PORT CREDIT: Fifteen candidates

PORT CREDIT: Of the 15 candidates for the Port Credit town council election in the 1970s, 15 will be on the ballot.

Whether they are on the ballot or not, the candidates are all looking for the same thing: a seat on the town council.

John Smith, acting town clerk, said he was still waiting for the names of the candidates to be filed.

Mr. Smith said he was still waiting for the names of the candidates to be filed.

Driver faces rape rap

A 23-year-old Etobicoke man charged with rape by Mississauga police Monday night was remanded one week in custody yesterday.

The man was charged with the rape of an 18-year-old Mississauga girl.

John Smith, acting town clerk, said he was still waiting for the names of the candidates to be filed.

Mr. Smith said he was still waiting for the names of the candidates to be filed.

Company denied further building

Boston Home's major home builder in Mississauga will be denied all further building permits until allegations of construction violations have been investigated by town council.

Council took the unusual step Monday following a complaint from Don Clark of Riverside Dr. Clarkson, that the pool on his home had leaked because of faulty construction.

Clarkson councillor Len Parvish displayed portions of a roof in supposed construction. He pointed to a mental view which had been taken from the road overhanging and pointed to the hole which it was attached to.

Dr. David Thompson presented his plans for the Sunday opening of Christmas Wonderland at Exhibition Park as a most original scheme.

STREETSVILLE: Three for mayor

STREETSVILLE: Three candidates for mayor of Streetsville were named Monday night in a preliminary election.
