C.P.R. MECHANICS STRIKE

to why the changes should not be made.
"The proceedings are unjust all thru and the men on the eastern lines are naturally much incensed. So, too, on western lines, men realize that they must make a fight for their very existence as an organized body and in their organization rests their whole hope of salvage."

Opinion is divided as to the outcome of the strike. It is claimed for the company that they have been quiet preparing in slack times past for such an emergency and that they have already hired large numbers of British skilled artisans, who for months past have been numbered among the unemployed here and in other British Canadian cities, but who will be taken on immediately and an attempt be made to keep the shops open.

On the other hand, the men claim that with the tremendous grain movement in early spring a complete tie-up in transportation is inevitable unless the shops are kept running at full capacity and by experienced men.

They claim that they are in a good position for a prolonged fight. It comes to that, and look with equality on the next few months, when they have put all the men they want at good wages in the harvest fields.

To-night sessions were held to nominate a strike executive, each union to have three representatives, the entire committee to be elected by ballot.
The situation is quiet all over. However, the company, who seem quite confident, have put on extra watchmen, and the yard gates are watched.

Nearly all the laborers and handy men in the shops either left with the mechanics, or filtered away before noon hour.

4000 Out in Montreal.

MONTEAL, Aug. 5.—(Special).—The events of the day in the C.P.R. strike were the expected walk out of the men from the Angus shops, the official announcement that the C.P.R. will not accept the proposed settlement, and the company's intention to fight the position of the men to the end.

This, however, is a bluff, but it is understood that efforts are being made to-night by the high officials to get into touch with large centres of labor, both in Montreal and in the west, with a view to pick up all the employed mechanics they can lay their hands on.
