R. Walker & Sons

passing with a book in his hand, stopped and earnestly fixed his eyes on this label, glanced in at the open door, and then, as if encouraged by the gentle face of her who sat plying her needle, ventured into the house.

"What do you want?" said the old woman to the stranger; but the boy answered her not a word. Alas! the sounds of nature, the singing of birds, the tones of music, the voice of kindness, were to him forever silenced. A fearful accident had quite deprived him of his hearing, and dreary stillness was around him till his death. But his eyes seemed to read that to which his ears could not listen; he now looked anxiously into the old woman's face, and opening the book which he carried, drew out of it a paper upon which "milk and cream" appeared, neatly drawn in coloured letters. He pointed to the window, and, speaking with difficulty in a strange and hollow voice, said to the woman, "This for a penny."

She replied, but he knew not what she said; he thought that she considered his little charge too much. "A half-penny, then," the poor child said and distressed at seeing that her lips still moved, he put his fingers to his poor deaf ears, to show her the affliction which it had pleased God to send him. A kindly, pitying look came over the face of the good old woman; she drew a penny from the till, and, beckoning to wait till she came back, left the room, and presently returned with a nice cup of milk and a piece of cake, on which the deaf boy made a delicious repast.

May we not believe that this little act of kindness was not forgotten by Him who has promised that he who gives even a cup of cold water in the name of a disciple shall in no wise lose his reward?

But how little did the good woman dream that the poor deaf boy who was trying to earn a few pence by the sale of his little slips of paper, was one who in after-life should earn for himself a distinguished and honourable name!—that the writings of Kitto should be known and valued by rich and poor in distant lands as well as in his own—that the queen herself should honor him with a pension—that he who drew the little label from the window should become an author who would direct thousands and tens of thousands to the blessed narrow path in which he himself walked!

I need hardly tell you that Kitto, even when a boy, was full of industry and perseverance. It was his delight to improve his own mind; and under every disadvantage he did so. He studied when in the poorhouse; he studied when labouring hard to earn his bread as a shoemaker's apprentice. But amongst the many volumes which he eagerly read, that which he most

Improve with Wear

This can be said of Staines' Inlaid Linoleums. They become more compressed and durable-looking the longer in use. The patterns go clean through, so that the floor looks as well ten years afterwards as when the linoleum was first put down. Dust proof—wear proof—wears like wood.

New flower patterns this season as well as Tile and Granite. Sole agents.

studied, that which he most read, was the Word of God, which makes men wise unto salvation. It is written of Kitto that, when quite a child, "the book he most valued was an old Bible."

Dear boys and girls, could this be said of you? Kitto was poor, but the true riches were his. He laboured hard, but he laboured not in vain; for he looked forward in humble faith to that blessed day when "the ears of the deaf shall be unstopped," and the first sound that breaks the long silence may be the welcoming voice of the Saviour.

Never Doubt It.

God's will for us leads on earth to the noblest, truest, most Christ-like character, and then beyond this world to glory and eternal life. Whatever your experience, however hard and painful life may seem to you, God's will is to lead you on toward all that is good and beautiful and blessed. Never doubt it even in the darkest hour, or when the pain is sorest or when the cross is heaviest. God's will holds you ever close to God, and leads you ever toward and into God's sweetest rest. It brings peace to the heart—a peace that never can come in any way of our own choosing, unless our choosing is His choosing.
