Mr. Nicholas Murphy Quotes a Sample Case Which Came Under His Attention.

N. Murphy, Q.C., having in an address to the jury in a recent case, attacked the fee system in a way that has not been touched upon before, namely, the appointment of local Police Magistrates without salary, and the payment of Provincial detectives by fees instead of salary, a World reporter interviewed him on the subject.

In reply to questions Mr. Murphy said: I am sorry that in the case you refer to, where a county constable had been too officious, I had to relate an experience of mine, which happened last month. I was retained in company with H. P. O'Connor, ex-M.P., to defend a man of the name of Powdly, charged with larceny at Walkerton on Aug. 2. On arrival at Walkerton the Police Magistrate, who, by the way, is the editor of a newspaper, very courteously showed me the information that he had against Powdley, and I was surprised to find that there was another charge against him for keeping a gambling house.

Two warrants had been issued and the man had been under arrest for a week, bail having been refused. The charge for keeping a gambling house was laid under the Criminal Code. Under the warrant Provincial Detective Heffernan, who is not salaried, had proceeded to Galt and arrested a man of the name of Deitch and also Powdly, and brought them to Walkerton for trial.

On their arrival at Walkerton the two accused were remanded for a week, bail being refused by the Police Magistrate. On the evening of Aug. 2 the accused were brought before the Police Magistrate, Mr. O'Connor and I appearing for them. On asking that the charge of larceny be proceeded with I was told that there was no charge of larceny before the Police Magistrate, Mr. O'Connor and I appearing for them. On asking that the charge of larceny be proceeded with I was told that there was no charge of larceny before the Police Magistrate, Mr. O'Connor and I appearing for them. On asking that the charge of larceny be proceeded with I was told that there was no charge of lar ceny, which had been in the constable's pocket for the last eight days, and a remand was asked for and obtained.

Where the enormity of this affair comes in is that Powdly and Deitsch were not arrested under any warrant for larceny; they were arrested under the warrant for keeping a gambling house contrary to a bylaw, and the constable and the magistrate could charge their fees, which in the Deitsch case amounted to $38; whereas, had they been arrested under the warrant for lar-been arrested under the warrant for larceny, neither magistrate nor constable could receive costs.

Immediately on his re-arrest Powdly was ready to proceed with the larceny case and elected to be tried summarily, but on the application of Heffernan he was remanded for a couple of days, rendering my attendance in the larceny case unnecessary, as I could not remain. He was afterwards tried on the larceny pase and acquitted, but was summoned for gambling and fined a dollar and posts. What these costs were I don't know.

This was the story that I had to relate to the jury in the case of Queen v. Simp-son. I had intended to report the matter to the Attorney-General. The magis-trate had no right to refuse bail and to trate had no right to refuse bail and to remand Powdly for eight days for a breach of a town bylaw, and the non-execution of the warrant for larceny gives rise to the suspicion that it was attributable to the desire of the county constable to obtain fees by prosecuting the warrant under a bylaw and retaining in his pocket the warrant under

This is one of the evils, of the fee sys-m, which no doubt Sir Oliver Mowat will not overlook when he is amending the general law with regard to fees. It is provocative of litigation, for the detective, who is only paid by fees, instead of preventing litigation among neighbors and overlooking trivial offences against the law, finds that his only method of pearing were then an honorary title deof preventing litigation among neighbors and overlooking trivial offences against the law, finds that his only method of bearing more than an honorary title depends upon his bringing cases into court and putting people to the expense of his fees.

In response to a reply from Councillor Laughton, the Mayor explained that the new armature would be put in position on Wednesday, after which it was expected that the electric lights would be in good working order. in good working order.

be in good working order.

Councillor Armstrong enquired re lowering of grades opposite Mackenzie-bleck in Dundas-street east. "There is more profanity caused by them than anything else I know of at the present time," remarked Councillor Armstrong with considerable emphasis. The Town Engineer said there was no research with the constitution of t said there was no reason why these grades should be higher than the side-walks. The Council decided to notify the parties interested to have the grades lowered at once.

The Mayor asked if anything had been if done towards raising the Toronto Suburban Street Railway Company's track.

The Town Engineer said that the manager of that company thought that the town should bear a portion of the expense. Mayor Bond thought the road and nave been within a proper shape and pense. Mayor Bond thought the bean had never been put in proper shape, and at any rate the Street Railway people were expected to raise the road to purchase the material and have the work done by day labor, under the direction of Superintendent Haggas.

The plumbing bylaw was amended by providing that cellars must be drained into the sanitary sewers instead of into blocked up in many places. A motion to expend $150 on the Town Park this autumn was voted down.
