Fables On Health

CHILDREN MISUNDERSTAND MRS. MANN had read two chapters on social psychiatry when she came to a paragraph. stating that often so-called bad children were not bad, but misunderstood. She had three children of her

Of course she would not admit to herself that they really were bad, but well she remembered how she had worn out her clothes brushes and blistered her hands in her system of correction.

There was an actual feeling of guilt when she thought of this.

Never would she for a moment agree that the old-fashioned punishment of the insane in asylums was correct, or that it resulted in improvement of the patients' condition.

Neither did she agree that all punishment for crime, as provided for in the laws of the land, was just, or that the administration of

Are these children mentally sick?

Adventures of the Twins

By OLIVE ROBERTS BARTON. --THE SLEEPYHEADS IN SNOOZER TOWN.

Away went the little aeroplane with Mister Whizz, the fairyman, and Nancy and Nick sat quite still while Snoozer Town where the Sleepyheads the little aeroplane whizzed along through the sky. The little fairy aviator certainly knew how to run it. He made it turn somersaults and bank Nancy. They were starting on an adventure to find the magic snuff. Someone had stolen it from the Fairy Queen's uncle and he hadn't had a good sneeze since Tuesday before last.

"I don't know who stole it exactly," said Mister Whizz, "but I have an idea, and that's almost as good. Snitcher Sratch, the goblin, isn't a thief, but he loves mischief, and in playing tricks he sometimes takes things that don't be-asked the Twins.

"I have a list of several places," said Mister Whizz. "The first one on the list is Snoozer Town." "Snoozer Town."

"Snoozer Town! Don't you mean Sneezer Town?" asked Nancy.

Mister Whizz laughed. "No, Snoozer Town—it's the place where the Sleepyheads live. Of course Snitcher Snatch has the magic snuff and begins to play tricks with it. I have no doubt the name of the place will have to be changed to Sneezer Town."

Anaemic—Nervous

The anaemic child is in no condition to stand the mental and nervous strain of school work and examinations, along with the enormous burden which physiological changes put upon the system at this time of life.

The importance of good, robust health during this critical period cannot be sufficiently emphasized. It may mean the difference between invalidism and health throughout a lifetime.

Fortunately this condition responds promptly to restorative treatment and the results obtained by the use of Dr. Chase's Nerve Food have proven beyond doubt its suitability in such cases.

Mrs. Archie Martelle, Cornwall, Ont., writes:—

"My daughter, while attending school, was sick for two years, and had to be kept home. She had nervous trouble, and was under the doctor's care, but he did not seem to do her much good. She was very thin, restless, and hardly ate anything. Her complexion became sallow. I began giving her Dr. Chase's Nerve Food, and it did her the world of good. Her improvement was gradual, but it was not very long before she was quite herself again. I cannot recommend this treatment too highly."
