WHO THE CANDIDATES ARE

In the following symposium The Observer gives a fair review of the four candidates offering for election to the Legislature. Honest voters will choose the first two, who are pledged to oppose the Government in its wild career of graft. They are pledged to run their election without the expenditure of a dollar or the use of a drop of rum to influence voters. The government candidates have refused such a pledge and are known to be backed by a huge "campaign fund."

GEORGE W. UPHAM

George W. Upham is one of the best known business men of the county. Although still in the prime of his manhood he has successfully conducted a lumber business for some 25 years. In 1893 he saw at the mouth of the Becaguimac an ideal sight for a large sawmill and forthwith began to build, selling out later to A. H. Sawyer. (It was thus that Hartland's chief industry began). Mr. Upham for years ran a big mill on the Gibson Branch, and for the last few years has been at the head of the Upham Lumber Co. doing business at Odell River, tributary to the Tobique. Mr. Upham resides in Woodstock.

In 1909, soon after the Hazen-Fleming government attained power, Mr. Upham was successful in winning the seat in the Legislature made vacant by B. F. Smith resigning to run against F. B. Carvell in a federal election. He won over his opponent by a handsome majority.

In the Legislature Mr. Upham ably supported the remnant of his party that had been returned at the general election, bringing credit to himself and to the county he represented. He is not a college man and his education is not of classic order. He is a busy, rough-and-ready lumberman, with plenty of common house-sense, and a man who holds his pledged word as sacred as his bond; a man who has kept his honor un-defiled and whom all men respect. There is nothing "narrow" or mean about George Upham and his friends are not all of one political faith. Returned to the Legislature he will seek no favors for himself, no graft for his friends, nor will he submit to the cunning devices of the lobbyists. He will demand a square deal for all the people, and will not hesitate to express his hard-headed sense and sound judgment at the right times.

ANDREW D. MCCAIN

Mr. McCain is a young man and the only son of his father, H. H. McCain, who very creditably represented the county in the Legislature for a number of years. "Andy," as the young candidate is known to a real host of friends, has never been in public life, but he might just as well not have had M. L. A. attached to his name these past four years, as he will have during the next four. Young Mr. McCain is so well known throughout the county that it seems superfluous to state that he was reared in the produce business, and is now at the head of the McCain Produce Company, one of the largest buyers of farm products in the province. No man can point to Andy McCain and say "he cheated me; he is a crook; he is a grafter; he did not give me a square deal." Rather, his record is of honest dealing, as every farmer for miles around will bear willing witness; he is a conscientious, straightforward, hundred-cents-on-the-dollar man. And no one is going to accuse Andrew McCain of going into politics to enrich himself. That was not the record of the prideful father who preceded him in the legislative halls, and Andy will maintain not only family tradition but his own personal ideals. Similar to his "running mate," Mr. McCain's real education has been gained in actual business, although as a legislator he shall have had the advantage of academy schooling. But we want not so much of classic lore in the Legislature as we need the experience of real men who have won success through business done squarely; men who have profited by being true and just in all their dealings. For that Andy McCain is such a man, and such a man in such marked degree, the people will on Sept. 21 return him at the head of the poll.

B. FRANK SMITH

Mr. Smith has been longer in public life than any of the candidates and he needs no introduction to the people of Carleton county, or of Victoria county, or of Westmorland county where he admitted that Fleming had done grave wrong. Mr. Smith is the man whom the Fredericton Gleaner described as having already made trouble enough for his party. But Frank Smith is a smart man. We must in all honesty concede that. If any one thinks he is a fool they've got another guess comin'. Sharp, keen, shrewd—and cunning. Mr. Smith being naturally a smart man, with splendid business ability, it is all the more shame that he is not honest and that he is not straight. Had he these absolutely necessary qualifications we know of no man better qualified to be Minister of Public Works. But, alas! In his career he has left a trail so crooked that it would break the back of an eel if it attempted to follow therein. We do not want seriously to refer to unproven stories of his office building resting on logs stolen out of the river, or of sawmills mysteriously burned, for these tales may have been maliciously formulated. They are best left unmentioned—best for Mr. Smith as well as the Observer, who could not prove them. But the farmers of Carleton county should remember the

WHO WILL YOU VOTE FOR?

The local government of the day finds itself with all the signs and symptoms of a lively fight on its hands in Carleton county. The nomination of Messrs. McCain and Upham is a sign that the county is going to see the sharpest fighting in many years. These men make a strong and sterling ticket.

They are known favorably in every parish. They are practical, straightforward business men of high-reputation, each has a large personal following.

They will fight, and they will command a fighting support. The effort to elect them will be no half-hearted and perfunctory performance; it will be the kind that will shake up the county from end to end.

The Carleton county voter who really wants good government—how can he hesitate in choosing between George W. Upham and Andrew D. McCain on the one hand and the Hon. B. F. Smith, and the running mate who approves of Smith, on the other?

The frantic attempt of the government workers to line the electors up as Grits and Tories in this fight will fail.

Hundreds of Liberals voted for Mr. Fleming in 1908. They will not vote for Mr. Smith today.

They voted for Mr. Fleming and his ticket in the real hope that they were going to improve conditions. They will vote against B. F. Smith now for the same reason.

And many Conservatives will vote for the opposition ticket now because it is composed of sincere and reliable men, and because Messrs. Smith and Fleming have brought discredit upon their party and harm to the province.

Thousands of electors in New Brunswick, regardless of politics, are saying to themselves today: "This is the time to clean up." Carleton county must have its due proportion of such men. They do not want Mr. Smith as Minister of Public Works: they do not believe the government can last or should last: they are confident that it would be overwhelmed tomorrow if the people had an opportunity to pronounce upon its conduct.

Clergymen, whatever their politics, will naturally be expected to exert their influence upon representative men in both parties to set their faces resolutely against the use of money and intoxicants.

Now that the opposition position in this matter has been made public, clearly and officially, those in Carleton county whose regard for public morality is sincere cannot fail to recognize the opportunity to make a real beginning in the task of raising our election-eering methods to a decent plane.
