OMO is better than anything else in the world for cleansing, purifying and bleaching white things, including linens, shirtwaists, white dresses and under linens, etc. (not woollens).

OMO for white clothes

It not only cleanses better, but cleanses more easily. Simply add a tablespoonful of OMO to each gallon of water. Boil the clothes, soak for awhile, rinse and hang out to dry. No rubbing-no hard work. Has all the bleaching and cleansing qualities of sun and pure country air. Removes coffee, cocoa, tea, fruit stains like magic.

> Just try OMO for yourself.

Late as was the hour, East Broadway Hate as was the hour, East Broadway was full to repletion with a cosmopolitan crowd. It was a 'nursday evening, and the Hebrew Sabbath began at sunset on the following day, so the poor Jews of the quarter were out in their thousands, either buying provisions for the coming holiday or attracted by the light and bustle. Heavy-looking Russians, oliveskinned Italians, placid Germans, wildeyed and pallid Crechs, lounged along the thoroughfare, chatting with compatriots, or gathering in amused groups to hear the strange patter of some voluble merchant retailing goods from a barrow. From the interiors of tiny shops and cellars came eldritch voices crying the nature and reeldritch voices crying the nature and re-markable qualities of the wares within. Every hand-cart carried a flaming naph-tha lamp, and the glare of these innu-imerable torches created strong lights and flickering shadows which would have

The lofty tenement, houses seemed to be crowded as the streets. Within a square mile of that section of New York a quarter of a million people find habitation, food and employment. They supply each other's needs, speak their own welrd tongues, and by slow degrees become absorbed by the great continent which harbors them, and then only when a second or third generation becomes Americanized.

In such a motley throng four prowling stokers, ashore for a night's spree, attracted scant attention, and Morris Slegelman's hospitable door was reached with out accident. A taxi cab was standing by the curb, and the driver, gazing at the steingall.

"Here y'are, maties!" cried Steingall Joyously, surveying a printed legend displayed among the bottles of a dingy bar running along the side of an apartment which had once been the parlor of a pretentious house, "this is the right sort of dope—vodka—same as is supplied to the Czar of all the Roossias. Get a pint of vodka into yer gizzards an' you'll think

Clancy hopped on to a high stool and curled himelf up on the rounded seat in the accepted posture of Buddha, while Devar, who, by way of being a gymnast, stood on his hands and beat a tattoo with curied himelf up on the rounded seat in the accepted posture of Buddha, while Devar, who, by way of being a gymnast, stood on his hands and beat a tattoo with his feet against the edge of the counter. Not to be outdone, Curtis began to sing. He had a good baritone voice, and entermediately and the Hungarians in the tertain the King and Queen at the dawned on them that a semi-intoxicated American stoker was chanting a forbidden national melody. Far better than he knew, he sounded uncharted deeps in human nature. Andrew Fletcher of Sal-tuning his state visit to England.

No fewer than 115 cases were reducing the proped with zest into the mad spirit of the frolic. The song he chose was redolent of the sea. It related a tar's escapades among witches, cruisers and girls, Three of the latter claimed him at one and the same time—so "What was a sailor-boy to do? Yeo-ho, Yeo-ho, Yeo-ho!" The whorus decided the point:

"Why, we went strolling down by the Tolling,
Down by the rolling sea.
If you can't be true to One or Two,
You're much better off with Three."

Evidently the roysterers' antics comsnanded the general approval of Morris Siegelman's patrons, and loud cries of "Brava!" "Encore!" "Bis!" "Herrlich!" regarded Curtis's lyrical effort. Some thirty people or more were scattered

"Mostly Hungarians here," muttered Steingall. "We seem to be in the right place, anyway." Fuel and lighting showed the greatest increase over 1911, the average being 9.4 per cent, while coke increased 46.2 per cent and crude Pennsylvania petroplace, anyway."

"Let's eat," said Clancy suddenly.

Reflected in a cracked mirror he had seen a man and two women rise and leave a table in the corner occupied by the Count. He skipped off the stool and the Count. "How?" asked the detective.

"This way," and Devar began to sing. He owned a light tenor, clear and melodious, and the air had a curiously barbaric lilt, which, musically considered, was reminiscent of the gypsies' chorus in "The Bohemian Giri." But the words were couched in a strange tongue, sonorous and full vowelled, and the Hungarians in the London, June 22-Four tone of priceless gold and silver plate, china and glassware, the property of the French nation, arrived in London last night in readiness for the state banquet, at which the French President is to en-
