Naturalist Does Not Recognize Epidemic in Stories of Deer at Large.

HUMAN RACE WILD

Elgin County "Wolf" Was a Police Dog, Kingsville Bird Man Asserts.

The apparent epidemic of deer and other wild animals running at large in Western Ontario is no epidemic at all, according to naturalists.

Jack Miner, of Kingsville, who runs the most famous bird sanctuary on the North American continent, laughed heartily when told that St. Thomas now had a wild deer running at large in place of the ferocious "wolf" that kept the farmers of that district from obtaining their beauty

McWilliam and W. J. Chapman Confident Bogs of Western Ontario Will Solve Big Problem. Extensive peat bogs, according to developed and offered for sale in London some 500 tons of peat, for which there have been ready de-best substitute for United States anthracite coal. Such is the statement of Dr. J. Mc William and W. J. Chapman of this city, who claim there is enough peat in this district alone to supply the needs of the inhabitants for an indefinite number of years.

PEAT STANDS BETWEEN

Both Dr. McWilliam and Mr. Chapman have for a score of years been actively interested in this matter, and it is their belief that peat will ultimately provide the settlement of the fuel problem of Western Ontario. If the proper stone are institutes and the proper steps are instituted and financial backing is forthcoming, the development of this substance as a Canadian fuel will prove a decided success, and the average man would be able to heat his home as cheaply as he did before the war.

During the past ten years, these Londoners point out, freight rates have taken a big jump, and the cost of transportation has consequently been exceedingly high. As long as the people of Ontario continue to bring their coal from Pennsylvania and Alberta they are paying not only for the fuel they use, but also for the excessive rate of transportation.

Not a New Fuel. For hundreds of years the people of Ireland, Russia, Italy, Germany and Sweden have relied almost entirely on peat for heating their homes and factories, but America has thus far allowed this valuable resource to Price, K.C., B.C.L., former chairman of the workmen's compensation board of Ontario, whose death occurred at of Ontario, whose death occurred at averaging 8 feet in depth and 20,000 averaging 8 fe ons to the acre, according to the latpany will be organized, with sufficient financial backing to develop peat in large quantities in the London dis-trict. With a perfected system of derict. With a perfected system of development it is expected that some 3,000 tons of peat will be taken from the bog at Dorchester next season. Thousands of acres are also to be found about the vicinity of Stratford, and the establishment of an up-to-date plant with modern machinery would guarantee an output of 1.000 tons of peat a day. During the last four years the development of peat has been analyzed by the dominion government and tests have been made with varied success in the bogs of Alfreds, near Ottawa.

Aside from the commercial value of peat, it offers an interesting study in its production and use. Wherever there is an extensive growth of bulrushes or huckleberries a peat bog is invariably found. After being dug with a specially-shaped spade the peat is placed in a wooden trough, which extends some 400 feet into the bog. Along the trough the peat is carried to a macerating machine, where it is broken up into a wet pulp Mostly Water.

Peat, when first taken from the bog, is 93 per cent water and only 7 per cent solids, whereas milk contains 14 per cent solids. This seems at first incredulous, but when put under a glass it may be readily seen that peat is made up of an infinite number of small cells of water.
