Miscellaneous.

LONDON, June 19.—The attempt to destroy the Town Hall, Liverpool, has caused a revival of the Fenian scare, and various reports are circulating, including one that a large quantity of cartridges have been found in the canal at Bolton. It is stated that Mr. Andrew Commons (Liber, and Home Rule) member of Parliament for Rostcommon, will defend McKevitt and McGrath (or Roberts) on their trial for attempting to blow up the Liverpool Town Hall. The authorities of the Portsmouth naval station are taking precautions to prevent the introduction of the explosives among the coal on board the iron-clads. The London correspondent of the Liverpool Post says: "In consequence of the attempt to blow up the Town Hall at Liverpool on the 16th inst., the regulations forbidding strangers to enter the precincts of the House of Commons with parcels, which had lately fallen into abeyance, will be re-ordered, and gathering of strangers in the lobby will be strictly prohibited. The police are renewing their vigilance relative to the personal safety of the Ministers." The Liverpool jail authorities deny the alarming reports relative to the attempted rescue of the prisoners McKevitt and McGrath, Sunday morning. Some accounts state that the crowd only assembled for a prize fight. In regard to the attempt to blow up the Town Hall in Liverpool, it is stated that McKevitt will plead that he was led into the outrage by Roberts, that he never belonged to any Irish association, and that he has resided in Liverpool ten years, and has never been in America.

PARIS, June 19.—M. Gambetta attended a banquet at St. Mande this evening, and after the dinner delivered a speech in which, after deprecating any reference to politics, he dwelt upon the free and happy condition of the French people, and went on to say: "For the last ten years we have had a prosperous voyage. We have outlived many temptations, and it is not at a time like this that miserable personal disputes should be placed in the scale with the welfare of the Republic. When our laborers have not been crowned with success one resumes them on the morrow with more ardour than before. People talk of the multiplicity of constituencies to whom I declared to intend offering myself for election. I am at home with one arrangement only, and that, I think, cannot be seriously contested against me." M. Gambetta's speech was greeted with loud cheers and cries of "Vive la Republique."

A Standard Fall River (Massachusetts) telegram of Sunday's date says:—Judge Brennan made a speech before an immense audience here last evening on behalf of the Land League. The enthusiasm was unbounded. O'Donovan Rossa, who accompanied Judge Brennan from New York, was loudly called for, and came forward to a deafening applause. He said: "I have little to say, the judge having covered every point. I might refer to his however, which I wish to be understood by everybody in doubt about it and that is, the English man of war Danteel was sunk in the Straits of Magellan by the aid of the Skirmishing Fund, and the English Government is afraid to acknowledge the fact lest it should give encouragement to the good men who are laboring that way for the liberation of Ireland from slavery. Buckshot Foster has refused to me in a stinging but complimentary terms. Buckshot Foster is an assassin in my race, and I here and now stigmatize him as a pollution on a fair. If he objects to this language, I am prepared to meet him in France, eye to eye and sword to sword." This was received with three cheers. Tiger Fall River is a great manufacturing centre with a large Irish population.

From a cablegram received in Liverpool, it appears that not only is peace in Ashan-ee assured, but that the Golden Age, which is the Ashantee authorities state, was the cause of all the "misunderstanding" at present on its way to this port, en route to London for presentation to Her Majesty Queen Victoria. The message containing this information was received by Messrs. Elder, Dempster & Co., the Liverpool managers of the British and African Steam Navigation Company, whose steamer Villa passed Madaga on Sunday. The emblem of Ashantee displeasure is in charge of Captain Barrow, who went out four months ago as one of the staff of Sir Samuel Rive, the Governor of the Gold Coast. Captain Barrow has all along been attached to Sir Samuel's staff, and it was this gallant officer who with a force of British troops marched into the interior to escort the Ashantee ambassador to the river Prah, for the purpose of having an interview with the Governor concerning the settlement of the threatened hostilities. The Villa, with the Ashantee ambassador, may be expected to arrive in the Mersey on Sunday. It may be recalled that after the conclusion of the last war with Ashantee a monument of the occasion was brought to this country for presentation to Her Majesty but on that occasion the trophy of victory was King Koffee's umbrella, an article of prodigious proportions and of gaudy material.

CALCUTTA, June 27.—All accounts seem to prove that the Ameer is daily growing more unpopular at Cabul. Stories more or less probable of the discovery of plots against his life are constantly reaching India. Orders have been given to construct an arsenal and fortress at Quetta. This is considered a practical contradiction of the report relative to the possible abandonment of that place.

WASHINGTON, July 2.—About 9 25 this morning President Garfield, accompanied by Secretary of State Blaine, drove up to the Baltimore and Potomac Depot on 6th Street, and sat in their carriage near the door. President Garfield asked one of the officers how much time he had before the train started. The officer replied, "About ten minutes, your honor." The President after conversing a minute or two longer, then got out of carriage with Secretary Blaine, and walked slowly up the steps into the depot. Mr. Kearney was standing close by and saluted the President by raising his hat. The President and Mr. Blaine walked through the ladies' parlor and entered the reception room in the main portion of the depot when two pistol shots were fired in rapid succession. The crowd screamed, "He's shot the President! Arrest the man!"

The assassin was making his way as fast as possible out of the building through the ladies' parlor towards the "B" street door, a carriage being there to take him away. Kearney threw himself before him and seized him. The first shot struck the President in the right arm. The President and Secretary Blaine seemed too much bewildered to realize the truth. Blaine shouted "Where is Colonel Rockwell?" Colonel Rockwell and several police officers came at once to his assistance and he was carried to the superintendent's room on the floor above.

The President did not say a word when first shot. Meanwhile the assassin was seized by those standing near and would have been torn to pieces but for the efforts of the police. He was taken to the police station.

Drs. Bliss and Pyburn were at the depot at the time and went at once to the President's side. Drs. Lincoln and Thompson were immediately sent for. A hurried consultation was held, and at 10.20 a.m. an ambulance called and the wounded President was lifted in. Colonel Rockwell and two police officers also took seats therein, and started for the White House.

The news spread like wild fire, and Pennsylvania Avenue was crowded almost as much as when the President rode to the White House in state on the fourth of March. A squad of mounted Police forced a passage through the throng and officers on foot guarded the entrance to the White House grounds.

The President was at once carried to his chamber and laid upon the bed. Surgeon General Barnes was also in attendance by this time, and a cursory examination showed that the second shot had lodged just over the kidney, and will in all probability prove fatal, but physicians still said there was hope.

When the President reached the White House his pulse was fifty and he appeared to be almost unconscious. His pulse at 11 a.m., had increased to 80. The patient had rallied after one attempt to extract the ball. The physicians determined to probe no more at present. He is now able to converse and talks cheerfully. He first complained of pain in the hip, and it was thought the spinal column was injured. The pain and nausea has subsided, as have also the symptoms of paralysis which at one time threatened. Absolute rest and quiet are essential and will be assured.

The latest bulletin says the President was suffering much pain and was very restless, and considerable hemorrhage has now resulted from the wound, and the nausea hardly so favorable, but hope is still indulged in.

All members of the Cabinet in Washington are about the President but he is unconscious. The city is in a state of great excitement. And gloom seems to pervade every heart.

The correct name of the President's assassin is Alonzo Gittan, an Attorney at law from Chicago Ill. After deliberately firing two shots from a revolver the President he exclaimed, "Now we will have Arthur for President."

The assassin is a foreigner by birth who has been an unsuccessful candidate for a consular position.

OTTAWA, July 1.—The celebration to-day was a grand success. About ten o'clock the excursionists arrived by the several railways from points in Canada and the United States. After the usual horse races, military parades, band processions, &c., the grand event of the day came off, viz., the boat race—single sculls.

The wind was pretty high, but towards five o'clock it calmed down and the water was all that the most fastidious could desire. The men were in their places or time, all but Warren Smith, who was unable to row on account of illness. Every available craft was put into requisition, and not less than twenty thousand people were assembled along the picturesque shores and islands that stretch along the course. Hanian acted as referee, and when the pistol shot, which was the signal, was fired all eight men got away in fine style, Wallace Ross having a slight advantage on the first quarter, but not more than a few feet, Gaudaur pressing him hard, the others following up closely till the half when Trickett began to weaken; and when Riley and Ten Eyck fell behind. At the turn, two miles there was no perceptible difference between Ross and Gaudaur, but owing to the wretched character of the race boat it was impossible to make out clearly.

On the home stretch Ross lead Gaudaur by a boat's length, which he maintained to the close. On coming up to the referee's boat Gaudaur claimed a foul against Ross. The other men came in as follows, Hossmer, Ten Eyck, Riley, Trickett—McDonald and Schaeffer out of the race after the turn. The prizes were $500, $200, $125 and $75.

WASHINGTON, June 14.—The remaining members of the Greely Arctic Expedition left here yesterday for Baltimore, where to-day they take steamer for Newfoundland. Those who did not go yesterday had already gone to make the necessary preliminary arrangements at St. John's they are to take the steamer Proteus for Lady Franklin Bay where a station is to be established from which future operations will be directed. It is intended that the Proteus shall return to St. John's and Lady Franklin Bay, carrying supplies. The houses scientific apparatus, &c., that are to be taken on the outgoing trip are the same that were prepared for the Howgate expedition last year. A small steam-yacht is also to be taken along. The men are all new to this sort of business, but they were selected for their hardiness and are confident of their ability to weather through. Lieutenant Greeley (who is in charge) is but thirty-six years old, and the average is twenty-nine. The plan is to accustom them gradually to the Arctic climate, instead of attempting sudden invasion into the coldest country. They will remain at Lady Franklin Bay, which is in 81 40, through next winter, and in the spring take sledges, and under Equinox guidance proceed northward. At a certain point not yet determined upon they will stop and establish a station, which in turn will be occupied by a second party for the spring of 1883. The present party pushing forward to a point still further north. In this way they hope in five seasons to reach a point as far northward as it will be desirable to go.

A BIGAMIST.—An elderly man named Samuel Whiteway of Sydney, was arrested on Friday last, charged with bigamy. The complaint was made to Justice McVarish by a woman who arrived from St. John's, Newfoundland, in company with her son, a young man about 25 years of age. The bigamy was arranged on Saturday before Justice McVarish and Clarke, when the
