The Monongahela, according to Mentists, is the chief villain in Pitburgh's fog troubles. The river, Mich is warmer than the air sweepthrough the valley, gives up a ortion of its water which rises as apor and quickly cools.

A film of oil prevents this union, at the problem for the investigators Mi Mellon Institute was to concoct a mixture that could be used at a asonable expense.

A satisfactory spray has been dis-Wered, Dean Mellor has announced. preliminary tests this spray covted small areas of water, and was 17 1-25th as thick as the ordinary alm which is used to destroy mos-

The Race of The Wind.

The recent twelve minutes tornado New York, which capsized 250 boats a caused the death of fifty people, realisation the great ower of the wind when it works at th Pressure. Happily, when it is I the incest furious mood, we are usally given warning.

The following table gives the difreat speeds of wind, according to asual meteorological discriptions: Hardly perceptible 1 mile per hour; perceptible, 2 miles; gentle breeze miles; brisk wind, 10 miles; very wind 20 to 25 miles; high wind, miles; very high wind, 45 miles; m, 50 miles; great storm, 60 miles; Micane, 80 miles. And great hur-the, capable of carrying trees be-te it, 100 miles an hour. When a tempest blown at sea, the may rush over the water at 60 an hour; but the waves, assisted other forces, will travel 20 miles

Perhaps the greatest speed of wind recorded was that at Wallingford, during a cyclone on March 22. The pace was just under 250

10th Annual

Poultry Show.

OPENED BY HIS EXCELLENCY THE ADMINISTRATOR-LARGE

The opening of the 10th Annual Poultry Exhibition took place in the C.L.B. Armoury yesterday afternoon. Professor J. P. Landry of the Agri-culturial College, Truro, N.S., who arrived in the city by Monday's express to make the awards, was present all yesterday afternoon and was particularly struck with the fine breeds of birds on display. The White and Buff Orphingtons, White and Barred Plymouth Rocks have been already judged. The Professor found that the different classes had showed up exceptionally well over previous years, very little being left to choose between the beauty and quality of the birds. His Excellency the Administrator, Sir

William Horwood, declared the show officially opened at 8 p.m. His Excellency in his remarks referred briefly to poultry raising in this country, and in concluding he wished the Association every success. The President, Mr. Geo. R. Williams thanked his Excellency for his attendance and the happy remarks tendered the Association. The formal opening was witnessed by a large gathering of people and each and all as they wended their way by sections to the various coops felt very much pleased with the excellent showing made. It certainly reffects great credit on the part of all those who have gone into poultry raising on such a large scale, and for the great care and attention that had been exercised in arranging to have the poultry placed on exhibition. The collection of birds, numbering 700 in all, is the finest exhibit arranged since the inception of the exhibition. They are classed by sections, and placed in their various pens.

The S.C. White Leghorn consist of a very large exhibit, while a large collection of Rhode Island Reds, Wyandottes and Barred Plymouth Rocks are to be seen. The White Plymouths are a beautiful string of birds in particular, while a fine assortment of White Chinese Geese owned by the Department Agriculture are also on exhibition, but are not entering into the competition. Also on exhibition is a model commercial poultry run, made from paper, which is the work of Mr. W. K. Chancey of Grand Falls.

The farm is built on a large area of ground judging by the scale of measurement, and contains up-to-date poultry houses, barns and outhouses.

It is indeed a fine piece of workmanship and was viewed with much admiration by those who had the pleasure of seeing it last night. There is also on display a fine collection of eggs, eight entrants taking part in the competition. Many of the eggs are very large and compare very favourably with those previously shown. The Association also has a large model poultry house on exhibition near the entrance of the building.

It is well built and shows exactly what a hen's house should really look like. The measurements are 12x12 and it is divided into three sections.

This will be lotteried, many of the tickets having been already disposed of last night. During the evening

Professor Landry gave a lecture on poultry culture in the gymnasium of the Armoury, which was illustrated with moving pictures. Four reels were shown, and much information was given in egg laying, care of the fowls, and the methods to be exercised in the using of an incubator, while a study was also made on vegetable raising on the farm. The lecture was most instructive and proved very interesting to all. Professor Landry will continue his series of lectures this evening, commencing at 8 o'clock. The poultry display also includes a large and well selected class of birds belonging to the outports. These are on the whole generally good, particularly the splendid string of Barred Plymouth Rocks by Mr. W. K. Chancey of Grand Falls, who has already won several first prizes. The judging will be continued to-day and a complete list of the prize winners will appear when all the awards have been completed. The show will remain open until Friday night, when Lady Hor-wood has kindly consented to present
