

down upon us and condescend to become our teacher, and give us the purity of heart which will lead us into truth."

My words shall not have been spoken in vain if, in our pursuit of knowledge, we shall feel in some greater degree our dependence on Him who is the Author of all truth ; who is Himself " the Way, the Truth and the Life ;" " in whom are hid all the treasures of wisdom and knowledge," and make the poet's prayer our own :

" Let knowledge grow from more to more,
But more of reverence in us dwell ;
That mind and soul according well,
May make one music as before,
But vaster."
