

Every housewife

takes as much interest in her clothes closet as in her parlor or dining-room. It is only when its contents are scanty and white that she is satisfied. She knows this snowiness can only be secured by means of a pure soap. She knows the greatest satisfaction comes from using SURPRISE SOAP. She is always pleased to display her linen and muslin to her woman callers, because they will stand the most critical inspection. Taking all in all, she is perfectly satisfied with the results of Surprise Soap.

The growth of this institution during the last two years has been wonderful. The attendance has been doubled on account of the thorough course of training which we give. One of our young men is now drawing a salary of $1,800 a year; another $900; others from $400 to $800. Within the last month two of our students have gone direct from the College to positions paying $500 a year. WE QUALIFY OUR STUDENTS TO FILL THE BEST POSITIONS.

Young people are foolish to spend the best part of their lives learning Latin, French and the dead languages, when a few months spent in our Commercial or Shorthand Department will fit them to earn salaries like the above. Eighty-seven per cent. of all our students who have written on the examinations of the Business Educators' Association of Canada this year have been successful. Send for Catalogue.

God Save the King.

The mystery that enshrouds "God Save the King" has come up for discussion recently a good deal, possibly because the fact that it is now once more the "King" and not the "Queen" has turned people's minds back across the years when it was the King before, and so on to a more completely historical mood. H. Sutherland Edwards, writing as follows in The London Daily Express, seems to exploit the subject pretty thoroughly:—

"It has been proposed to erect a monument to the author and composer of 'God Save the King.' But he or they must first be discovered. Charles Boade, with that 'mania for certainty' which Boade declared himself unable to understand, believed that Henry Carey wrote both words and music of 'God Save the King'; and he was indignant with his fellow-countrymen for having allowed such a man to die by his own hand in abject poverty—forgetful of the fact that when Carey committed suicide 'God Save the King' had not even become generally known."

"He is said to have introduced it in 1740 at a dinner given in honor of the taking of Portobello, but without claiming it as his own; and he died in 1744, whereas it was not until after the suppression of the rebellion of 1745 that 'God Save the King' was adopted by the army and the nation as a hymn of national triumph. "Other critics and commentators, in discussing the origin of 'God Save the King,' have divided the honors, attributing the music to Dr. John Bull (who wrote a bar or two of something resembling it) and the words to Ben Jonson—alas, poor Jonson! Purcell, too, has been named as the composer, and Dryden as the poet—alas, poor Dryden! The plan seems to be to attribute it at random to this or that eminent poet and to this or that eminent musician of each successive period."

"But out of the competition go at once Ben Jonson and Dr. John Bull, Dryden and Purcell, Lull, Henry Carey, Handel and Dr. Arne. If Carey is allowed to remain it can only be in the character of singer and introducer of the song in the very form which now belongs to it. If we bid Handel stay for a moment our only reason for detaining him is to consider how it happened that during his half-century in England, from 1712 until 1759, he never seems once to have conducted the performance of 'God Save the King' neither after Dettingen, in 1743, nor after Culloden, in 1746. Had 'God Save the King' possessed such importance, such significance as belongs to it now, Handel would have introduced it, or at least, would have made musical reference to it in his Dettingen 'Te Deum.'"

"It does not, in modern phrase, seem to have 'caught on' very quickly, for, first sung in 1740, it did not find its way into print until 1746. It was evidently not until after the suppression of the insurrection of 1745—a Scotch insurrection supported by France—that the song became associated with national and patriotic feeling in England. Before the end of the century it had acquired such fame that it was translated and adopted by the Governments of Denmark and Prussia; and the Russians made it, in like manner, their national anthem after the Emperor Alexander's visit to London in 1814."

"Now, leaving aside the disjointed history of 'God Save the King,' so difficult, so impossible, so profitless to follow, let us see what, judged by internal evidence, the song really is. It is beyond doubt a Jacobite song converted into a Georgian one by the simple process of changing in the first line 'Great James our King' into 'Great George our King.' Regard it in this light, look upon it as a play on the restoration of a King waiting his time beyond the water, and it is all perfectly intelligible. The meaning for the first time becomes clear to these previously incomprehensible lines:—

"Send him victorious, Happy and glorious, Long to reign over us." "They, however—that is to say—send the King from foreign parts to his own land, where, arriving with victory before him, he will long reign over his faithful subjects. "Where," it may be asked, "did Henry Carey get the Jacobite song which he audaciously introduced as a Georgian song at a dinner given in honor of that insignificant event, the taking of Portobello?" The song was a thousand times too important for the occasion, and it was directed against the very Sovereign whose name was celebrated in the opening line. Henry Carey may have been a Jacobite himself. The world was not his friend, nor the world's laws. He was the natural son of a great nobleman, and probably, therefore, a revolutionist by birth."

"The 'God Save the King' introduced publicly by Henry Carey was an English version, with political variations, of a Latin hymn written throughout in the 'God Save the King' metre which used to be sung in the Chapel Royal of James II., when that Sovereign was still in occupation of the throne. Of the music to which the Latin hymn was sung, nothing is known except that it must of necessity have been in exact metrical correspondence with the words, and was probably identical in all respects with the music to which 'God Save the King' is sung now, as in the days of Henry Carey."

"Here, if anywhere, the story of Lull's having composed it comes in; for it was in 1685, the year of James II.'s accession, that Lull would have produced the hymn in praise of Louis XIV., which he is said to have composed for Mme. de Maintenon's Ecole de St. Cyr, opened in that year; the hymn from which the air of 'God Save the King' is alleged to have been taken. But the music of Lull's hymn has apparently not been preserved, and the personal origin of our national anthem, both as regards words and music, is still and will doubtless for ever remain an absolute mystery."

A Lover of Nature. Charlotte Becker, in Outing:—"He knew the first sweet wood-note of the thrush. The first pale wind-flower hidden in the grass. The little shrubs where fire-flies saying 'mas' swing low their censers through the marsh-land's dusk. The quickened sound before the poignant lull. Which preludes charges at old earth's culm— That magic moment when the seasons pass. And all live things to newer promise rush. He loved the bob-link's familiar call. The friendly clover nodding to the bee; The tiger-lilies flaunting, gay and tall. Their motley coats of spotted harmonies; And when the night lay on the forests grim He heard the tree-tops creak a song for him."

A SURGEON'S BLUNDER.

Artery Severed While Undergoing an Operation—No Longer Necessary to Use the Knife for Piles.

Saturday's paper contained the account of an accident whereby a young lady lost her life. While undergoing an operation the surgeon's knife slipped, an artery was severed, and before the surgeon knew the result of his error the patient was in a dying condition.

Every surgical operation is attended with great risk to life as well as being a severe strain on the nervous system and an expensive method of treatment. Doctors formerly recommended an operation as the only cure for piles, but that day is past, since Dr. Chase's Ointment has proven its absolute control over every form of itching, bleeding and protruding piles.

Physicians who are considerate of the well-being of their patients do not hesitate to recommend Dr. Chase's Ointment, and only those having a mania for operations claim that cruel method as the only cure for piles. By promptly stopping the distressing itching and burning Dr. Chase's Ointment brings quick and lasting relief.

Rev. S. A. Dupran, Methodist minister, Concession, Prince Edward County, Ont., states:—"I was troubled with itching and bleeding piles for years, and they ultimately attained to a very violent form. Large lumps or abscesses formed so that it was with great difficulty and considerable pain that I was able to stoop. At this very severe crisis I purchased a box of Dr. Chase's Ointment, but had little or no faith in it, as I had tried various remedies before and to no purpose."

"Now, imagine how great and joyous was my surprise to find that just the one box cured me, so that the lumps disappeared and also the external swelling. I feel like a different man to-day and have not the least doubt that Dr. Chase's Ointment saved me from a very dangerous and painful operation and many years of suffering. It is with the greatest pleasure and with a thankful heart that I give this testimonial, knowing that Dr. Chase's Ointment has done so much for me. You are at perfect liberty to use this testimonial as you see fit for the benefit of others similarly afflicted."

Dr. Chase's Ointment has been endorsed by more people, including doctors and professional men, than any similar preparation of the world has ever known. It is the standard ointment for the cure of hemorrhoids, and the only actual cure for piles. 60 cents a box, at all dealers, or Edmanston, Bates & Co., Toronto.

It is all nonsense to talk about "our first parents"; no man ever had more than one complete set.

What does it profit a woman if she gain the whole world of knowledge and lose her own health? Young women students, and school teachers, eager, ambitious, and full of energy, neglect their health in the struggle to gain education. They eat insufficient food, and at irregular hours, they allow irregularity of the womanly functions to be established, and the result is that their become chronic invalids with all their education practically worthless. There is a plain road back to health for thousands. It is the use of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery for diseases of the stomach and digestive and nutritive organs, and Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription for diseases of the delicate organs of womanhood. This cure so certainly follows the use of these remedies that out of hundreds of thousands who have tried the treatment, ninety-eight in every hundred have been perfectly and permanently cured. Constipation, with its calamitous consequences, which is a common ailment of students, can be entirely cured by the use of Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets.

When nature wishes to appear lively and beautiful, she takes a bath, and the example is good one for the human family to follow.

SLEEPLESSNESS. You can't sleep in the calmest and stillest night, if your stomach is weak, circulation poor, and digestion bad. Hood's Sarsaparilla strengthens the stomach, improves the circulation, perfects digestion, and brings about that condition in which sleep is regular and refreshing. It does not do this in a day, but it does it—has done it in thousands of cases.

A FOREST IDYLL.

A Canadian Poem of Merit Sent to a London Journal.

In the season of the year when primordial nature summons us all to the woods, Mr. L. S. Higgs sends this charming "Forest Idyll" from South Pender Island, B. C., to a London Journal.

I perched from out the canopy walls And saw the golden crescent rise From silent waters, heard the call Of roosting birds, the far replies; I saw the golden crescent pale, The gradual starlight fade away, And rays of morning pierce the veil That hides the earth from coming day.

I crept among the terraced hills, And hummed ridges, dropping sheer The gorges curved by babbling rills, And, silent, sought the blowing deer; My buckskin footsteps on the moss In falling gave no fearful sound; I trailed the mountain side across, And stole along the hunting ground.

Where random rocks bestrewn the wood, And velvet moss-flats lay between, A graceful doe alertly stood, Her fawn was crouching in the green; An early jay was screaming near, When suddenly there seemed to fall Upon the grass a feathered spear, A single mellow trumpet-call.

The carbine slipped my careful hand, With cedar sprays my face I screened, And craning over a boulder, scanned The open space that intervened— A scanty score of fawns appeared, Between me and the speckled fawn, And saw upon that lone resort The idyl of a forest-land.

The level sunlight on the dew, It bore the scent of danger near, And drooping hemlock branches threw Across the spot a fretted spear; In the midst, with modest mien, Upon a lichen-stone reclined, A willow-grouse surveyed the scene, Nor hidden watching eyes divined.

Her mate, his crest red on high, Deeming her mistress too demure, With pompous strut and strutted by, A turkey-cock in miniature; The open fan, the trailing wings, He flaunted proudly while he made, Obdurate to the law of taming, His passionate and vain parade.

He passed a tip-toe, puffed with pride, Three times about the dais-stair; His lady, coy, preoccupied, Refused to deign a glance to meet. Upon the lichen-stone he sat, Her eyes she hardly deigned to cast, Except when once and twice again He blew a liquid trumpet blast.

A morning seephy snatched the spell, It bore the scent of danger near, And once upon the silence fell The whistle of a startled deer; The drama faded at a glance, The heroine and her mate had flown With sudden whirling wings; askance I looked, and found myself alone.

Empty of hand, yet full at heart, Alone I rose and turned to go; Heard afar the brushwood part Before the panic-stricken deer, And following fawn, and looking back, He hoped to see the piece still; In vain; upon the homeward track I wended slowly down the hill.

The Bee as a Barometer. Such should be the title of these lines, for whoever observes these interesting insects finds it easy enough to foretell exactly the kind of weather to be expected. At least that is the opinion of many raisers of bees.

Generally the bee stays at home when rain is in the air. When the sky is simply dark and cloudy these busy workers do not leave their dwelling all at once. A few go out first, as though the queen had sent out messengers to study the state of the atmosphere. The greater number in observation until the clouds begin to dissipate, and it is only for such that the huddles entire rush out in search of their nectar. A bee never goes out in a fog, simply because it is well aware that dampness and cold are too fearsome, redoubtable enemies. We do not mean, however, that the bee is a meteorologist in the absolute sense of the word. Its cleverness consists in never being taken unawares, for it possesses untiring vigilance. Often one may observe the hidden entrance of bees into the hive when a dense cloud hides the sun, and even though the rain is not in evidence.

First Printing Press in Canada. Nothing, except in barest outline, is known of the men who had the honor of setting up the first printing press in Canada. Their names are William Linn and Thomas Gilmour. In 1763 they came from Philadelphia to Quebec with the idea of starting a newspaper, but the difficulties in the way were so many and arduous that it was a full year before the attempt came to anything. All material—ink, paper, the press itself—had to be imported from England, and skilled labor did not exist. Overcoming all obstacles, however, the first number of the Quebec Gazette appeared on the 21st of June, 1763, with one hundred and fifty subscribers, and from that day Canada was never without a newspaper.

Zorra's Gift to Dr. Mackay. This incident of the late Rev. Dr. Mackay, of Formosa, is told by a correspondent of The London Advertiser:—"I had the pleasure of being acquainted with Dr. Mackay some years ago. He preached for us in St. Mary's Presbyterian Church about 30 years ago. He also spoke of his intention of going out as a missionary to the heathen in Formosa, where he soon after went. He was always a man of great earnestness and his heart was always in his work. On one occasion, when building a church he sent home to Zorra township for $5,000, and without apology demanded that it be sent at once. The amount was made up and sent by return mail."

Paper Wood. Paper wood is as hard as wood itself, is susceptible of brilliant treatment, is vastly lighter, perfectly adjustable and absolutely fireproof. The erection of skyscrapers necessitates a very serious study of fireproofing treatment of wood, and the result is that paper is coming very largely into use in all cases where woodwork has to be used. It is particularly adaptable for ceilings and is becoming popular for that purpose.

ONLY ONE ESCAPE.

A man may break away from prison but he cannot get away from the torture of rheumatism until he takes Dr. Hall's Rheumatic Cure. It is the only reliable remedy on the market. Mr. Charles H. Clarke, Kingston, Ont., who for fifteen years in succession held the civic street watering contract could not put on his boots or walk for several weeks. He tried Dr. Hall's Rheumatic Cure, and three bottles, with the Clinax Iron Tonic Pills, completely cured him. This great blood purifier is put up in bottles containing ten days treatment. ASIA AND THE CHINESE EMPIRE.

It is a characteristic of American enterprise and thoroughness that an advertising pamphlet, issued by the passenger department of a railroad, treating of a country on the other side of the world should be strictly up to date as regards geographic, historical and political facts. No. 28 of the New York Central's "Four Track Series," treats of the Chinese Empire as it exists to-day. The large colored map is a new one corrected by information secured from the allied powers. The descriptive article embodies 20 years' experience in that country and the pamphlet is of interest to every one who is watching the growth of American commerce with the Orient. No. 28 will be sent post-paid for five cents to George H. Daniels, General Passenger Agent, New York.—From The Wall Street Journal.
