My dear Bagshaw:-

I am this morning in receipt of your letter with enclosure of your letter of October 16th. I cannot imagine where that letter went because I never saw it, nor has anyone in the office any recollection of its arrival.

Please let me know when you want my contribution. Perhaps it is now too late. If it is, I would be only too glad to promise to contribute something for next year's edition.

With kindest regards to Colonel McAra, to yourself and my other friends out there, I am,

Yours faithfully,
