lings. Capt. Walter Foster presided, and among the guests present were Capt. Fred Foster, Capt. Beverly Armstrong and Mr. Porter of the Royal Bank of Canada.
The tables were handsomely decorated and the quality of the repast beyond all criticism. Toasts were drunk to the King, to Canada, to Capt. Foster, to the non-coms. and to Capt. Rev.
Armstrong. Speeches and songs were given by Capt. Foster and Armstrong.

ST. JOHN, N. B., MARCH 22, 1901.

GERMAN TRADE IN AFRICA.

Apparently Germany's trade in Africa is not a success. Mr. Consul Nightingale, who has just submitted a report of the year's trade in Angola, a province in Portuguese, West Africa, shows that the imports from Great Britain decreased by £1,750, as compared with the previous year, while the imports from Germany increased by £23,450. At first glance this appears to be a contradiction of the above statement. But the consul explains away the contradiction in a later paragraph. He acknowledges that the energetic manner in which the German commercial traveller goes about introducing his wares is worthy of admiration. "But," the consul asks, "is this pushing of trade a financial success? Are we condemning our own manufacturers and travellers for their seeming inactivity, when, perhaps, past experience has taught them to use that care in dealing with every small shop-keeper which the German has yet to learn, and is, perhaps, learning now by practical experience?" Germans are having trouble in collecting payments. The consul states that one German commission house lost over £2,000 with one firm in a few years. Such losses cannot but cause evil effects, and the British are wise to go slowly and more carefully than their German competitors.

BRITAIN'S NAVY.

The London Mail declares that the British government's naval programme is inadequate, because it only provides for three battle-ships, whereas France, Germany, Russia and the United States are each building two.
If it be contended that Britain's navy should be as strong as those of any two other powers, the Mail insists that at least four new battle-ships should be laid down this year. If the navy is not equal to its duties an army of millions cannot save the empire. Moreover, the Mail declares that there has been too much delay in completing the Albion.
Formidable, Irresistible and Implacable, which are still in the dockyards.

During the coming financial year the admiralty propose to lay down:—

- 3 Battleships.
- 6 Armored cruisers.
- 2 Third-class cruisers.
- 10 Torpedo-boat destroyers.
- 5 Torpedo boats.
- 2 Sloops.
- 5 Submarine boats (ordered and work commenced in 1900).

Of these two battleships, one armoured cruiser, and two sloops will be built in the Royal Dockyards. The rest will be built by contract.

TIERED OF FREE TRADE.

An English manufacturer writes as follows to a London paper:— All manufacturers in this country, except those who are wilfully blind to their own interests, will thank you for urging upon the government the necessity of reconsidering our one-sided fiscal policy. For the moment it is only needful to point out that nearly all our manufacturers require an import duty on goods made abroad, to give them a fair profit on their returns; and also that the government at the present time is in considerable doubt how best to increase the revenue, not only for this year but for years to come. Most of the prophecies made by Cobden, Bright, and Co., are admitted, even by the worshippers of the "Free Trade Fetish," to have been fallacious, and yet our government is still blind to facts, because its members will not recognise the evil results of the application for fifty years of the principles of so-called "free trade."

ONE WAY OUT OF IT.

An English citizen has suggested how to pay the expenses incurred by the South African war, without increasing the income tax. The probability, which is almost a certainty, that this tax will be increased is very bad news to the laborers. The rich do not feel the burden of the income tax, but to a man working for a small wage it means a good deal of self denial. The suggestion is made that the expense should be met by unclaimed moneys in the Bank of England, and in other public institutions where money is deposited, and lies unclaimed till those who have charge of it are exonerated from liability. The unclaimed money in the United Kingdom is enormous—something like £30,000, 000 is given as a rough estimate.

There is a strong desire on the part of the liberals in England to have Lord Rosebery return to the leadership. One liberal association has passed resolutions unanimously urging that he accept the position.

Will the Star's readers kindly enable this paper to chronicle each day at least a small addition to the Soldiers' Monument fund? Yesterday was all right. So is today. How about tomorrow?

The following paragraph from an English exchange may carry a suggestion to those who have the beautiful of our park in charge: "The Parks committee of the London council is considering an interesting proposal, namely, the introduction of butterflies into the enclosures under their jurisdiction." It would seem a difficult thing to keep these winged insects within bounds, but we are assured that they can be raised in such large quantities that even though many may betake themselves to other fields, quite enough will remain. It is only necessary to plant plenty of stings nettles, as they are their great food plants. Butter-flies of many sizes and with multi-colored brilliant wings flitting about the park would indeed add a great deal to its beauty.

The members of the St. John Board of Trade told Hon. Mr. Dobell last year what they thought of his lacking inspection act. Now they have had to go to Ottawa and tell it all again. Mr. Dobell is a great man.
But he is not as partial to bottle-necked ships as he formerly was.

The members of the provincial government should not labor under a misapprehension. Nobody thinks that they undervalue their services or think themselves overpaid.

LOCAL LEGISLATURE.

FREDERICTON, March 21.—The house met at 3 o'clock. The marine hospital bill, the registration of vital statistics bill, the Rothery's lists bill and the bill amending the Trinity church burial ground act were read a third time and passed.

Hon. Mr. McKeown presented the petition of the city of St. John for the passage of a bill to authorize the city to grant aid to a steel shipbuilding company.

Mr. Osman introduced a bill to incorporate the Riverview Cemetery Co. and Mr. Lawson a bill to incorporate the Village of Perth Centre for water and fire purposes.

Mr. Hazen gave notice of motion for Monday that no person shall be entitled to vote in more than one electoral district.

Hon. Mr. McKeown introduced a bill better to define the terms real and personal estate in the St. John assessment law. He explained that the principal object of the bill was to declare property held under long leases to be real estate.

Hon. Mr. McKeown presented the petition of the Young Men's Christian Association at St. John for the passage of a bill to amend their act of incorporation.

Mr. Lawson, seconded by Mr. Porter, gave notice of motion: Where by reason of the holding of the greater part of the available land suitable for settlement in the county of Victoria by the New Brunswick Railway Company, whereby the settlement of the county is greatly impeded and the extension of growing and flourishing settlements is prevented; thereby resolved, that in the opinion of this house, that it is desirable that such portions of said land as are suitable for settlement should be reacquired by the province, to be settled under the settlement laws of the province, or that such steps be taken as will insure the land being thrown open to settlement on terms not more onerous than those applying to crown lands.

Following notice of motion was moved by Mr. Young: Resolved, that his honorable address be presented to his honor the lieutenant governor praying that his honor may cause to be laid before the house a statement showing in detail the claims of the government against the several municipalities which have been thrown open to settlement without the province for the maintenance of pauper lunatics, who have been classed as not dangerous, showing amount against each municipality, showing also the municipalities which have paid and those which have not paid, and showing the indebtedness of each parish in the county of Gloucester for such claim.

On motion of Mr. Osman the rule 73 was suspended to admit of the introduction of bills incorporating the Albertville Cannery Co. and the Maritime Pulp and Paper Co.

Mr. Purdy introduced a bill to allow the city of St. John to appropriate money for an inquiry into the assessment law.

The bill to amend the supreme court act was agreed to in committee. Hon.
Mr. Pugsley explained that it was to enable cases where evidence had been taken by a judge who had died or been removed from office to be continued under another judge. He said that a similar measure would be introduced covering divorce cases.

The bill limiting fines for drunkenness in the city of St. John was considered in committee of the house.

Hon. Mr. McKeown and Mr. Shaw opposed the bill. It was supported by Hon. Mr. Pugsley, Mr. Flemming and Mr. Hazen. A motion to read the bill section by section was lost on division.

Hon. Mr. McKeown gave notice of motion for Monday to suspend the rules to admit of the introduction of the Young Men's Christian Association of St. John, also a bill to enable the city of St. John to give aid to any company that will establish in St. John the business of steel ship building.

Bill No. 7, relating to public office, was read a third time and passed.
House adjourned at 4:45 p. m.

Dr. THOS. WALKER

Receives a Pension of Ten Pounds Per Annum.

Being a Descendant of the Penderells Who Saved the Life of Charles II.

It may not be generally known that Dr. Thomas Walker of this city is a pensioner. Fortunately he is not dependent on his royal pension of ten pounds sterling a year, but he gets it regularly as his father did before him and his son will after him. This is a pension for saving life, and is probably the only one which the doctor receives on that account, though he has saved a good many better lives than the one so recognized. The life that belongs to this story was that of Charles II., then acknowledged king of Scotland, and rightful monarch of England. Two hundred and fifty years ago, next autumn, when this reward was earned, Charles Stewart was more anxious to save his life than to win the English crown. He had been beaten by Cromwell on the third of September at Worcester, and fled thence with a few friends. It was found necessary for them to separate during the night, and the next day he made his way alone to the house of a farmer to live with woods about it, where he sheltered himself among the leaves and branches for twenty-four hours.
He saw several soldiers pass by. All of them were intent upon the search for the king, and some expressed in his hearing their earnest wishes of seizing him. This tree was afterward denominated the Royal Oak, and for many years was regarded by the neighborhood with great veneration.

"Charles was in the middle of his kingdom, and could not stir from it without the most imminent danger. Fears, hopes and party zeal interested multitudes to discover him and even the smallest indiscretion of his friends might prove fatal to him.
Having found Lord Wilmot, who was skulking in the neighborhood, they agreed to put themselves into the hands of Colonel Lane, a zealous royal-ist, who lived at Bentley, not many miles distant. The king's feet were so hurt by walking about in heavy boots, or countrymen's shoes, which did not fit him, that he was obliged to mount on horseback, and he travelled in this situation to Bentley, attended by the Penderells, who had been so faithful to him."

This part of the adventures of King Charles is related more at length by Clarendon, and it appears in Scott's novel Woodstock, with some modifications. Scott does not, however, favor much below the rank of knight. After the restoration King Charles, who sometimes, but not always, remembered the friends of his adversity, took thought of the Penderell family. A suitable reward seems to have been given to the head of the house. One of the estates which his majesty had occasion to grant was made chargeable with a pension of one hundred pounds sterling for all time to each of his sons, and their heirs, and fifty pounds to the sister, Elizabeth, who is not mentioned by Hume, but was a share in the great family secret. From this sister Dr. Walker is descended.

The pension of fifty pounds has been divided among five branches of the family of Elizabeth Penderell, and it is said that the allowance to the brothers has also been cut up. Once a year about this time Dr. Walker receives his cheque for ten pounds, less a slight commission; it comes from a solicitor at Lichfield, but when the doctor was last there and made some effort to find out whose estate was paying for saving the life of King Charles the agent was abroad.
