On Monday the case of fraud at Chatham on the Metropolitan Insurance Company was finally disposed of. Thos. B. McBride, of Port Dover, the young man convicted of forging the names to a spurious death certificate and the insurance company's check, was brought up for sentence and given one year in the Central Prison. The Darlington (Wisconsin) Republican contains a feeling obituary notice of Mrs. Jane Levitt, a pioneer of the neighborhood, who died last month, aged 79 years and 7 months. She was laid to rest in the family lot in West Ella Cemetery beside her husband, Thompson Levitt. She leaves two sons and four daughters, three children having died in England. Her oldest daughter, Mrs. Elizabeth Milestone, resides in Hull, Eng.; her second daughter, Mrs. Leonard Hughes, in Ilderton, Middlesex county, Ont.; her third daughter. Mrs. J. L. Scott, at Apple River, Wis., and her fourth daughter, Cynthia, at home. Her two sons, Thomas and Thompson, live in Wisconsin. Thirteen grandchildren and one great grandchild mourn her departure. Mrs. Levitt, whose maiden name was Hodson, was born in Walkington, Yorkshire, Eng., in 1815, on June 28, and was married to Thompson Levitt April 8, 1839. The family came to America in 1865, and settled on a farm in Monticello, Wis., where Mr. Levitt died April 20, 1891. Mrs. Levitt and daughter Cynthia remained one year after on the farm and then purchased a home in Apple River. where she died. Until about four months ago Mrs. Levitt enjoyed good health. Her chief campanion was her Bible, which she studied with umfaltering faith. She was naturally a religious woman, and her confident trust in the merits of Christ's atonement was never dimmed. The funeral services were held in the M. E. Church in Apple River. Rev. Mr. Griswold preached an eloquent sermon over the remains. Rev. J. F. in Foreign Countries. TORONTO, March 1.—Among the thousands of orders which weekly pour into the offices of the Dodds Medicine Company, Limited, in this city, are many from Austria, Great Britain, Germany and other countries. The curative properties of Dodd's Kidney Pills in eases of Bright's disease and concomitant ailments have been brought to the attention of friends abroad by patients who were cured here; they in turn have called the attention of their acquaintances to the marvelous effects resulting from the use of the pills, until now there is a steady and growing demand for the specific, and each foreign mail exhibits an increase in the orders.

Testimony of Miss Tulett and Other Witnesses.

Deceased Had His Cane With Him When He Left His Fiancce's Residence-He Was "as Jolly as Ever" That Night - A New Loan.

As time rolls by and the more the death of Robt. Hewson is discussed, the deeper grows the mystery in regard to the tragic death of the young man. The coroner's inquest was resumed last night before several hundred spectators. Many of the developments were new, and while they are regarded as disproving the suicide theory, they reveal no clue to the possible murder of Hewson. It has been proven beyond a doubt, both by the young man's flancee and her sister, that Hewson left the Tulett's house close on 11 o'clock on the night of the tragedy, and that he also carried a cane, which has not been accounted for. A searching examination (both of the deceased's late boarding house and of several witnesses) fails to reveal the whereabouts of the gold watch and chain. Hewson's money (and it has been shown that he had some a day or two before his death) has not been found, and these facts strengthen the opinion of Hewson's friends that foul play was the primary cause of "Corporal Bob's" death. Before any witnesses were examined, Mr. McKillop addressed the jury, warning the members in arriving at a verdict to take into consideration only what was presented in evidence.

Mr. Hellmuth appeaed in behalf of the friends and relatives of deceased.

GEORGE A. KIPP. George A. Kipp was the first witness. He had been at his brother's house, on Pall Mall street, on the night Hewson was killed. To get home he had to come down Adelaide street to Elias. Witness passed down the west side of Adelaide street with Mr. Dinsmore and Mr. Irwin about 11:40. Witness remembered passing a soldier at Central avenue, but saw no person else in the vicinity.

Wm. J. Dinsmore, a retired farmer, who accompanied Kipp, corroborated Mr. Kipp's evidence.
MISS ADA TULETT.

The young lady to whom deceased was engaged to be married next month was next called. To Mr. McKillop she said she first became acquainted with Hewson about six years ago, and was engaged to him for four years. He was always bright and cheerful. The evening of his death Hewson called on witness, and his conduct was the same as usual.

Mr. McKillop-Did you notice when 5c, 8c, Ioc YARD Hewson went in whether he had his cane? A.—Yes, he had, and he took it away with him. I remember him hold-A large assortment of Hand- ing the cane in his hand while we were

Q.—Did he have his watch with him? A.—He generally brought it, but I do not remember having seen him take out the watch that night.

Q.—You also knew the guard he wore? Miss Tulett replied that she did, and produced a photograph on which it was plainly shown. Witness could not state positively that she saw the locket that night, either, but thought she did. If Hewson did not have his chain witness would have been sure to miss it. She did not see him have a pocket-book the night of his death, but he had it the day previous, for she felt it in his coat nocket

Q.-Nothing was said about money that night. A.-Only that he had written to his brother Frank asking him if he could make use of $500 OR $600 for a little while, as he (Hewon) did not want to put it in the Postoffice Savings Q.—Did he say where he had got the money? A.—He told me about two weeks before his death that he had received some money, but the amount was not named. "I know he had the money the day before his death," added Miss "because we found a 10-cent Tulett.

piece on the floor, and Bob said it was not his; that his was in bills in there, and he pointed to his coat pocket." The last night deceased was at Mr. Tulett's he asked his intended if she had seen about getting the house fixed and ready for occupation. Miss Tulett said she had, but no definite steps were taken to have the repairs made. She remembered the hour of Hewson's departure that night. It was about 11 o'clock, as "Bob" wanted to get a good night's sleep, because he intended to go to a Masonic reunion the following night. As the clock struck the hour Hewson put on his clothes, bade Mr.. Mrs. and Miss Tulett good night, and went to the back door. "He had his cane in his left hand as he went out," said Miss Tulett. "and his hat in his right. We were not at the door more than five minutes." WAS NOT DEMENTED. Q.-And when he was leaving you, did he act differently to what he generally did? A.-Not a bit; he was just as jolly

The witness remembered looking at the clock some time after she went into the house, and it was 11:30. Q.—I believe your marriage with Hewson was postponed A .- Well, the date was never set. It was put off once because his sister died, again because my aunt died, and then he wanted to be away from the barracks before he To Mr. Hellmuth Miss Tulett said Hewson had stated that he had enough money to get a little home and some to spare. He never appeared short of cash. As to the time he left their house. Miss Tulett thought it was about ten minutes

HEWSON'S ALLEGED MARRIAGE. Q.-Have you ever seen Mrs. Weston since Hewson's death? A.—Yes. Q.-And you showed her a picture which she supposed was Robert Hew-son's wife? A.—Yes. Q.—And whose photograph was it? A.—It was "Bob's" sister, who has been dead three years. I was introduced to all the brothers and sisters as "Bob's' fance, and none of them ever hinted that he was married. Foreman Towe of the jury cross-questioned Miss Tulett and learned that Hewson had spoken to her about being a married man, but it was always in a joking manner. Hewson intended to go to St. Thomas to collect some money, and witness was going to drive down with him, but the man came to the Bernard House here and settled. This was a few days before his death. Miss Mary Tulett corroborated the story of her sister Ada in all material respects. She had heard Hewson once say in a joking way that "that was the way his first wife did something."

ROPROWED MONEY REPAID. BORROWED MONEY REPAID.
Fred Tulett, a brother of the two previous witnesses, had an engagement to go with Hewson to the Masonic reunion the night after the tragedy, and on reaching home on the Monday even-ing he received a message from Ada to meet deceased one hour prior to the commencement of the reunion. Witness often went out with Hewson, and had lent him quarters to save his (Hewson) breaking a bill. The money was always repaid. Bartender Stewart remembered having seen Hewson in the bar room on the Thursday prior to the accident. Hewson complained about losing a letter, and also told witness the circumstances of his collecting the money from the St. Thomas party. Deceased bought a drink, and after pulling out a bill he laid his pocket-book on the counter.

SAID HE HAD $500. Q.—Did Hewson say how much he got from the St. Thomas man? A.—Yes; he said it was about $500. He joked with me about the "gall" of the St. Thomas man wanting $5 to pay his expenses to London. Witness saw some bills in the pocket-book, but could not tell the amount.

THE DOCTORS' EVIDENCE. Dr. W. J. Mitchell related the condition in which he found the body—almost severed across the abdomen, the chest uninjured and the left arm badly broken at the elbow. He thought the latter might have been caused by contact with the engine. There were no injuries to the head.

Q.—Was there anything to indicate that he had been knocked insensible? A.—None whatever.

To Mr. Hellmuth the doctor said the deceased might have given one shriek, but that would be all. Q.—Did you examine the neck of deceased? A.—Yes, but found nothing wrong

WAS HEWSON DRUGGED? Q.—Could you detect whether Hewson had been affected by any drugs? A.—No; the stomach and other organs were completely destroyed. Mr. Hellmuth also questioned the witness whether or not it would be possible for a man to receive a blow and be killed by effusion of blood internally. without any outward bruise being vis-ible. Witness had never seen such a case, but he would not say it was impossible.

Ald. Frank Hewson was called to repudiate the story that his brother was married. "To make it short," said witness, "it is nothing but nonsense. He lived on the farm until he came to London about seven years ago, and if he had been married we would have heard of it." When deceased came to London he brought about $600 with him. He was to receive a share from the sale of his father's farm, which was to take place this summer. Deceased had never written the witness about a loan of

Mr. Hellmuth—Was your brother ever pressed for money? A.—Not that I know of. I borrowed $200 from him once, and he appeared in no hurry for its repayment.

NOT A RECKLESS YOUNG MAN. Witness did not believe Robert was reckless in his living. He never had any trouble with his relatives, nor lost money by speculating. "Did he ever speak in a despondent way about the future? No, indeed. In a letter we received often his return from Window." ceived after hi return from Windsor in January, Robert said he would soon want us to come to his wedding," was the witness' concluding remarks.

Wm. Hewson, of Jarvis, testified to Robert having taken $600 with him when he left the farm. This had been placed in the Bank of British North America here, but had all been drawn in a year. Mr. Hewson had not received word from Ottawa whether or not deceased had placed it in the postoffice here. The sale of the farm this summer would realize about $500 to de-HEWSON'S INSURANCE.

Mr. Henry Aikman, secretary of Court Dufferin, No. 4, I. O. O. F., stated that Hewson had joined the court in July, 1889, and took a certificate for $1,000 life insurance. It was made payable to Hewson's sister, but two years later was changed to Miss Tulett, the flance of deceased. Mr. Aikman had frequently met Hewson, who had paid his assessments regularly, and proved to be a man of his word. Hewson had attended the meeting of the court a few evenings before his death. Bransby Burnand, one of the jurymen, and an ex-comrade of the deceased, gave evidence as to Hewson's habits and disposition, and which was merely corroborative of previous statements. Burnand also gave some new evidence as to Hewson's finances. "A few days before his death," said the witness, "Hewson told me that he had witness, "Hewson told me that he had loaned $300 to a man in London or vicinity, and that he had received good security." Burnand had also been told about the St. Thomas loan of Hewson's, which amounted to between $200 and $300. Witness did not have any reason to doubt the truth of the statements. ments.
