AN INDIVIDUAL FROCK

Smart model for a school girl's dress, made with a shoulder cape and vest of plaid silk, combined with blue serge.

Frocks for girls ranging, according to school age from first year to intermediate, are of unusually attractive design this season. The cape effects that are featured in older models find expression on junior models and are very prettily carried out in combinations of materials.

Plaid silk and plain blue serge are used for the dress illustrated today. The cape and vest are of silk, also the lower part of the two-piece skirt. The average size required 1 1/2 yard of plain material 54 inches wide and 1 yard of plaid silk 40 inches wide.

The cutting of this dress is unusual because certain portions are laid on a plain fold of the material, while others are arranged on a quarter-fold. The front and revers (cut in one), the back, vest, sleeve, collar, cape and cuffs are laid on a fold of the serge, the parts of pattern marked by triple "TTT" perforations, being on the edge of the fold. Those showing a line of large "O" perforations are arranged on a thread of the serge. On a quarter fold of the goods, the upper skirt section, tunic and lower skirt section are arranged, all on a lengthwise fold.

Begin by underlining the front from front edge to one inch inside of line of large "O" perforations to make the waist. Turn over on outside on large "O" perforations for revers. Adjust vest to position underneath front matching corresponding single large "O" and double small "oo" perforations, leaving edge of front and back between double "TT" perforations. Adjust cape or facing on front and back as illustrated, center-backs and neck edges even; stitch front edge along double "oo" perforations in front. Sew collar to neck edge as notched.

Close sleeve seam, add cuff and insert sleeve in armhole without fullness. For the skirt and tunic join the two upper sections, the two lower sections and the tunic sections as notched. Turn under lower edges on small "a" perforations. Lap folded edge of upper skirt section on lower section, center even and stitch. Arrange tunic on skirt, centers even (large "O" perforations indicate back section); stitch upper edges together. Sew to lower edge of waist, centers even.

Trim with buttons of the same or a contrasting material.

Belgian Relief
The Belgian relief fund is steadily growing. At the next city council meeting a civic grant is expected to be made.

The relief fund received at Pettigill's wharf where a receiving depot has been established, Kennedy & Wetmore's offer of a warehouse has had to be declined as the city already has sufficient room. The patriotic fund was increased yesterday by donations of $82 from McDonald's Point, and $110 from Long Point, Belle Isle, from pie socials held there. The total cash collected at Kothey for the Belgian Relief Fund was $438.50, while a large assortment of clothing and food supplies were also contributed. With the money was purchased a variety of vegetables, grocery sundries, clothing and other necessities all of which have been forwarded.

The members of the St. John Iron and Hardware Manufacturers' Association, at a meeting held last evening voted $50 to the patriotic fund, and $50 to the Belgian Relief Fund.

FATHER VAUGHN ON THE WAR
(The Tablet)
Speaking at a recruiting meeting at Leeds after Lord Charles Beresford, Father Bernard Vaughn, S. J., said that they all felt that Britons were out with stubborn resolve to inflict such a mauling on the Potsdam butcher that not all the king's horses and all the king's men could ever get. Happily-Dumpty up again. The Yorkshire boys must for the moment forget their football teams at home, to go forth in their striped ranks to play the terrible game of war. Britons would not have to look on, but to play up and play to win. Till the monster of inflated leather and blood had been kicked, disabled, out of the war-field there could be no truce, or pause in the bloody conflict with their fiend-like foe.

If he was asked why they were at war he could only tell them they were at it because as men of honor and integrity

How To Get Rid Of Dyspepsia

"If you have dyspepsia, indigestion, sour stomach, belching, distress after eating, heartburn, or any other stomach trouble due to hyperacidity (the usual cause of stomach troubles), you should take no medicine to act upon the stomach itself. That is positively not the way to cure the trouble. Again, you should not half starve yourself by going without the nutritious food that you need to rebuild waste tissues. Some foods are not good for people even when in perfect health—very rich, sweet, highly seasoned dishes. Avoid these, but eat fairly substantial meals of plain foods. Eat slowly. Even if you drink nothing but water, you should not drink with meals. Drink before and after eating. Do not take pepsin or other artificial digestants. If you follow the foregoing simple instructions it is probable that you will not need any medicine at all except, if you want to call it medicine, a little antacid after meals. The best antacid is ordinary dissolved magnesia, which can be purchased at any drug store. This is not to act upon the stomach but on the contents of the stomach. The antacid, as you can learn by consulting your dictionary or encyclopedia, is merely to neutralize or counteract the excess acid so the stomach can digest the food normally. Take a teaspoonful of bisulphated magnesia in a little cold or hot water after each meal. You should get immediate relief, even if your case is severe. Careful, moderate eating and the use of bisulphated magnesia should put your stomach in normal condition in a short time; if you have not allowed dyspepsia to advance to the extreme stage of developing stomach ulcers.
