting a section of the community who have gained control of the earth and the fruits of the earth. They have gained that, and they own all the rest of us—they own the means of life, and he who owns the means of a man's work owns the man. Radicalism is helpless and hopeless. It is the rich man's apology for his conscience, and the poor man's apology for his ignorance. We have got to gain control of the means of life if we wish to be free men:

"Then none were for a party,
But all were for the state;
And the great man helped the poor,
And the poor man loved the great.
Then lands were fairly portioned,
Then spoils were fairly sold;
The Romans were like brothers
In the brave days of old."

That is the ideal I preach, that is the ideal of socialism. And again I urge the advocates of a third party to study this question. They, in their agitation, are asking for honest men—nothing more when you consider it—and how can we expect to obtain them under a system of competitive capitalism where the plums of success and power are attained, best, easiest attained, by methods of business that are nine parts knavery and one part robbery? Yes, I believe we need a new party, a party that will absorb all other parties, and who will preach and carry into practice the doctrines of socialism:

"But crown her queen and Equity shall usher in,
For those who build, and those who spin,
And those the grain who garner in
A brighter day."

JOSEPH H. ANDREWS,
Langbank, Sask.
