

the elimination of the unfit. So many incommensurable factors enter into what we call success that it is not safe to state the case except in terms of probability. It must be recognized, too, that one test is not enough and not fair to the student for anyone may be caught on the offday and thus make a score below his real capacity.

As mentioned at the beginning this study should be continued over a period of years in order to reach final conclusions and this department is willing to do this without cost providing the actual outlay in test material is reimbursed to the department.
