DAIRY NOTES.

By J. W. Wheaton, Secretary Western Dairymen's Association. It is gratifying to know that out of the 28 prizes given at the Western Fair for cheese, six went to makers belonging to the cheese factory syndicate started by the association last spring. The silver medal was awarded to Frank Boyes, a maker in one of the syndicate factories. As there are only 17 factories in the group, it 8-9 speaks well for 8-9 being done by 8-9 of instruction. speaks well for the good work that is being done by this organized system

The dairy exhibit at the Western Fair this year was a very creditable There were over 200 cheeses on exhibition from the various cheese centers of Western Ontario. The flavor of some of the exhibits was not up to the mark, due, perhaps, to the very unfavorable weather during the time when show cheese had to be made. The exhibit, as a whole, showed offto good advantage, though some exhibitors should take a number of lessons yet in finishing up their goods. The maker has this under his control. and there is no excuse for cracked faces and projecting edges.

The butter exhibit was larger than ever, especially that of the dairy butter. The commodious refrigerator built this season was hardly large enough to accommodate the display. The quality was also better this year. Last rear the butter was weak in grain, a fact that was not so noticeable this year. The dairy butter was of very ine quality. The dairy exhibit was in bright, new quarters this year, and was so arranged as to show off to good advantage.

Inspector Millar assisted in conducting a test of dairy cows at the Brantord Fair on Sept. 23, and 24. He also had charge of a similar test at the Ripley Fair on Sept. 29. A milking test of dairy cows is becoming one of the chief features at some of the fairs, and must tend to stimulate the keeping of better cows.

Application for milk inspection have been more numerous lately, and sev-eral applications are awaiting visits from the inspector. Factorymen are requested to make frequent tests them-selves, and to keep suspicious sam-ples if a visit from the inspector is expected.

By visiting more than one factory in a day, Inspector Muir is able to visit think he must have everything cut each factory in the syndicate once a his order. We would like to show him his er- day at each factory, when it is not phers' Strike. A London Delegation to Interview the General Superintendent. The strike on the Western Ontario division of the C. P. R. has only reached the second stage, and may possibly go no further. However, that is hard to say, and the men, recognizing this, have taken the step which is the beginning of the end. One of the largest meetings of the company's employes ever held here assembled yesterday afternoon in Labor Hall to discuss the situation. Representatives from the Brotherhood of Lecenotive Frances Boilesson of Robert Wamsher, of Geiger's Mills, Locomotive Engineers, Railway Con- and they became engaged to be ductors, Railway Firemen, Railway married. After this Stoudt en-listed in the regular army, and was Trainmen and the telegraphers were present. The meeting had been called departments of the road. The meeting was unanimously in favor of sticking to the telegraph operators, whom they claim were for the most part justified in making the demand they did and taking the bull by the horns and going to the head of the company at once, as it was a question affecting the whole system.

The meeting decided to send a deputation to Toronto to interview General Superintendent Leonard, with a view to settling the trouble. This deputation is composed of representa-tives from all the railway departments, and will wait on Mr. Leonard tomorrow if the permission for an interview can be secured, which is altogether likely.

Several of the conductors and trainmen were seen yesterday after the meeting. It is stated by them that if the company hesitate to settle the mater, they will refuse to accept orders from the operators who have fill-ed the strikers' places. The conductors say that the bungling of orders has already started, and that the nonunion operators, expecting to soon obtain their release, will not over-exert themselves at small stations, attending to signal lights and semaphores. A few of the men yesterday took a hopeful view of the situation, and said they thought the matter would be settled by arbitration when no word had been received yesterday.

The operators west, who are in charge of stations, have refused to recharge of stations, have refused to relinquish the keys until an audit of their books has been made. They still continue to sell tickets, but will not touch a key. Some of the operators returned to work on Saturday morning on the strength of a rumor that the strike had been settled, but on learning that the condition of affairs was unaltered, went out again.

And Gets $3,000 in Lieu of "100," 000,000" Promised Kisses

Mr. Stoudt's "Dear, Dark-Eyed, Pretty Kitty."

Reading, Pa., Oct. 6.-A breach of promise suit in which there was written evidence of "100,000,000 kisses" promised to the fair plaintiff was terminated by a verdict for $3,000 damages in court here before Judge Endlich and a jury. It was the suit of Miss Emma C. Wamsher against Adam A. Stoudt, asking $10,000 for blighted affections. It appeared in evidence that in 1885 Stoudt was a public school teach-stationed in the far west. Many letters passed between them, and the to ascertain the feeling of the other promise of marriage, it is charged, was reiterated. Among the letters were passages like, "My Dear Emma," and "Yours in true love." On Aug. 8, 1891, one came from the Yellowstone National Park, saying: "Do not fail to take all the pleasure you can, as I am taking all

I can, for if I get through my enlistment alive and we get married there is plenty of time to settle down." In another letter several months later, he says: "Time flies and we will soon be together again. Am thinking of you always." Later he writes: Later he writes: Dearest Kitty, I hope you are having lots of fun. I see you consent to my plans of the future, and am glad of it." It ends: "Hoping to hear from you soon, my darling, I am your true lover." On Jan. 20, 1892, he called her "My dear, dark-eyed, pretty Kitty," and threatens to box her ears. 'We will fight sometimes, won't we?" he suggests, playfully. "But then we'll kiss and make up. Your devoted lover." "My own dear, little wife-to-be" is another quotation from a letter, "Good-bye, darling, 100,000,000 kisses for you, dear, old girl; your true lover, 'Adam." On Feb. 12, 1892, he wrote: "You have made me very happy by your answer, and you will never regret it, my little dove. I see you have hurt your finger again, little one. If I had been there I would have kissed it, little one, till it would be well. When I get back we will be married and live in Reading, I guess my little dark-eyed dove." Several witnesses testified to hav-ing heard that the two were engaged to be married, and the jury agreed that they must have been. Indeed, if some of the jurors could have had their way, the verdict would have been for $10,000 instead of $3,000.
