OPEN YOUR HEARTS.

In dispensing your Christmas generosity do not fail to remember those noble charitable institutions of the city which depend so much upon the kindness of its open-hearted people. The various Homes which are maintained by public contributions and managed by warm-hearted men and women for the support of young and old who are unable to help themselves, should, at this season, specially appeal to the Spirit of Charity which is abroad in the land. Amid all your consideration for your friends, remember the friendless. A little out of your plenty will do much to make life pleasant for those who depend upon your goodwill and practical charity. A great and good work is being done by these institutions, and those who devote so much time and effort to their management will be thankful for any contributions forwarded. Make it Christmas in these homes as well as in your families. Be it much or little, whatever you may give, and whatever form the gift may take, it will be thankfully welcomed, and the bread which you thus cast upon the waters will not be lost.

HARD ON COOK.

The University of Copenhagen, after a careful study of the data submitted by Dr. Cook, has decided that it furnishes no sufficient proof that he reached the North Pole.

This decision will not be cause for astonishment to any who have closely followed the discussion of the claims which Cook made and who read his own story with critical care. The story was obviously written to sell to the newspaper agency that exploited it, and was remarkable principally for its lack of scientific grasp and profusion of adjectives. When the explorer's data and observations on route were required he said it would take a month to prepare them. Data and observations which have to be "prepared" in New York are very poor evidence as to polar discovery.

The University of Copenhagen has an unpleasant work to do in criticising Cook's data and rejecting his claims. When he first burst upon the world with his claim of having unheralded—even in secrecy—conquered the difficulties and obstacles of the Arctic and placed the United States flag on the pole, the University of Copenhagen with generous haste proceeded to grant him a degree and showered honors and kindness upon him. Later it found many reasons to repent of its impulsiveness—a course that rendered it liable to being abused by fakirs. Evidence multiplied to cause doubt in Cook's bona fides, and before finally ratifying his claim the university decided on a careful study of his story. Hard as it must have been, it swallowed its chagrin and puts the seal of doubt—which in its case is saying much—upon the polar claimant, thus admitting its own blunder in doing him honor.

In this country few scientific men have allowed Cook's claim. The internal evidences were not in its favor. To add to that weakness, the affidavits recently published show, if they are true, that he engaged help to "prepare" the observations and story in New York; and those who helped say that he is utterly ignorant of the simple scientific method of taking the necessary observations. However that may be, the university's finding, following Cook's disappearance, probably puts an end to a very disagreeable incident, and justifies a good deal of Peary's statement which some have regarded as ungenerous, if not churlish.

AVOIDING DIVISIONS.

The arrangement which is said to have been made between the Liberals and the Laborites, whereby three-cornered fights will be avoided in many constituencies, is very disappointing to the Unionists, who had counted on gaining much by a division of the Government supporters. It is not improbable that there may still be a few places in which the arrangement will not be lived up to, but already in a number of the constituencies the third candidate has withdrawn. In Barkston Ash (Yorkshire) Mr. Lindsay drops out, leaving the fight between Horne (Lib.) and Fox (Unionist). It was hoped by the Unionists that a division created by a Labor candidate would enable Fox (Unionist) to hold the seat easily, as there were at last election 10,294 voters, and of the vote polled Fox got 4,894, a majority of 648. As it is he will probably lose his seat. Among other constituencies of which arrangements of a like kind have been made are the following:

Midlothian, which gave a Liberal majority of 3,217 at last election.

Rotherham, Liberal by acclamation at last election.

Crews (Cheshire), Liberal.

Stalybridge, Liberal by 454 majority.

Newport District (Shropshire); Conservative by 166 majority at last election.

Monmouth District, in which there was a three-cornered fight, a Liberal being elected by 592 over a Unionist after a Labor candidate had drawn off 1,678 votes.

East Carmarthen, in which a Liberal was unopposed.

Coventry, in which a Liberal had 1,092 majority.

Mid-Glamorgan, which elected a Liberal unopposed.

East Northampton, where the Liberal had 3,003 majority.

Plymouth, where two Liberals were returned at last election.

In Leigh (Lancashire) the Liberal candidate will give way to the Labor candidate. It was in this constituency that D. McMaster was defeated by a Liberal at last election by 2,006 majority.

There have been a large number of similar arrangements made, but the foregoing are all that have been announced by the parties up to date. In all cases in which a Liberal, a Labor and a Unionist candidate contested a constituency at the last election the withdrawal of the third candidate will give strength to the Government cause. It may mean much in deciding the contest now on.

OUR ICE CREAM.

The ice cream season has almost passed away when bulletin No. 109 issued by the Inland Revenue Department appears to inform us as to the commercial article dispensed during the summer. The Department's inspectors collected 140 samples to be tested, but the Vancouver samples, ten in number, were rendered unfit for analysis by the heat and churning of the journey. Of 129 samples tested, only 45 showed a percentage of butter fat of 16 per cent and upwards; of those, only 17 tested, 20 per cent. Fifty-seven samples ranged from 11 to 15 per cent, and 27 samples from 2 to 10 per cent. The United States standard for milk fat in ice cream is 14 per cent, and this the analyst regards as a reasonable one. Only 65 of the 129 samples tested would come up to that standard. It is suggested that where fruits or nuts are used to give flavor, a fat content of 12 per cent should be established. Of course, there being no legal standard in Canada, even the poorest of the samples tested cannot be described as adulterated; but the Department classes all below 10 per cent as of very poor quality. A remark is made upon the coloring of ice cream and upon the use of gelatine, corn starch and other "thickeners." Some manufacturers argue that these "thickeners" are necessary; but it is noted that most of the samples in which they are used have a low percentage of butter fat. It is also pointed out that while nut ice cream, chocolate ice cream and fruit ice cream are advertised as regular articles of commerce, nobody advertises "stiffened" or "thickened" ice cream. This appears to indicate that the thickening process is recognized as not being to the advantage of the consumer. Moreover, the analyst calls attention to the fact that "stiffeners could not be added to conceal defects, if the required percentage of milk fat were also present."

EDITORIAL NOTES.

Lord Rosebery wants a declaration from the House of Lords that it will undertake reform from within. Reform of the House of Lords by the House of Lords is not likely to be very drastic.

Ald. Gardner, Chairman of the Markets Committee, merits all the compliments bestowed upon him by his colleagues in the Council. The committee has made a fine record this year, and not a little of the credit is due to him.

Japan's budget for 1910-1911 estimates receipts at $287,000,000, of which $181,000,000 is from taxes. Out of this $43,000,000 is from the Customs. The Customs are inferior to and $30,500,000 for payment on the national debt. Only $4,500,000 of the large sum goes for education.

A Dundee manufacturer is reported to have contributed £10,000 to the funds for the Liberal campaign. His gift is intended to be used in the defence of British free trade. British manufacturers will not stand by and see freedom of trade menaced; they know on which side their bread is buttered.

Mayor McLaren's summary of the work of the Council of 1909 appears to have added frenzy to the Herald's hatred; and it indulges in a column of splanetic abuse of him. The principal feature of its exhibition is absence of appeal to the common sense of the ratepayers. "There ain't nothin' to it," as Riley would say. "The impotent belchings of unreasoning rage."

The movement to prevent the discharging of untreated sewage into rivers is spreading in the United States. An inter-state commission is preparing a bill based on information obtained by careful inquiry, to require the treatment by purification of all sewage before it is discharged into the Ohio River. The matter is one of great importance to sanitation, and is likely to evoke much discussion, as it involves great interests.

The protectionists of Holland were, a short time ago, said to have obtained a majority of the general elections, and we heard much about a bill to increase import duties by 30 per cent. Now it is announced that so strong has been the opposition to it in business circles that it has been dropped, and its promoters are assuring the public that it was considered only as a means of supplementing the falling revenue. The Dutch people do not want protection.

A short time ago Mr. S. H. Blake made a bitter attack upon the University of Toronto in respect to its teaching in the Department of religious knowledge. A special committee was appointed to investigate the charges, and it finds that they were not well founded. The committee finds that the University Act does not exclude all interpretation of the Bible—that many of the studies, notably Oriental languages, ethics, ancient history and Greek, require the assistance of that study. The committee significantly remarks that "whether such teaching is consistent with or is opposed to the orthodox position connected with the Bible neither your committee nor the Board of Governors has any right to interfere." The committee evidently does not share Mr. Blake's terror that "orthodoxy" is in danger from the university professors.

"Tariff reform," the euphemism employed by the British Tories for protection, is leading to difficulties for the party already. The publishing trade is alarmed at the prospect of taxing wood pulp. Mr. Balfour is silent, and a letter has been given out in Mr. Chamberlain's name in which it is intimated that while he has no authority to speak for the party, he "would suppose" that wood pulp would come under the head of raw materials. The nearer this protection question is approached, the more numerous and important the difficulties become.

The artificiality of the high prices of food is well illustrated in this comparison of the prices charged to Toronto retail purchasers with the prices obtained by tenders for that city's Isolation Hospital. Apparently the householder is unmercifully "done":

Tender price. Ordinary retail price.
Bread, 3-lb. loaf	8 cents 10 cents
Milk, gallon	20 cents 22 cents
Steak, lb.	10 cents 20 cents
Bacon	12 cents 22 cents

This is the neat way the Winnipeg Free Press reads the contents of the "Little Canadians" who deny Canada's capacity to deal with the building of a naval defence unit, arguing that we should give a contribution in cash instead.

Canada cannot build a navy; she has no engineers, no builders; no competent artisans. Moreover, there are no honest men in the country, and if we try to build a ship the grafters would steal everything in sight. If we build the ships we could not man them. All Canadians are hopeless landlubbers. We are degenerate descendants of the sea dogs who carried England's flag into every sea. The Germans can build, equip and handle ships; so can the French, the Italians, the Russians, the Americans, the Japs; but the Canadians are inferior to the people of these nationalities.

Dealing with the faults of United States technical schools Prof. Robertson, of the Massachusetts Institute of Technology, complains much of the neglect of English and its bad effect upon the students. He argues that "English must be taught as a tool, not as an ornament. And if it is to be taught as a tool, it is high time that our technical schools exercised their acknowledged deep influence in educational matters by insisting on better preparation in English on the part of the students admitted to them." That agrees with the frequently expressed opinion of the Times that admission of students to the technical schools should be based on a sound groundwork in the ordinary subjects.

Just before noon to-day the committee representing the Hydromaniac clique waited upon Mr. T. J. Stewart and made its strongest appeal to him to come forward and give opposition to Mayor McLaren at the forthcoming municipal election. Mr. Stewart had weighed the matter carefully, and he most emphatically declined to undertake such a contest. A few of the more irresponsible still seek vent for their malice against the Mayor, and propose, as a last resort, to appeal to the vanity of Ald. Hopkins, in the hope that he may be brought to regard even the chance of a thorough trouncing by Mayor McLaren at the polls as something to be desired as a notoriety-bringer. They are loath to give up the hope of having a "bar" opened. An election without a "bar" is a mighty dry thing for the grafters.

The Victoria Colonist (Conservative) reproves some of the Government's critics on the naval question, remarking that "the character of the allusions of some of our contemporaries to the proposed Canadian navy, which treat it as though it were going to be worse than useless, seem very paltry. We regret to see that at least one Conservative journal speaks with undisguised glee of an alleged prospect—that hostility to an allied programme of any sort on the part of certain Liberals in Ontario and Quebec may seriously embarrass the Government in carrying out the wishes of Parliament." This is well said. There is an obvious disposition, not only on the part of occasional Tory editors, but on the part of Opposition politicians, to seek for excuses for discrediting Canada's policy in naval matters. This may be good as a matter of small party tactics. That it is statesmanship nobody believes.

The [Galt] Reporter states what is not true when it says that every step taken has been in accordance with justice and common sense. We believe that Premier Whitney intended that it should have been so, but, unfortunately, the Premier was not all the time on the job, and the men in direct control lacked Sir James' finer sense of justice and common sense—Hamilton Spectator.

The first statement is entirely and indisputably true. The second intended to excuse the Premier's perjury in the matter is an excuse that is in itself an accusation even did it fairly state the case. But it does not. Whitney's Hydro-Electric scheme was conceived in spite, born in malice, and nurtured on injustice, and it has been forwarded by legislation and administrative acts which are a shame to a legislature and a disgrace to the Government's fathering them. In private life their authors would be dealt with by the courts established to suppress dishonesty and wrongdoing. That the Whitney Government fully realized the nefariousness of its course is shown by the fact that it procured the closing of the courts against looking into the nature of its dealings in regard to the scheme. It is a history for which decent men may well blush.

THE LAST CHANCE.
(Toronto Star.)
There will soon be time only to buy them late, if at all.

THE SHORTEST DAY.
(London Free Press.)
This is the shortest day of the year. And one of the few that remain for the late Christmas shopper, at that.

BABY'S TREE.
(Buffalo Express.)
"It is the baby's Christmas tree," the parents proudly boast; But who stands round and gapes at it And talks about it most?

POOR PLACE FOR PRINTERS.
(Galt Reporter.)
Palmerston is said to be the charnal house of journalism in Ontario. Thirteen different newspapermen have buried their hopes and their spare cash there in the last few years.

WHAT'S THE MATTER.
(Galt Reporter.)
The Toronto verdict may be accepted as the expression of workingmen who had hoped for much from Mr. King, but he is compelled to confess that to them he is a broken reed.

THE RED FLAG.
(London Advertiser.)
The Rev. A. J. Vining, of the Talbot Street Baptist Church, says that the House of Lords is the enemy of liberty, and he hopes that its power will be destroyed. It is now in order for our local contemporary to call Mr. Vining a "red flag preacher."

A GREAT HOUSE.
(Toronto News.)
Just returned from England, where he was privileged to listen to the budget debate in the House of Lords, Hon. Rodolphe Lemieux declares that the House represents the greatest aggregation of intellect, wealth and oratory the world has ever seen.

"IT PAYS TO ADVERTISE."
(Mail and Order Journal.)
There was a man in our town who thought he was wondrous wise; He swore by all the abled gods that he'd never advertise.

NOT TO BENEFIT LABOR.
(Winnipeg Tribune, Tory.)
What do the reports show? That the average rate of wages for men employed in British cotton mills in 1906 for 52 weeks against $7.71 for men serving as operatives in American mills in 1906. The difference in wages was more than offset by the higher speed at which American operatives work. In addition to this there is the fact that the British workman pays at least 50 per cent. less for his clothing than is paid by his American brother. Coal, food and rents are also lower in England than they are in the United States. Measured by the earning power of the money received cotton operatives in Lancashire, in free trade England, are very much better off than the operatives in the highly protected mills of Lowell.

Where, then, do the profits of production go? They are applied to the production of millionaires, of whom there are some two thousand in New York State alone.

NO FEARS.

Donnacona and Strathcona Will Arrive All Right.

No fear is entertained at the offices of the Inland Navigation Company about the big steamers Donnacona and Strathcona, which were caught in the ice in lower Detroit River. They are expected to arrive in Buffalo this afternoon.

A Windsor despatch says: The steamers Donnacona and Strathcona, both belonging to the Inland Navigation Company of Hamilton, which were caught in the ice in lower Detroit River on Sunday, were released yesterday by tugs. They made their way out and the river, but still have about 30 miles of ice to fight before reaching clear water in Lake Erie. Both vessels are bound to Buffalo, and are the last boats of the season to pass Detroit.

Crawford's Chocolates Superior.

A nice box of good candy is always a very acceptable gift. You are a welcome visitor in the evening if you have a box of Crawford's candy with you. We claim our best chocolates are equal or superior to any chocolates made in this or any other country; no reason why they should not be. Why pay the Government 35 cents every time you buy a $1 box of imported candy? It must be for the label on the box—it is certainly not for its contents.

We import at a very low rate of duty the best raw material that can be obtained. We use the best that Canada can produce, skilled mechanics combine these materials and produce an article that cannot be excelled. You get our candy hot from the candy shop every hour of the day. We have some very handsome boxes and baskets, also many novelties. The address is Crawford's, 34 King street west.

HERE'S GOOD SUGGESTION.

The Christmas gift of a season ticket to the Thistle skating rink is one that will bear testimony to the thoughtfulness of the giver and the delight of the recipient. This popular rink on Robinson street opens with a band Wednesday evening and everything is in readiness for skaters. There is splendid ice and a jolly time is expected.

Y. W. C. A. APPOINTMENTS.

At a special meeting of the Y. W. C. A. Board this morning it was decided to engage Mr. and Mrs. J. Quinn as caretakers of the new building, their duties to commence on the first of the new year. There were thirty-six applications for this position. Miss Miller, the physical director from Toronto, will reside permanently in this city, and will devote the whole of her time to the new gymnasium classes.

$150,000 FIRE.

Grand Rapids, Mich., Dec. 21.—Fire, originating last night at the headquarters of the Signal Company's clock store, in this city, resulted in probably losses aggregating $150,000, in the heart of the downtown shopping district.

EIGHT DEAD.

Details of Disaster to London Department Store.

Not Known If Any of the Customers Were Lost.

London, Dec. 21.—Five bodies were recovered this morning from the fire-made ruins of the dry goods store in the Clapham quarter. The known dead number eight. The search was continued throughout the day, but was necessarily slow and it may be a day or two before the casualty list has been determined. It appears that all the employees have been accounted for, but there were hundreds of Christmas shoppers on the spacious floors when the fire broke out yesterday.

The block occupied by the firm consisted of a number of separate small shops. The proprietors, who were on the premises, as well as the heads of departments, acted with coolness and promptitude. Immediately the flames were discovered the customers were led across the buildings to a side street, where all made their exit in safety. So far as can be learned not a single patron of the store was hurt.

There were about 500 employees in the building. Four were instantly killed by leaping from the third story. Five are in the hospital with severe injuries caused by jumping while the flames were discovered. Several were slightly burned. Most of the injured were able to go to their homes after having their hurts dressed at a hospital. If any customers lost their lives the fact is not known at present, and will only be learned after the work of clearing up the debris proceeds.

CHURCH EVENT

Marriage of P. A. C. McIntyre and Miss Clarke Yesterday.

On Monday, Dec. 20th, at 1.30 p. m., St. Peter's Church was the scene of a very pretty ceremony, when Mr. P. A. C. McIntyre, of Winnipeg, Man., and Miss Ethel May Clarke, of this city, were united in the holy bonds of matrimony, the Rev. T. W. TenEyck officiating.

The bride was charming in a dress of pale blue tulle, trimmed with Irish point lace, wore the customary veil and orange blossoms, and carried a beautiful bouquet of lilies of the valley, also a prayer book, a gift from the pastor. Her sister, Miss Velma Clarke, attired in chiffon silk, trimmed with oriental lace and carrying a bouquet of American beauty roses, assisted the bride, while the groom was supported by Mr. James W. Culhane. After the ceremony the happy couple returned to the home of the bride's parents, at 477 King William street, where, together with a large number of friends, they partook of a sumptuous breakfast.

There were numerous and beautiful presents, among them being a silver tray, a gift from the members of St. Peter's choir, with whom the bride has been associated for a number of years. The groom's gift to the bride was a gold locket and chain, to the bridesmaid a pair of gold cuff links, his gift to the bride being a Gerhard Heilmann piano. Mr. and Mrs. McIntyre left 5.45 for Chicago, and other western cities, where they intend making short visits, after which they will proceed to their new home in Winnipeg, Man.
