Wonders

Are wrought by the use of Ayer's Hair Vigor in restoring gray hair to its original color, promoting a new growth, preventing the hair from falling, keeping it soft, silky, and abundant, and the scalp cool, healthy, and free from dandruff or humors. The universal testimony is that this preparation has no equal as a dressing, and is, therefore, indispensable to every well-furnished toilet.

"I have used Ayer's Hair Vigor for some time and it has worked wonders for me. I was troubled with dandruff and was rapidly becoming bald; but since using the Vigor my head is perfectly clear of dandruff, the hair has ceased coming out, and I now have a good growth, of the same color as when I was a young woman. I can heartily recommend any one suffering from dandruff or loss of hair to use Ayer's Hair Vigor as a dressing."—Mrs. Lydia O. Moody, East Pittston, Me.

"Some time ago my wife's hair began to come out quite freely.

Ayer's Hair Vigor

not only prevented my wife from becoming bald, but it also caused an entirely new growth of hair. I am ready to certify to this statement before a justice of the peace."—H. Hulsebus, Lewisburgh, Iowa.

"Some years ago, after a severe attack of brain fever, my hair all came out. I used such preparations for restoring it as my physicians ordered, but failed to produce a growth of hair. I then tried, successively, several articles recommended by druggists, and all alike fell short of accomplishing the desired result. The last remedy I applied was Ayer's Hair Vigor, which brought a growth of hair in a few weeks. I think I used eight bottles in two years; more than was necessary as a restorative, but I liked it as a dressing, and have continued to use it for that purpose. I believe Ayer's Hair Vigor possesses virtues far above those of any similar preparation now on the market."—Vincent Jones, Richmond, Ind.

Miscellaneous.

Don't be discouraged about that eczema till you have given Ayer's Sarsaparilla persistent trial. Six bottles of the medicine cured the complaint for George Thomas, of Ada, Ohio, when all other remedies failed to afford any relief.

The clothes and hat of a missing man were recently found on the bank of a Florida stream. The alligator had probable no use for them.

The evils resulting from habitual costiveness are many and serious; but the use of harsh, drastic purgatives is quite as dangerous. In Ayer's Pills, however the patient has a mild and effective aperient, superior to all others, especially for family use.

The minister—Johnny, are you a good boy? Johnny—No but I was before you moved into the neighborhood.

Go and do likewise. If your whiskers are grizzly and unbecoming use Buckingham's Dye and they will look as when you were younger.

So, Lucille, you want to know "What are the wild waves saying,' do you? Well they are saying 'Let us spray.'

Mothers!

Castoria is recommended by physicians for children teething. It is a purely vegetable preparation, its ingredients are published around each bottle. It is pleasant to the taste and absolutely harmless. It relieves constipation, regulates the bowels, quiets pain, cures diarrhœa and wind colic, allays feverishness, destroys worms, and prevents convulsions, soothes the child and gives it refreshing and natural sleep. Castoria is the children's panacea—the mothers' friend. 35 doses, 35 cents.

ALL ABOUT HAY AND HAY-MAKING.

BY MANY EXPERT AUTHORITIES.

When the acreage of meadow is large and the crop a heavy one, the mower is usually started just about the time the second bloom of timothy has begun to fall, and is kept going from sun up till sundown, during fair weather. The place chosen for the stacks or ricks, is, for convenience sake, near the centre of the field, and the derrick set up over the spot with the hay fork and switch-block at hand. On the second day of the harvest, the stacking begins as soon as the dew is off. To the twenty foot timber rake with sharpened teeth four or five feet long, projecting from two sides, a horse is hitched at each end, and the hay is brought up from a certain distance and fed on the stack by the hay fork, fastened by rope to the top of the derrick, and worked by horse power through a snatch block on the ground.

For growing or milch animals, clover hay is better than timothy or red top hay. It is richer in the protein compound—the muscle and bone formers. When corn, which is deficient in the albuminoids, is fed as largely as it is in many localities, clover is better than timothy to feed with it, even to fattening animals. Timothy cannot repair the corn's deficiency, even to fattening animals, but clover can. Clover may be a splendid feed for dairy cattle, solely because of its special adaptability to the production of rich milk, but also on account of the very excellent flavor and color which the clover plant parts to the butter. Clover hay is an important crop of the farmer that has young or milch cows and knows his business.

Clover hay is not easily cured with some of its good properties, and to make it, is rendered difficult to cure thoroughly, or it being in the damaged by rain and

The Chatham World of Wednesday says: The Miramichi brought up 125 boxes of salmon on Tuesday and left 15 boxes behind which it was unable to carry. She was literally loaded with fresh salmon. There were 2963 fish in the lot, averaging 10 lb. each, and worth about $3000. The steamer brought up two boxes about $2500 worth, on her previous Thursday trip. This is the greatest season catch in the Miramichi for many years. On Saturday last 111 boxes left the station, and on Tuesday the shipment was 171 boxes, a large quantity having arrived by teams in addition to the steamer load. The gross weight of the boxes, as they leave the station, is 350 lbs., but as the melting of the ice lightens them materially, they were billed at 300 lbs. Tuesday's shipment was the largest ever sent from here in one day.

NEW YORK, July 13.—Gen. John C. Fremont died this afternoon at his residence, 49 West 25th street, of peritonitis.

The majority of us cure our hay too much. We keep it in the sun until it is entirely dry and crisp, and the weather of the past month indicates, if not likely to be the rule, at least likely to be frequent, and when we have got it in the field, the mowed the meadow, we have done it and pasture of the best part. The cure proved to be unnecessary to the proper keeping of hay. It may be put in the mow when it has got decided grass and juice and is perceptibly moist to the touch, and it will come out bright and more palatable and nutritious, and the cattle will do better on it. Of course it is easier to put hay away dried than it is cured damp. Don't put it away when it is much less cured than heretofore by a small part will heat and spoil the rest, and it keeps sweeter, better and it keeps sweeter, the after use, except perhaps, a little somewhat greener, for another test. A day or two comes from the mow the meadow should be of a dull red and the edge of the leaves, instead of brown. Then not infrequently, it will pay to put it [illegible] and let it remain [illegible] morning—[illegible] to bring a shower there in the field and reduce the crop, which would cause injury in case of a wet season. I have had a full crop of [illegible] the clover averaging three feet high over and four inches to walk through with a level surface of almost uniform globular heads which afforded a beautiful view. After cutting, which I usually do in July, the new crop grows rapidly, and by September is nearly knee high to the cows. No other pasture makes so much and such rich milk as this, and in spring. I sow a quart of seed per acre in sowing in the seed with oats or millet and cultivate well, never failing to get a good stand. On account of its great substance it needs careful curing; and for 3 days in the cock, protection by caps, is necessary to exhaust of the sap and prepare it for a final day's drying for the barn or stack. I put one this year to save the seed by getting it as ripe as it can be. This variety of clover will not seed the second cutting, but will make good hay if kept for this purpose.

The exceeding value of clover as a pasture or green fodder plant gives it a high place among farm crops. In addition to its feeding value, it leaves direct results upon the land are also of much importance. And as there are now five varieties of clover in cultivation, it is well that the differences between them should be understood.

FARM WELLS.

The wells on the farm are a great source from which comes many diseases. Some wells are never covered. When they are carefully boarded over. The pump made tight and snug with the ground sloping away on all sides so as to allow the surface water to flow from the opening. There is no owe water that is pure. Something depends on the character of the soil. If sandy, and the water will disappear quickly after a rain, the well will draw the soil for a long distance around it, and the consequence will be that a large portion of the filth of the soil will find its way into the well, although the water may appear sparkling and bright. It is reported that these impurities are removed all the impurities from the water, but this depends upon whether the soil is of sufficient absorption, be more readily for the strongly saturated with impurities as to refuse to take up any more. That the soil does not remove all impurities, even from new ground where a well has been recently dug, has been demonstrated by saturating the surface earth at a distance from the well with corrosive sol. which gradually found its way to the well (having been washed down by rain), and imparted its color to the water.

If the soil be of heavy clay the danger is lessened, but on all porous soil the liability of pollution of the water is great. No manure heaps, privies, or other receptacle for filth or refuse of an kind should be within 100 feet of the well—the farther off the better. No matter how tight the well may be, the food will continue to get in. Many wells sometimes contain toads that die, and are swallowed in the drinking water unknowingly, under the supposition that the well is "toad proof." Wells should be cleaned at least once a year, and especially in the fall. For a distance of ten feet around the curbing should be cemented, and the water should all be carried off. Weeds, flies, bugs, and even cats will get in the water, which causes a few days of sickness in the family during the summer season. Wells enough rapid to exclude and con-

"A Stitch in Time Saves Nine."

Is an old proverb and if followed out through life much time, money and suffering may be prevented. A Cough or Cold neglected often ends in Consumption, which might have been cured in a few days had the proper remedy been used. Don't delay, delays are dangerous. Secure at once a bottle of

It will cure a cough or cold quicker than anything else you can use.

Dr. R. L. Botsford, Richibucto, N. B., writes as follows: I have prescribed and sold over eleven dozen of Estey's Cod Liver Oil Cream. I have had better results from its use than any other preparation of the kind that I ever used.

Ask your druggist for ESTEY'S COD LIVER OIL CREAM. Take no other.
