

Men, Look! Electric Belt Free!!

UNTIL YOU ARE CURED

I believe in a fair deal. If you have a good thing and know it yourself, give others a chance to enjoy it in a way they can afford.

I've got a good thing. I'm proving that every day. I want every weak, puny man, every man with a pain or an ache, to get the benefit of my invention.

Some men have doctored a good deal—some have used other ways of applying electricity—without getting cured, and they are chary about paying money now until they know what they are paying for.

If you are that kind of a man, this Belt is yours without one cent of cost to you until you are ready to say to me, "Doctor, you have earned your price, and here it is."

That's trusting you a good deal, and it is showing a good deal of confidence in my Belt. But I know that most men are honest, especially when they have been cured of a serious ailment, and very few will impose on me.

As to what my Belt will do, I know that it will cure wherever there is a possible chance, and there is a good chance in nine cases out of ten.

So you can afford to let me try, anyway, and I'll take the chances. If you are not sick, don't trifle with me; but if you are, you owe it to yourself and to me, when I make an offer like this, to give me a fair trial. I want you to know what I have done for others. Read the evidence just received. It comes like this every day:

Dear Sir,—Your Belt has worked wonders in my case. It is well known here that it was your Belt that put me on my feet again.—Wm. J. Byers, Nipissing, Ont., July 18th, 1906.

Dear Sir,—Your Electric Belt is a sure cure for Rheumatism; I am not bothered with it now.—John Noble, Jr., Hanover, Ont., July 18th, 1906.

Dear Sir,—Your Belt has made a new man of me. I feel all right, and do not need to wear it any more.—Michael Niger, Temiscamingue, Ont., July 16th, 1906.

If I don't cure you my Belt comes back to me and we quit friends. You are out the time you spent on it—wearing it while you sleep—nothing more.

But I expect to cure you if I take your case. If I think I can't cure you I'll tell you so, and not waste your time. Anyway, try me, at my expense.

CALL TO-DAY.—Come and see me and let me show you what I have, or if you can't, then cut out this coupon and send it in. It will bring you a description of my Belt and a book that will inspire you to be a man among men. All free. My hours, 9 a.m. to 6 p.m.

In a Kentucky court-room, a prominent lawyer of that State was defending a prisoner charged with horse stealing, and a witness was swearing as to the identity of the stolen horse.

"How do you know this is the same horse?" asked the lawyer.

"Why, I just know it is," said the witness.

"Well, how?" again asked the man of law.

"I can't tell exactly how; but I know it is as well as I know that you are General H—"

"Well, how do you know that I am General H—?"

"Because just before dinner I heard Mr. C— say, 'General H—, let's go and take a drink,' and you went."

HARVESTING CARROTS.

Please let me know how best to save white field carrots: when to take them up; how to handle, and how to pit them? I have a big crop, and may have to pit some of them. What time of the fall should they be lifted, or will frost affect them much? How may they be fed to horses through the winter with safety? How much should we give to a feed?

W. L. F.

Ans.—About the 20th of October is a very good time to harvest field carrots. Light frost does not injure them at all while they are in the ground, but after they are pulled they are easily hurt by frost, and should, therefore, either be covered or hauled in the same day as pulled. The labor of pulling can be very much lightened by running a subsoil plow, or an old-fashioned iron plow with the moldboard removed, close alongside each row. Where neither of these is obtainable, quite effective work can be done with a scuffer, with but the two outside teeth left in. Set as wide as safe, and go two or three times on each space. Pits should be not more than five or six feet wide. They may be dug about eight inches deep, and the earth thrown out comes useful in covering. Cover pit as soon as possible with a liberal allowance of straw, and cover the straw at once with a few inches of earth, leaving, however, for ventilation, the ridge uncovered. After a few weeks, cover again with earth to a total depth of, say, eight inches, covering completely over this time, but putting in the ridge a drain tile or wooden pipe at intervals of twenty feet. Feed carrots whole to horses at night; a peck each is abundance, beginning with one or two carrots apiece and increasing gradually.

OYSTER-SHELL BARK-LOUSE.

Please find enclosed branch of young apple tree. Is this San Jose scale, or what? Have young orchard. Some trees are affected, will rest be? How should I treat affected trees, and non-affected?

W. K.

Ans.—This brown, elongated scale insect, crusting the branch received, is not the San Jose scale as you fear, but the oyster-shell bark-louse. It is less dreaded than the former chiefly because it has only one brood yearly in this latitude, and it has parasitic enemies that hold it in check. But, while vigorous and unaffected by its parasites, as in the case of the present branch, it is almost as injurious to the growth and usefulness of the tree as the former insect. The same treatment as that advised for the San Jose scale is effective for the oyster-shell. The lime, soda and sulphur wash was given in "The Farmer's Advocate," March 29th, page 509. The old-fashioned remedy is scraping in the winter, and finishing the parts that cannot be scraped with a wash of soft soap and washing soda. This method was tedious, and did not eradicate the insect.

J. D.

Lime ..... 25 lbs.
Sulphur, powdered ..... 12½ lbs.
Caustic soda ..... 5 lbs.
Water to make ..... 40 gals.

Put the lime in a barrel; add enough hot water to make it boil rapidly; while slaking, stir in the sulphur, previously made into a thin paste with hot water; then add the caustic soda, dissolved in hot water. Add more water as required, to prevent boiling over, and stir briskly all the time. When all bubbling ceases, add hot water to make up to 40 gallons.

DOG WITH POOR APPETITE.

Dog, about eight months old, keeps very thin; eats very little, never seems hungry. Tried it with sweet milk and bread, meat of all sorts, and all else that would be tempting, but it makes no difference. Can anything be done to give him an appetite?

J. R.

Ans.—Feed anything that dog will eat, but feed only twice a day, and give as a tonic the pill: Bland's, with a laxative, 5 gr. Give one pill after each meal. You will be able to purchase these pills from any druggist or M. D.
