Miscellaneous.

"Ah," said the nice young man with bangs, as the little boy let him in the other evening. "Ah, my little man, is your sister at home." "Yes, she's at home, but she ain't expecting you." "And how do you know she isn't expecting me?" "Cause I heard her tell ma that you're too mean to hire a horse and sleigh, and she didn't expect to see you while the snow lasted."

Crumbs of Comfort.

Ear ache, toothache, head ache, neuralgia, and deafness can be instantly relieved and finally cured by Johnson's Anodyne Liniment. Get a bottle and read directions.

They were returning home from the rink, and had nearly reached her home, when the young man observed: "Isn't the weather cold and raw?" She must have misunderstood him. "Raw," she said, rather hesitatingly, "Yes, I like them raw, but," she continued looking sweetly in his eyes, "don't you think they are nicer fried?" What could he do?

The editor of an agricultural paper says there is absolutely no cure for hog cholera, but that Sheridan's Condition Powders given occasionally will certainly prevent it. Be sure to get Sheridan's. The other kinds in large packs are trash.

Electricity.—Of all the known Electro-Galvanic appliances at the present day it is now conceded by the Medical Fraternity and Electricians generally, that the American Galvanic Co's HOWARD SHIELDS are the best, possessing intrinsic Electrical merits, as one shield or appliance can be fitted to any part of the body, which is not true of any other. See advertisement in another column of this paper.—Electric Gazette. tf.

Do you know there are strange people in our community? We say strange because they seem to prefer to suffer and pass their days miserably, made so by Dyspepsia, Liver Complaint, Indigestion and General Debility whne Davis' Quinine Iron and Wine will cure them. An Illinois philanthropist wishes to benefit the poor by teaching them to eat their bread and butter with the butter side down. He says that the sense of taste is most acute on the tongue, and that a very small amount of butter is satisfactory if put in the obviously right spot.

"Can you tell me what time it is?" asked a lady while waiting in a bank. "No, no; I am not the teller. Next window, please."

Care of the Feet.

When the feet are damp and cold it is impossible to keep well. There will be a cough, or sore throat, or hoarseness, sick headache, or some other annoyance.

If cold and dry, the feet should be soaked in hot water for ten minutes every night and when wiped and dried, rub into them well ten or fifteen drops of sweet oil; do this patiently with the hands, rubbing the oil into the soles of the feet particularly.

On getting up in the morning, dip both feet into water as cold as the air of the room, half ankle deep for a minute in summer; half a minute or less, in winter; rubbing one foot with the other, then wipe dry, and, if convenient, hold them to the fire, rubbing them with the hands until perfectly dry and warm in every part.

If the feet are damp and cold, attend only to the morning washing, but at night always remove the stockings and hold the feet to the fire, rubbing them with the hands for about fifteen minutes, and get immediately into bed.

Under any circumstances, if the feet are cold enough to attract attention, draw off the stockings and hold them to the fire; if the feet are much inclined to dampness, put on a pair of dry stockings, leaving the damp ones before the fire to be ready for another change.

Some persons' feet are more comfortable, even in winter, in cotton, others in woolen stockings. Each must be guided by his own feelings. Sometimes two pairs of thin stockings keep the feet warmer than one pair which is thicker than both. The thin pairs may be of the same or of different materials, and that which is best next to the feet, should be determined by the feelings of the person.

Sometimes the feet are rendered more comfortable by basting half an inch thickness of curled hair on a piece of thick cloth, slipping this into the stocking, with the hair next to the skin, to be removed at night, and placed before the fire to be perfectly dried by morning. Persons who walk a great deal during the day, should on coming home for the night, remove their shoes and stockings, hold the feet to the fire until perfectly dry; put on a dry pair, and wear slippers for the rest of the evening.

Boots and gaiters keep the feet damp, unclean, and noisome, by preventing the escape of the insensible perspiration and odor which are constantly emanating from healthy feet, hence the old-fashioned shoe is the best for health for the strengthening of the ankles, by habituating them to support themselves.

Pieces of newspaper wrapped around the feet over the stockings keep the feet remarkably warm. Cold feet arise from the want of vigorous circulation in them; this is often remedied by putting them in hot water in a wooden vessel, so as to cover the toes; in about ten minutes put both in cold water, the colder the better, of the same depth, for half a minute; the object being to produce a shock calculated to draw the warm blood to the soles; this may be done on retiring and rising. Nothing should be considered a trouble, which can have even a slight tendency to keep the feet warm, because there never can be recovery from disease or substantial good health without it.—Ex.

How Money is made upon the Farm.

As a general rule farmers make more money in proportion to capital invested than any other class of people. This is stoutly denied by farmers themselves, but a careful and honest comparison of vocations, investments and returns will prove beyond doubt that farmers have better returns from their capital than anybody else who follows a regular and legitimate business. Take a ten-thousand dollar farm well managed, compare it with a ten-thousand dollar mercantile business and note the difference. Do the same with small and large investments, and the farmer has the best of it. We do not intend to say that every farmer is as thrifty as any business man, because the thriftless farmer is a forlorn creature indeed. He would squat on a quarter section of choice raw land and waste the best of his years in getting started, and then would not have half a start. He would not make much more from his land than would pay for his tobacco. If it were not for his wife, he would be in the poor house. We mean thrifty, active, energetic farmers; men who push things; men that will pick out a good location on government land and have a good farm and a good start in stock and fruit at the end of five years; men that study their business and turn everything they touch to account.

In estimating the farmer's profits, he is apt to overlook a great many things which he does not put any value on. The writer of this was very much surprised once when he had to pay a farmer for a small quantity of buttermilk. We had never before thought about buttermilk having any value, though we were getting this particular lot for use. How many farmers count the value of the apples, cider or potatoes they have in their cellars, or the canned and preserved fruits, and the jellies and jams in their pantries? A thousand and one things are about the place that are useful, very useful, and would cost a good deal of money if they were bought from merchants, that in the farmer's books are not written down at all.—Ex.

Cranberries.

Doubtless every housekeeper thinks she can cook cranberries, and doesn't need to be told how; but there is not a more widely abused fruit than this same acid product of Cape Cod swamps. It is nothing or worse than nothing in itself; it becomes a delight when properly cooked. To one quart of cranberries allow one pint of cold water and one scant quart of granulated sugar. Wash the berries well, put them in a granite sauce-pan, pour the water over them and set on the back of the stove or range where they will cook slowly, but do not allow them to boil hard. When they are softly boiling add one-fourth of the sugar, pressing the cranberries down, but not stirring them. When the sugar has melted, add another fourth, and so on until the sugar is all used and turned to syrup. Do not on any account stir the mixture. When the berries are soft, they are done. It takes them half to three-quarters of an hour to cook them properly. When you have once cooked cranberries in this way, you will never return to the old fashions.—Boston Advertiser.

Knitting Up.—How many mothers know they can knit up as well as down? When children have reached the age when they wear out the knees of their stockings and the heels and toes also, the ingenuity of woman must be exercised. In the most hopeless looking stocking there is usually a strip at least an eighth of a yard long which is too good to throw away, and yet is too much worn to pay to ravel out and knit over; from this then cut off the ragged top and bottom, and knit up as well as down. If you cannot match the color, use another shade, or to a brown strip knit a scarlet or grayish brown top. —New York Post.

The American Dairyman says: "The art of butter-making will never reach perfection until we stop putting salt in the butter. It is a depraved taste that requires a salt taste in butter. The most critical judges in the old country never think of allowing salt to come near the butter, and after getting accustomed to it there is all the difference between the two that there is between salt and fresh fish, flesh or other dried or prepared food. The true epicure could eat a pound of unsalted butter at a sting. It will be money in the dairyman's pocket when salt is abandoned in the dairy."

In giving castor oil to children, turn your oil into a cup, have a steel fork heated very hot, and hold it in the oil until it stops "sizzling;" then add a teaspoonful of milk, and beat well. It will be found that they will mix to a pure looking cream. Add a bit of sugar, if desired, but I am always fearful of causing nausea by putting much sugar with oil. The little one will like this cream much better than clear oil.

The books the farmer's boy studies should tell him of the soil he is to cultivate, of the plants he is to raise, of the stock he is to feed, and of the tools he is to use, says Dr. Case, in the Husbandman. All of these subjects and others connected with agricultural pursuits are of surprising interest and importance, and yet of these things the boy that is to make a farmer learns not one fact from the books he studies.

A little less than a quart of sweet milk, thickened with a little more than a quart of graham poured into a hot muffin pan, baked in a hot oven, makes what we consider good gems. Am partial to food that may be well prepared without soda, as I fear it will cause the teeth to decay. Do you all know that eggs are nice baked in a buttered tin or spider?

To make corn bread without yeast, sift three quarts of meal, add a tablespoonful of salt, and mix with just enough water to make a thin batter; cover this with a cloth and let it stand until it begins to rise, and little bubbles make their appearance on the top; then pour it into a well-buttered tin and bake slowly in a moderate oven.

Never wash in warm water before going out in the cold air. It takes all the dirt off and leaves the skin exposed to the cold.
