Significant Omission in Haldane's New Scheme—Price of Home Rule.

Remarking that the Irish members of Parliament did not comment in the House of Commons on this shelving of the Irish part of the army scheme, the Express adds that it would seem as if home rule were the price of silence on the question, which is practically a siur on the trustworthiness of the Irish as troops.

QUEBEC IN LINE. The announcement that a system of echnical education will in the near future be established in Nova Scotla, is followed by a similar declaration by mier Gouin, of Quebec, who like Premier Murray, has gone carefully into the subject and has presented a detailed scheme for this undertaking in his province. Mr. Gouin last week placed before the Quebec legislature his ideas on the subject, and stated that three technical

The value of technical education in hese days of keen business competition cannot be overestimated. It is desirable that any country should produce scholars, men capable of taking but it is imperative that we should also produce many others who are qualified to enter the more material occupations, men who can produce, who can originate and who can add to the economic wealth by well directed efforts. Such is the duty of technical schools, and the fact that these institutions if properly conducted play a most important part in the prosperity.

A GLIMMERING OF REASON.

It is the business of this country to keep on friendly terms with all other nations, England included, so far as this is possible. But it is not the part of statesmanship to infer that the British spokesman (Ambassador Bryce) must necessarily see everything with American eyes or prefer the Stars and Stripes to the Union Jack.

TOCCOPOLO, Miss., March 13. — A tragic event occurred between here and Pontotoc Saturday. A little boy, the son of Mrs. Charles Moulding, of Spring Hill, Miss., was playing in a sage field, which was on fire, and got burned to death. His mother ran out and, snatching him up, brought him to the house. Going to the mirror, she herself dropped dead after exclaiming, "My boy is dead!" a most important part in the prosperity

JEWS IN EUROPE.

(From the Guardian.)
Roughly speaking, the Semites in Europe may be divided into Spanish-Italian Jews and Polish Jews, representing the two great branches of the Hebrew race. It was in Poland that the Semites found a refuge when hunted and hustled out of every other country in Europe. That King of Poland who extended to them tolerance and hospitality little knew what he was doing. About 14 per cent. of the present population of Russian Polandnot to speak of the slices of that ancient kingdom now appertaining to Prussia and Austria—are of the blood of Israel; and at Warsaw, for examon to speak of the slices of that ancient kingdom now appertaining to Prussia and Austria—are of the blood of Israel; and at Warsaw, for example, this people may now be seen in all its pristine purity—of race at least, if not of person. A visit to the gastic of Warsaw takes the tourist, as if by a single step, back to the Dark Ages, and even to pre-Christian times.

Warsaw is the racial reservoir from which, directly or indirectly, flow all the various streams and streamlets of the Semites who find their way to the Thames or to the bay of New York. It, was once said that Berlin acts as a sort of filter to the westward current of Jews from Poland, and that all the insanity sediment is passed on to England or America. Possibly it is the love of freedom which compels these emigrants to seek their fortune oversea, but it can scarcely be lack of work. In Poland itself the Jews are not among the unemployed.

Many of them look to London or New York as to the Zion of their drea ns, and others to Jerusalem itself as the renovated capital of their repsituated race.
