Hans Miron, who lost his life tain party, describing O'Brien's outfit, at his post of duty on the burning to which witness replied that he had. He had reached Selkirk the next day, of his early introduction to the stern on the 14th, and had registered at the realities of his chosen career. He had Savoy hotel. He was positive the meeting with O'Brien had taken place where as cabin boy he was to serve his on the right bank of the river below apprenticeship to the sea and was still Minto and near an Indian graveyard which is situated on a high bank. The Minto roadhouse register was shown witness who identified it as being the one in which Mrs. Fussell kept the accounts with the mail carriers and it showed that he had registered on the date mentioned.

On the 25th of December witness had reached Minto from Mackay and was asked by Capt, Fussell if he had met layson, Relie and Olsen. He replied that he had not but that he should have met them about 12 miles up towards Hutchiku according to the time they had left Minto. He had seen Olsen on the 23d at the Minto roadhouse while he was waiting for the mail to arrive and on the 24th Olsen had started up the line to do some repair work.

Andrew P. Anderson was next called to the stand. At that time he was running a road house, 14 miles above Setkirk and testified to seeing O'Brien between the 5th and 11th of December. He could not swear to dates as he had been for a number of days without seeing anyone, it being the period of the closing of the river when there was no travel. Capt. Fussell was the first man whom he had seen and the captain told him it was the 8th of December. In this way he had fixed the date of seeing O'Brien. A man named Graves was with the defendant and they had two dogs-one large and yellow, and the other a smaller black one. He minutely described their meeting and several little incidents which happened at the roadbouse where O'Brien and Graves put up for the night. Three or four days later Graves came back on bis way towards Selkirk. He said they had a cache of goods 14 miles below Selkirk and asked witness to buy some goods from them. Two days afterward O'Brien followed him carrying a roll of blankets on his back. Some days later O'Brien returned to the roadhouse and sold him some candles and a few other things. Constable Pennycuitt was also examined and testified to meeting O'Brien and his partner on the 13th of December in the vicinity of Seikirk. The case was then adjourned until Saturday morning at 10 a. m., when other witnesses will be examined.
