ST. JOHN AND BANGOR.

The Maine legislature is once more dealing with an agitation for another vote on prohibition. In Vermont, which was a prohibition state, the prohibition clause was "re-submitted." The result was a return to license. Maine advocates of re-submission were heard the other day at Augusta, while Mrs. Steevens, head of the National W. C. T. Ledge or Rock, But Some Submerged Object.

HALIFAX, Feb. 9.-The entire crew and the three passengers of the Furness line steamer Damara arrived in the city this afternoon. Captain Gorst gives an altogether new version of the disaster from what had hitherto been current. He says the steamer did not strike a ledge or a rock and that he was not out of his course. The steamer, Captain Gorst says, was 108 miles from the west end of Sable Island and 17 miles from the mainland when she struck either heavy ice or some sub-merged object, he has no idea what, hich caused a leak in the after end of the engine room. He at once changed his course and for two hours ran sixteen miles towards the land, hoping to obtain water more free of ice in case the boats had to be got out, or to get to land to beach the steamer if necessary. He would have got to land had it not been that the water dred dollars for one kiss is the record out. Then the steamer had to stop. in Cleveland. It was paid by a man. So that four years after the census was taken, and six years before the next one is called and the judge declared his bond covered with ice so thick as was that through which the Damara was passing was simply impossible. The steam-er sank eighteen hours after she began to take in water. The passengers on the Damara were: Emilien Mayer, representing J. M.
