RUIN OF CANADA

Principal Grant Fears Spirit of Commercialism in Dominion Affairs.

Kingston, Ont., Jan. 8 .- Principal Grant, who has just recovered from a long illness, delivered an address in the vapor every night. Not a Queen's university on the opening of disease germ can live in this vapor, the spring term. The principal is adof some length before the students of mired by many Canadians as the man who is not afraid of "the world, the you have heard so much about. CON. 8, RADEIGH.

The marriage of Sydney Aldis to Miss Bella Brown, oldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Brown, of the 8th concession, was the crowning event of New Year's Day in Raleigh. The bride was handsomely attired in white organdie, carrying in her hand a shower bouquet of white carnations. The bridesmaid, Miss Ethel Brown, was also attired in white organdie was also attired in white organdic and she carried in her hand a shower bouquet of pink carnations. Hill-yard Aldis, brother of the groom, acted as best man.

Rev. R. Thompson, the Methodist minister who performed the ceremony, was assisted by the Rev. W. R. George the Episcopalian minister. Miss Hill, of St. Thomas, played the wedding march.

The large number of useful and handsome presents showed the high esteem in which the contracting parties were held by their many friends. After partaking of a dainty repast with the guests, the happy couple departed for the home recently prepared for their future occupation.

Drugging Will Not Cure Catarrh This loathsome disease is caused by germs that invade the air passages of the head, throat and lungs, and can be cured only by inhalation of medicated air. Stomach medicines, atom-izers, snuffs are ineffectual, because they fail to reach the cause of the trouble. Catazzhozone is successful because it is inhaled to every part of the breathing organs, and has power to kill the germ, heals the inflamed tissues and prevents droppings in the throat. Catarrhozope treats more mucous surface with every breath tak-en through the inhaler, and affords instant relief. It perfectly cures Catarrh, Asthma and Bronchitis. Sold by Druggists. UNCEASING VIGILANCE. The Way the Subtreasury In New

It was a sharp faced guard in the sub-treasury in Wall street who got his eye on the visitor and watched him closely to the point of annoyance. The visitor, who was there on business, had occasion to wait in the corridors of the building, and, not being a frequent caller there, he was unused to the customs of the employees.

"Waiting for anybody?" asked the guard, walking up to the stranger in a businesslike way.

usinesslike way. "Yes. Why?" "Hes. Why?"

"Who, please? It is my business to ask. I am one of the guards here."

The stranger pricked his ears and told his business and occupation.

"That's all right, then," explained the guard. As he was walking away he was asked.

"Is all that 'show' a rule of the department or is it pure vigilance?"
"No," said the guard, sweeping the broad floor between the latticed office windows; "it is not exactly a rule, but it windows; "it is not exactly a rule, but it is a common sense precaution."

"Do you expect any one to poke in here somehow and be fool enough to try to rob this place, with half a dozen armed guards sitting about?"

The question seemed to please the guard, and he unbent.

"Til tell you how it is. I have been in this place just six years now and never yet have I gone to my post in the morning without saying to myself, "Today, maybe, something big will happen.' That, I think, is the way we all feel down here, and there is no reason why we should feel otherwise. In all the schemes that you, presumably an bonest man, can suggest there is not one that would hold wagest there is not one that would hold wa-ter in the proper locting of this place; similarly with a million other people. "But it is the next fellow we need to

But it is the next fellow we need to watch for. The impossible has happened too often before. It can happen again. There is not a point, not even the contingency of sudden mob violence, which has been overlooked in the guarding of the treasury here. But what we do fear is the one single project that has been overlooked, the 'impossible.'

the one single project that has been over-looked, the 'impossible.'
"Here and there when strangers are asked their business in case they show a disposition to loiter they become angry. In that case they are promptly dealt with unless they explain in time, but most men see, as you did, that this is an extraordinary place and that when we inquire of people their business it is not done for our own edification."

And the guard excused himself to make the tour across the open floor space, ev-ery inch of which he could see from where he was standing.

LOTTA'S BIGGEST NIGHT.

Miners of Hamilton, Nev., Threw Their Riches at Her Feet. Lotta, the actress (in private life Miss Charlotte Crabtree), left the stage at the height of her popularity for reasons never definitely stated.

Her singular influence over rough men was exemplified by an incident that occurred when she was about seventeen. In charge of her mother she was making a tour of the Nevada mining camps. She landed at Hamilton, one of the roughest camps in the territory. An expectant crowd of particularly rough miners was at the tavern to meet her when the stage rove up. When there alighted from the stage spare, elderly lady, who was Mrs. Crabtree, and a little girl in short frocks, who was Miss Crabtree, the disappointment was loudly and vociferously e However, any show was better than none, and that evening the miners fairly packed the place where the show was to take place. Two billiard tables had been pushed together to make a stage, a cur-tain being dropped between for purposes of retirement. At the hour set for the opening there stepped from behind this curtain on to the front billiard table a demure little creature, with skirts reach ing to the knees and carrying a banjo slung negligently over her shoulders.

The audience was very cold. In less than half an hour, however, Lotta had every mother's son of them in a state of high wrought enthusiasm. She sang to them, danced for them and told them funny stories with tireless energy, and they encored her again and again. Finally one man in the audience, carried entirely away by enthusiasm, came down to the front with a whoop and, throwing something on the stage, cried out:
"There, you can have my pile."

The example was contagious. In less than a minute every man in the place was scrambling eagerly forward to divest himself of riches in order to lay them at Lotta's feet.

The result of that night's work was the most profitable in the history of Miss Lotta's career on the stage either in Nevada or anywhere else.

An Abnormal Appetite. A native of Wittenberg on one occa sion after eating a sheep and a sucking pig ate by way of dessert sixty pounds of pig ate by way of dessert sixty pounds of prunes without taking out the stones. On another occasion this same individual devoured two bushels of cherries, several earthen vessels, chips from a furnace, pieces of glass, some beetles, a shepherd's bagpipe, rats, birds with their feathers on and a number of caterpillars, finishing up by swallowing a pewter inkstand, with its pens, paper knife and sandbox. We are informed that when these luxuries were partaken of he was sandox. We are informed that when these luxuries were partaken of he was generally under the influence of brandy, but that he appeared to relish his singular food and was a man of extraordinary strength. He died in his eighty-first year.—London Tit-Bits.

His Sweetheart's Joke. A young man in Newcastle recently re-ceived a letter from his sweetheart in an-other town, and in it he was told to "look ander the stamp on the envelope."

The young man spent an hour steaming that letter, and when he finally got the stamp off he read, "Was it hard to get off?"
