

the building buildup . . .

Congratulations to the students who originated the idea of a student building campaign for UNB. Presenting the university with a new building, planned and built by the students, is the best way of showing spirit in a useful way. This has been done at other universities successfully, and would give a tremendous lift to the expansion program here, as well as giving the administration a good morale booster in future drives for building funds.

This campaign was originally planned to be conducted by the Building Committee in the name of the UNB student body, although naturally it has to be coordinated with the administration's building program. With wide student support and participation, it can and should be a resounding success.

The unfortunate thing is that the students have not been fully informed of the plan sooner. It is a major undertaking involving a lot of your money and energy. Any plans should have your approval before a big start is made. Otherwise, what has been started with the best intentions may end prematurely with a momentous fizzle.

The most important question is whether or not you want to go to all this effort to construct a Student Union Building. There were spirited debates in the S.R.C. on this matter. Those who were opposed stated that this building would only provide office space for a few 'campus wheels', and felt that we should contribute any money we can raise towards a more urgently needed building. Mentioned in this respect were a swimming pool with an adequate seating capacity, an auditorium on campus, and an addition to the library.

The best thing to do is ask your class representative for any information you want, and offer them your opinions. Find out who is on the Building Committee, and question them. The Brunswickan will gladly publish your opinions. And if there is any dissention, a campus plebiscite would be the best way to settle the matter(s). After all, the decision involves several thousand dollars of student funds.

Sometimes we don't know how lucky we are. Students of all colours mix freely, if a bit shy, at this university. We live together, not because we are forced to by military law, but because it never occurs to us that that isn't the natural thing to do.

John and Robert Kennedy and associates deserve a great deal of credit for forcing Mississippi and her university to do what is right and reasonable. Luckily, we don't have to be forced.

— From Our Readers —

Dear Editor,

What are you trying to do to the Brunswickan? What's with this intellectual jazz? An editorial on the Common Market? The article titled Cosmopolitan, Voice of the Free? Are you trying to turn out a radical paper? It must be that I could understand what I read in the Brunswickan, but now even this last source of material I could read has deserted me. This is not all. LM's article, Are we Inorant really takes the cake. Maybe we aint as well eddicated as furrin students, but we aint half as bad as LM suggests. Then you have Student communications. Why didn't you print a dickinary with is? Do you know what solipsism means? I'll bet you don't. Why not put things in the college paper that college students would be able to understand? Isn't that the purpose of the whole thing anyway.

Dear LM

You claim that Europeans are trained to lead and face the Western World. (Europeans in this statement, I assume to mean Communist block countries). If their education is as you claim it, why then are we the leaders to which they are opposed?

From your statements I have to conclude that you come from a Eurasian country or a "well-off" family. Perhaps you should leave your protective shell and take a look at most Canadians. Some have "appreciated the value of hard work". As to your "major reason for our 'success'", I think you are overlooking the fact that we still need tradesmen, who do not need a degree to be a 'success'.

As M. L., I remain,

Dear Editor:

This is a violent protest against the capitalistic measures adopted by the administration of this Institute of Higher Learning. This profit-making organization will completely undermine the financial equilibrium which had been established before the phenomenal explosion in fees. Because I am no longer solvent and able to buy food, I have been reduced to eating at the student centre. No doubt their delicacies would be a sumptuous repast for the well-nourished flies in the kitchen, but deadly to the co-ed who would like to maintain her curves (and appeal to the opposite sex). Disaster has struck! My clothes no longer fit. The University has taken all my money. I cannot afford a new wardrobe—my education will be wasted if I cannot get a husband. Therefore in protest against the high fees and student centre food, I am staging a Doukabor protest parade. Anyone in sympathy with my stand, please join me at college field at the football game. We must make a stand! Capitalism and the student centre must fall.

complaints which have little or no foundation?

An interested office worker

We showed your letter to Mr. Copeland, who replies below. He has some good points too . . . one of which is his signature.

Dear Interested Office Worker:

Who has their facts straight? Neither I nor the numerous students who have sympathized with my viewpoint have changed their address and the registrar's office is fully aware of the details of their addresses. I know of engineers, foresters, artsmen and science students who have started their summer employment not knowing whether they had passed or failed, whether or not they should go to work or come back here to summer school. If it takes so long to send these results, can't they at least be posted within a week after final exams? They were in the past.

And since we're talking of student administration inter courtesies, why was I not given my marks when I phoned the registrar's office long distance on June 18?

Dear Editor:

I live in residence, and the lights in the Brunswickan office late at night keep me awake. Could you please get some Black-out curtains to put over your windows if you insist on staying up to these horrible hours. Preferably could you not work so late? I need my beauty sleep.

Yours truly,

Sammy

In order to put out a paper as fine as this, a lot of conscientious work is involved, which may run into many late hours of toil. We also require a little co-operation; e.g., perhaps you could close your curtains.—ed.
