Bookkeeping, Shorthand, Telegraphy

If we made the statement that our graduates are better qualified for positions than graduates from other colleges, we would expect the public to doubt our statement, but when that statement is made by the business men of New York City it stands unchallenged. Read the following letter and if you want a thorough course you need not hesitate where to go. It settles the matter about positions.

THE UNDERWOOD TYPEWRITER CO.,

231 Broadway, New York, November 29, 1905

Mr. C. W. Gay, Principal, Brockville Business College.

Dear Sir,—Have you any young men stenographer who are willing to accept positions in New York City? I have found it extremely difficult to find young men to fill the positions at my disposal.

Having had the pleasure of meeting and placing a number of students from your school, all of whom are entirely satisfactory, which undoubtedly is the result of a thorough business training, I am prompted to ask the above question.

Assuring you of my willingness to place all the Underwood operators you may send me, I beg to remain,

Yours very truly

WHY?

Written for Athens Reporter

Why are some days so bright and fair,
And some so dark and drear?
Why do so many changes wait
Along my pathway here?

How oft at morn we see the sun
Send forth its gliding rays,
Then tempest wild and darkest storm
O'ercast the closing days!

Sometimes we're on the mountain top,
Where heavenly breezes blow,
Sometimes we're in the valley deep,
Where darkest waters flow.

Thus, from the cradle to the grave,
In each one's pathway fraught,
And intermingled thus we find
The good we long have sought

But were my cup of bitterness
Ne'er filled full to the brim,
I could not know my neighbor's woe
Nor sympathize with him.

Then, patiently I'll bear my part
In losses, griefs and fears,
To learn to cheer the stricken heart
And dry the mourner's tears

Random Notes by the Way

CANTOWN

There is but little change in this high moral-toned community, one which will stand the test of comparison with any other that it has been my privilege to move in, and not be impaired by the comparison. A gentleness, candor and mutual respect that challenges admiration pervades the neighborhood. We confess this due to a kind Providence expressed in the religious element.

The farms are steadily gaining in productiveness—some improvement in buildings. Notably, the home erected by Mr. F. Tennant, which is beautiful, and must be rated among the finest farm residences in the country, one that would attract the attention of traveller or tourist.

The Joint Stock Dairy Co. contemplate in a few years building a cheese factory—a model of convenience and utility and decorative in its external appearance. They are abundantly able and willing and the good taste and good sense evinced in their handling and embellished schoolhouse is an evidence of the future. They will advise with Mr. Pubio.

Mr. O. L. Gibson has made cheese for these dairymen for 28 years, with satisfaction to the patrons, the salesmen and buyers. His record is a very exceptional one, as a man, a neighbor, a cheese maker. During that 28 years he has not had an average loss by accident or otherwise of one dollar a year. Will probably continue here as long as he makes cheese. He is also a successful beekeeper, has 90 colonies now. I omitted to say that his complimentary letters from buyers, expressing their pleasure in handling his make, stating that there was nothing approaching a note of complaint from the English buyers, must be gratifying to this company.

The boy we used to call "Doctor," because he looked as if some day he could easily become a doctor, Mr. Blake Hogaboon, is now a young man grown and running a general store successfully, at the corner.

This locality and the interests of Yonge Front are favored and ably represented in municipal matters by two gentlemen of long experience who are eminently qualified to discharge the duties and responsibilities devolving on them—Mr. R. R. Phillips as reeve and Mr. J. Connolly as county commissioner, or county councillor.

Mr. David T. Tennant, a very successful and well and favorably known farmer, has been dangerously ill a long time. His many friends will be pleased to learn that he is convalescing nicely. He is held in high esteem by those who know him intimately—patient with all and benevolent to the poor.

Miss Alice Tennant, long and well known in Athens as student and teacher, left her school near Toronto in charge of a college graduate and hastened to the bedside of her father where she remained until he appeared to be out of danger. She has returned to her school, Mrs. H. R. Knowton of Athens taking her place for a few days.

Miss Tennant has a fine large school near the city. She describes the location as picturesque, made beautiful by decorations of art as well as nature's lovely display, inclosed by a charming agricultural district. She is careful to give home-work according to pupil's capacity, equally careful in corrections and reviews, using much of her spare time in this way. I have no permission for making the following remarks. I venture to mention because of the power of example—

Miss Tennant gives one-tenth of her income to aid in the Lord's work. This amounts to from 40 to 50 dollars annually. Sometimes she adds to this. She seems to realize that no one can take money or valuables with them to Paradise. In that part of the universe a superior quality of gold is used to make sidewalks. It is the discipline of self sacrifice and self-denial she desires, because the tried can be trusted in all eternity.

There are strong indications that within the next generation the wonderful words of Paul will be verified—"Changed in a twinkling of an eye caught up to meet the Lord in the air." You remember about the 100 Rabbis, Scribes and Pharisees, loaded with gifts in the temple. The 100 with their loads were placed on one side of the scales of Divine Justice and our Lord just puts the poor widow and her mite on the other side of the scales, and presto, up go all the Rabbis and Priests with their gold, learning, pride of life and all—all—like chaff. No self sacrifice, no self denial there—no oil in their lamps. The door of the Bride chamber will never open to one of them again.

Pleasure loving ladies and gentlemen will with a majestic air give one dollar to the Christ who died in most intense agony, for them, and then give $10,000 to embellish their landscape, decorate their grounds and adorn their cottage for the applause of society.

Broad is the way, lined with double rows of lovely, cool, pleasant shady groves along its borders, fitted up with a great variety of fascinating pleasures and amusements. This broad way has many winding paths in it, deviating among flowery beds of ease. The descent is easy, prospect ahead is inviting, very slippery near the end, impossible to return—in an unexpected moment we are precipitated over the Falls of Eternal Ruin. Broad is the way, a merry crowd fills it; narrow the rugged Path of Life, with here and there a traveller.

Our Saviour says, "Blessed are they that weep and mourn now for they shall laugh and rejoice, bye and bye."

You will remember also that in the last hour Christ divides all people into two classes, right and left. They on the left are lost, because willfully destitute of Salvation covenant. They are also judged by their works, out of the books. My Syriac testament indicates paths. Inasmuch as ye did it not unto one of the least of these my little brothers ye did it not unto me. This is the vernacular tongue in which Christ and his apostles taught; therefore the common people heard him gladly. It is a most charming book. I also have the Interlinear Greek Emphatic Diaglott Testament, a great work. But the most delightful translation is the 20th Century, by a score of the profoundest scholars of the age, chosen by leading denominations. Young people are fascinated with it.

The Holy Spirit chose the purest classical Greek in which to commit our sacred books.

The Shoe Social

As public entertainers, the "May-flowers" have every reason to be satisfied with the way in which they bloomed on Friday evening and the measure of appreciation they were accorded. The home of Rev and Mrs. Beckstedt was filled almost to overflowing, and both seniors and juniors enjoyed a pleasant evening. Refreshments were served and the ice cream booth was liberally patronized. The proceeds will form a good nucleus in the treasury of the mission band. Following is the programme presented:—
